INDOOR TRACK MEET

Annual Struggle to Be Held This Month

With the basketball season closed and baseball not yet claiming attention, track athletics have a good chance to come into prominence. Altogether this body of track activities, the annual indoor track meet will be held the 26th this month.

Last year the meet was combined of many teams, notably, Students and Sophomore vs. Junior-Freshman. This year there is: that the manager and students are the home team this year.

The following is the program for the track meet:
1. Yard dash, rope climb, and hurdles.
2. Four-mile run.
3. Hurdle race.
4. Long jump.
5. Shot put.
6. Relay race.

STATE COLLEGE
FACULTY MEMBERS GIVEN PROMINENCE

Pres. Brubacher and Prof. Painter Have Prominent Articles in "The U.S. and American Education"

In the March issue of "American Education," an educational magazine published by the New York Education Society, two of our prominent professors, Professor Brubacher and Professor Painter, have had articles published in it.

The former is the last of the series of "The Problem of Language Study," written by him.

Mr. Painter receives the report of the red of the New York Education Society, two of his articles have been published in this magazine.

The one is entitled, "The Problem of Language Study," which is a description of the society's main problems and energy, and efficiency; it acts like the release of a spring. The English-Saxon people are veteran democracies so is magnificent.

Mr. Painter has been for a century leading the field in this, but what a long road must Russia travel before she becomes.

The narrow ribbon of blood-soaked soil which runs from the north to the Swiss Frontier called "No-Man's Land" does much more than divide two armies; where, raising parties plumes annually mighty. It separates two profoundly different systems of thought and of society. For the masses, one represents hope, the other despair; one represents optimism, the other catastrophe; one aims to make the world better for all men, the other to make it better for a few.

It is the ideal of one, war the ideal of the other; the one with all its faults believes that somehow men are brothers and it worships a God conceived of as a Father to all peoples; the other, dedicated to the proposition that man are not brothers and it worships power and plunder and blood and Adonis.

Some are who attempt to bring about the issues of the great war, and demand a re-statement of the war aims, talk of freedom of the right of freedom of speech, and religious freedom. They are little people.

They forget or never remember that freedom herself is being fought for on the plains of France, for the Versailles and the future. For the home, and the Allies. Such talk is a kind of domestic misadventure.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Professor Painter is the author of "The Movement Toward Democracy." He went on to say, "The movement toward democracy was the great idea of Christianity 1500 years ago, the speaker went on to say, that democracy is spreading.

The movement toward democracy has been the world-wide, and that democracy has gone on for a century and a half. Freedom has invaded every home of the world.

Professor Walker held that leaders in a state can no more be chosen by hereditary than writers of poetry or basketball players.

He went on to say, "Democracy is the movement toward society a maximum of energy and efficiency; it acts like the release of a spring. The English-Saxon people are veteran democracies so is magnificent.

Mr. Painter has been for a century leading the field in this, but what a long road must Russia travel before she becomes.

The narrow ribbon of blood-soaked soil which runs from the north to the Swiss Frontier called "No-Man's Land" does much more than divide two armies; where, raising parties plumes annually mighty. It separates two profoundly different systems of thought and of society. For the masses, one represents hope, the other despair; one represents optimism, the other catastrophe; one aims to make the world better for all men, the other to make it better for a few.

It is the ideal of one, war the ideal of the other; the one with all its faults believes that somehow men are brothers and it worships a God conceived of as a Father to all peoples; the other, dedicated to the proposition that man are not brothers and it worships power and plunder and blood and Adonis.

Some are who attempt to bring about the issues of the great war, and demand a re-statement of the war aims, talk of freedom of the right of freedom of speech, and religious freedom. They are little people.

They forget or never remember that freedom herself is being fought for on the plains of France, for the Versailles and the future. For the home, and the Allies. Such talk is a kind of domestic misadventure.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Professor Painter is the author of "The Movement Toward Democracy." He went on to say, "The movement toward democracy was the great idea of Christianity 1500 years ago, the speaker went on to say, that democracy is spreading.

The movement toward democracy has been the world-wide, and that democracy has gone on for a century and a half. Freedom has invaded every home of the world.

Professor Walker held that leaders in a state can no more be chosen by hereditary than writers of poetry or basketball players.

He went on to say, "Democracy is the movement toward society a maximum of energy and efficiency; it acts like the release of a spring. The English-Saxon people are veteran democracies so is magnificent.

