DAYS'S PROBLEM IN EDUCATION

The question naturally arises as to why the modern school is different in its really is. It is the fact that the school is changed, this being of its nature and aimed toward modern times.

Schools of today are rapidly progressing in many ways. The subjects that were extremely rigid have been made more flexible, with the result that we have less religious and intellectual pressure and more freedom of individuality. The school of today is taken for granted, just as the modern day school is accepted.

Yet with the excellent teaching we have today, there is still one that cannot be hurried as the result of this progress. The authors are prepared to the students, and the teachers are expected to their full capacity. The outcome is evident in the high rating of students in various fields of study.

The school of today is a reflection of the intellectual and cultural activities of the period in which it was created. As the period changes, the school changes, and the intellectual and cultural activities of the period change. The school of today is a reflection of the period in which it was created, and the period changes, the school changes. The school of today is a reflection of the period in which it was created, and the period changes, the school changes. The school of today is a reflection of the period in which it was created, and the period changes, the school changes. The school of today is a reflection of the period in which it was created, and the period changes, the school changes. Chesterfield are Milder

Chesterfield are Milder

You know how it is. If a cigarette is mild—that is, not harsh or bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you like it and don't worry about how many or how often you smoke. And if it tastes right—that is, not oversweet, not that—then you enjoy it even more.

The right kind of ripe, sweet Domestic and Turkish tobaccos—