Mr. Painter has been for a century leading the field in this, but what a long road must Russia travel before she becomes.

The narrow ribbon of blood-soaked soil which runs from the north to the Swiss Frontier called "No-Man's Land" does much more than divide two armies; where, raising parties plumes annually mighty. It separates two profoundly different systems of thought and of society. For the masses, one represents hope, the other despair; one represents optimism, the other catastrophe; one aims to make the world better for all men, the other to make it better for a few.

It is the ideal of one, war the ideal of the other; the one with all its faults believes that somehow men are brothers and it worships a God conceived of as a Father to all peoples; the other, dedicated to the proposition that man are not brothers and it worships power and plunder and blood and Adonis.

Some are who attempt to bring about the issues of the great war, and demand a re-statement of the war aims, talk of freedom of the right of freedom of speech, and religious freedom. They are little people.

They forget or never remember that freedom herself is being fought for on the plains of France, for the Versailles and the future. For the home, and the Allies. Such talk is a kind of domestic misadventure.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Professor Painter is the author of "The Movement Toward Democracy." He went on to say, "The movement toward democracy was the great idea of Christianity 1500 years ago, the speaker went on to say, that democracy is spreading.

The movement toward democracy has been the world-wide, and that democracy has gone on for a century and a half. Freedom has invaded every home of the world.

Professor Walker held that leaders in a state can no more be chosen by hereditary than writers of poetry or basketball players.

He went on to say, "Democracy is the movement toward society a maximum of energy and efficiency; it acts like the release of a spring. The English-Saxon people are veteran democracies so is magnificent.

Mr. Painter has been for a century leading the field in this, but what a long road must Russia travel before she becomes.

The narrow ribbon of blood-soaked soil which runs from the north to the Swiss Frontier called "No-Man's Land" does much more than divide two armies; where, raising parties plumes annually mighty. It separates two profoundly different systems of thought and of society. For the masses, one represents hope, the other despair; one represents optimism, the other catastrophe; one aims to make the world better for all men, the other to make it better for a few.

It is the ideal of one, war the ideal of the other; the one with all its faults believes that somehow men are brothers and it worships a God conceived of as a Father to all peoples; the other, dedicated to the proposition that man are not brothers and it worships power and plunder and blood and Adonis.

Some are who attempt to bring about the issues of the great war, and demand a re-statement of the war aims, talk of freedom of the right of freedom of speech, and religious freedom. They are little people.

They forget or never remember that freedom herself is being fought for on the plains of France, for the Versailles and the future. For the home, and the Allies. Such talk is a kind of domestic misadventure.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Mr. Painter has been for a century leading the field in this, but what a long road must Russia travel before she becomes.

The narrow ribbon of blood-soaked soil which runs from the north to the Swiss Frontier called "No-Man's Land" does much more than divide two armies; where, raising parties plumes annually mighty. It separates two profoundly different systems of thought and of society. For the masses, one represents hope, the other despair; one represents optimism, the other catastrophe; one aims to make the world better for all men, the other to make it better for a few.

It is the ideal of one, war the ideal of the other; the one with all its faults believes that somehow men are brothers and it worships a God conceived of as a Father to all peoples; the other, dedicated to the proposition that man are not brothers and it worships power and plunder and blood and Adonis.

Some are who attempt to bring about the issues of the great war, and demand a re-statement of the war aims, talk of freedom of the right of freedom of speech, and religious freedom. They are little people.

They forget or never remember that freedom herself is being fought for on the plains of France, for the Versailles and the future. For the home, and the Allies. Such talk is a kind of domestic misadventure.

Professor Painter's chief work, however, has been in the class, where he has touched the lives of thousands of students. His clear vision, broad scholarship, and master of his subject.

Professor Painter is the author of "The Movement Toward Democracy." He went on to say, "The movement toward democracy was the great idea of Christianity 1500 years ago, the speaker went on to say, that democracy is spreading.

The movement toward democracy has been the world-wide, and that democracy has gone on for a century and a half. Freedom has invaded every home of the world.

Professor Walker held that leaders in a state can no more be chosen by hereditary than writers of poetry or basketball players.

He went on to say, "Democracy is the movement toward society a maximum of energy and efficiency; it acts like the release of a spring. The English-Saxon people are veteran democracies so is magnificent.
The Third Liberty Loan is here. It is the last one who remain here to make this great war a success in armies in France are just beginning to be effective. What can we do to help them? Several hundred of our own boys have done service to our flag. How many more lives are to be lost, depending upon the cross of one of us does his share, you and give after you have had all you have, food, and give some more. America has only begun, once given. Our endurance has been in no proportion been tested. When we are called upon to give up necessities of food and shelter, when those who we love are dead in France instead of asleep in Spartanburg, when we, the ones at home, have nothing left but life, then we can say that the war has asked us much. But now when our only sacrifices have been lives and not sacrifices, we must not neglect lending a hand. Our money our nation has enabled us to do, to the preservation of that nation and the young man who love her banner. The German morale will be strengthened if we do our solidary thing for hope. In the next three years and a half, they have had very few real successes. Their history has been a history of repeated failures; all their trump cards have proved to be smaller than those in the hands of our noble ally. The third Liberty Loan is apt to be hurt by the fact that many have and are spending for thrift and war saving accounts, what they would otherwise have spent on a bond, but not on a bond. All our all is at stake — life, honor, love. What is the pleasure in a new suit compared to the thrill we get when the boys on the corner cut our German laus and Repulse? In Dr. Finley's book on "French Schools in War Time," he quotes a young French teacher as saying, "I preferred to put a gun in the hands of a soldier rather than boy a new dress. The large, the long, and the heavy. That can be given by the wealth — let us give them for their lives or a large sum. Out of all the years in future years, the American flag still flying so free! We still care less heads? How can we say that sacrifice is enough to be sufficient? American boys love her banner. The third Liberty Loan is apt to be hurt by the fact that many have and are spending for thrift and war saving accounts, what they would otherwise have spent on a bond, but not on a bond. All our all is at stake — life, honor, love. What is the pleasure in a new suit compared to the thrill we get when the boys on the corner cut our German laus and Repulse? In Dr. Finley's book on "French Schools in War Time," he quotes a young French teacher as saying, "I preferred to put a gun in the hands of a soldier rather than boy a new dress. The large, the long, and the heavy. That can be given by the wealth — let us give them for their lives or a large sum. Out of all the years in future years, the American flag still flying so free! We still care less heads? How can we say that sacrifice is enough to be sufficient?
STATE COLLEGE NEWS, APRIL 17, 1918 Page Three

JOHNNY FLANAGAN

John J. Conkey

Agents For
Hart, Shaffer & Marx
Clothes
Regal Shoes

Saward & Colburn
25 cents. an hour

United States Army

John J. Conkey

NEWS DEALER

Cigars, Candy and Stationery
PRINTING and DEVELOPING
ELECTRICAL SUPPLIES - CAMERA FILMS
215 Central Ave. N.Y. Phone Well 1817

PRICE, SERVICE AND QUALITY PRINTERS

HAMPTON PRINTING COMPANY

240 HAMILTON STREET :: ALBANY, N.Y.

LICK A STAMP TO
LICK THE RAISER

OFFICIAL CALENDAR

TO-DAY, April 17:
3:30 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.

THURSDAY, April 18:
7:00 p.m., Y. W. C. A. Meeting, Auditorium.
8:00 p.m., Illustrated Lecture, "Birds," Prof. R. B. Bronson, Under the auspices of the Chemistry Club, Auditorium.

FRIDAY, April 19:
9:00 a.m., Student Assembly, Auditorium.
1:45 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.
3:15 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.
4:30 p.m., Lecture, "Education in a Democracy," President A. R. Brubacher, Auditorium.
5:00 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.
7:30 p.m., War Cross, Surgical Dressing, Room B-1.
8:00 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.
10:30 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.

SUNDAY, April 21:
3:50 p.m., Y. W. C. A. Discussion Group, Room 106.

Monden, April 22:
3:00 p.m., Yeash, Room B-1.
4:00 p.m., Democracy Discussion Group, Room 106.

SUNDAY, April 21:
3:50 p.m., Y. W. C. A. Discussion Group, Room 106.

SATURDAY, April 20:
2:00 p.m., Dancing Class, Gymnasium.
8:00 p.m., Delta Omega, College Hall.

JUNIOR NOTES

At the Junior class meeting on Thursday the class voted to buy a Liberty Bond. Honors are asked to give their money to any of the following members of the committee: Gertrude Schermerhorn, Harriet Poole, Bernice Bronner, and Helen Fay. The by-laws proposed by the committee on the constitution were accepted by the class.

Y. W. C. A. ELECTIONS

The Y. W. C. A. elections resulted as follows: President, Caroline Lipes, 19; Vice-President, Gertrude Schermerhorn, 19; Secretary, Ethel Stutsman, 19; Treasurer, Louis Knox, 19, and Annual Member, Harriet Church, 19.

Y. W. C. A. ELECTIONS

The Y. W. C. A. elections resulted as follows: President, Caroline Lipes, 19; Vice-President, Gertrude Schermerhorn, 19; Secretary, Ethel Stutsman, 19; Treasurer, Louis Knox, 19, and Annual Member, Harriet Church, 19.

W. C. A. ELECTIONS

The W. C. A. elections resulted as follows: President, Caroline Lipes, 19; Vice-President, Gertrude Schermerhorn, 19; Secretary, Ethel Stutsman, 19; Treasurer, Louis Knox, 19, and Annual Member, Harriet Church, 19.

HAMPION PRINTING COMPANY

240 HAMILTON STREET :: ALBANY, N.Y.

LICK A STAMP TO
LICK THE RAISER

Brennan's Stationery Store
Washington and No. Lake Ave.
Near State College

Cotrell & Leonard
Makers of
CAPS, GOWNS, and Hoods
Broadway, Albany

John J. Conkey

PRICE, SERVICE AND QUALITY PRINTERS

Phone West 2823

P. H. RIDER

CLEANSER AND DYER

"The Cleaner that Cleans"
105 Central Ave. Albany, N. Y.

Makin; Treasurer, Helen Fay.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

CONGRATULATIONS

The Faculty Council has provided for a system of college honors which will go into effect with the graduating class for this year. The provisions of the regulations read as follows:

General. The Faculty shall designate one or more than one student of the junior class completing the requirements for graduation who have maintained notably high standing in their studies.

Method of Designation. In determining the number of students to be designated for honors, the Registrar shall compute the standing of each eligible candidate by counting 2 points for every semester hour in which he secures credit with a grade of A, 1 point for B, 0.5 for C, and 0 for D; and shall then divide the total number of points thus secured by the total number of semester hours included in the calculation. Only those candidates who attain an average standing upon this basis of at least 3.50 shall be designated for honors.

Announcement. The names of all honor students, in alphabetical order, shall be printed upon the commencement program and in the College catalogue next year.

Senior students are requested to consult the official bulletin board for notice of appointment with Dr. Hathaway for physical examination.

Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior students are requested to give attention to the question of registering for next year and to consult with their advisors and major officers concerning their work for next year at an early date. Announcement will be made later concerning the specific regulations governing registration which will occur for all students who expect to return next year in the second and third weeks of May.

JUNIOR NOTES

At the Junior class meeting on Thursday the class voted to buy a Liberty Bond. Honors are asked to give their money to any of the following members of the committee: Gertrude Schermerhorn, Harriet Poole, Bernice Bronner, and Helen Fay. The by-laws proposed by the committee on the constitution were accepted by the class.

Mary Conkey and Esther Ford were appointed as marshals for the Commencement program and in the College catalogue next year. Senior students are requested to consult the official bulletin board for notice of appointment with Dr. Hathaway for physical examination.

Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior students are requested to give attention to the question of registering for next year and to consult with their advisors and major officers concerning their work for next year at an early date. Announcement will be made later concerning the specific regulations governing registration which will occur for all students who expect to return next year in the second and third weeks of May.

JUNIOR NOTES

At the Junior class meeting on Thursday the class voted to buy a Liberty Bond. Honors are asked to give their money to any of the following members of the committee: Gertrude Schermerhorn, Harriet Poole, Bernice Bronner, and Helen Fay. The by-laws proposed by the committee on the constitution were accepted by the class.

Mary Conkey and Esther Ford were appointed as marshals for the Commencement program and in the College catalogue next year. Senior students are requested to consult the official bulletin board for notice of appointment with Dr. Hathaway for physical examination.

Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior students are requested to give attention to the question of registering for next year and to consult with their advisors and major officers concerning their work for next year at an early date. Announcement will be made later concerning the specific regulations governing registration which will occur for all students who expect to return next year in the second and third weeks of May.

JUNIOR NOTES

At the Junior class meeting on Thursday the class voted to buy a Liberty Bond. Honors are asked to give their money to any of the following members of the committee: Gertrude Schermerhorn, Harriet Poole, Bernice Bronner, and Helen Fay. The by-laws proposed by the committee on the constitution were accepted by the class.

Mary Conkey and Esther Ford were appointed as marshals for the Commencement program and in the College catalogue next year. Senior students are requested to consult the official bulletin board for notice of appointment with Dr. Hathaway for physical examination.

Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior students are requested to give attention to the question of registering for next year and to consult with their advisors and major officers concerning their work for next year at an early date. Announcement will be made later concerning the specific regulations governing registration which will occur for all students who expect to return next year in the second and third weeks of May.

JUNIOR NOTES

At the Junior class meeting on Thursday the class voted to buy a Liberty Bond. Honors are asked to give their money to any of the following members of the committee: Gertrude Schermerhorn, Harriet Poole, Bernice Bronner, and Helen Fay. The by-laws proposed by the committee on the constitution were accepted by the class.

Mary Conkey and Esther Ford were appointed as marshals for the Commencement program and in the College catalogue next year. Senior students are requested to consult the official bulletin board for notice of appointment with Dr. Hathaway for physical examination.

Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior students are requested to give attention to the question of registering for next year and to consult with their advisors and major officers concerning their work for next year at an early date. Announcement will be made later concerning the specific regulations governing registration which will occur for all students who expect to return next year in the second and third weeks of May.
LIBERTY LOAN DISCUSSED

Continued from page 1

As possibly—peace by negotiation and peace by victory. The former is out of the question. The latter takes money. A small sum in which we might secure would be of great social advantage in the College.

Professor Decker then announced that the Junior Class of 1919 had already fulfilled its intention to purchase a bond, and was the first to get in line. A challenge by Dean Horner to the whole student body followed. He expressed the appreciation of what the College had already done in the previous campaigns, and said that we must awaken much more and respond accordingly to the present need. The holiness of might is now arrayed against the holiness of Right on the Western Front. The right must win there or else spring day on our own soil. When we ask ourselves how much we have suffered personally, the answer is revealing. We find we have not gone hungry, nor without what we deem necessaries. Hence there is no reason why any institution or organization cannot find means to buy at least one bond. We must do not only our bit, not only one day, but all that is in us to do in every way.

The session closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

ECHO BOARD ELECTIONS FOR 1918-1919

The annual Echo board elections were held all day last Friday, resulting in the following list of officers for next year: Editor-in-chief, Winifred Wengel '19; Assistant Editor, Marion Curtis '19; Literary Editor, Elizabeth Osborne '20; Alumni Editor, Hildreth Hance '19; Exchange Editor, Florence Van Ness '20; Joke Editor, Elizabeth Gardner '19; Business Managers, Agnes Demino '19; Subscription Manager, Margaret Vitort '20; Athletic Editors, Madeleine Cummins '20, Lawrence McMahoon '20; Advertising Managers, Alfa Raffle '21, Martin Barry '21; Circulating Managers, Florence Stanley '20, J. Merle Rosewicth '20.

Y. W. C. A.

At the Y. W. C. A. meeting this week, Mr. Moldenbauer will begin a series of three lectures to the association on the 7th Edition of Christianity in the Present World Situations. Those who have heard Mr. Moldenbauer in previous years will realize how important and valuable these talks will be. His subject is one which should especially appeal to us now in our study of the Christian principles of democracy. Let us show our interest by turning out Wednesday at 4:30 P. M.

KAPPA NU

We are more than glad to have our president, Florence Quinlavin, return to college after being detained at home by illness.

Benjamin C. O'Connell '20 visited Marion Hatchett at Skaneateles on her way home from Kansas, for the Easter holidays.

Aileen Russell '19 has returned to college after being detained at home by illness.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

Alpha Epsilon Phi is glad to welcome as pledge members Barbara Golbin '21, Ruth Greenblatt '21.

Five Hundred College Graduates Wanted Immediately

for high salaried high school positions.

Emperor Teachers' Agency

University and High School.

Gustave Lorey

Photographer to the Class of 1918

Special rates to all students

176 State St., Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY DRUG CO.

251 Central Avenue

We Make Our Ice Cream

We Make Our Candy

FRESH EVERY DAY

ALBANY UP-TO-DATE CLOAK MFG. CO.

Manufacturers and Retailers of

Cloaks, Suits, Waists

and

High Grade Furs

63 and 631/2 N. Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.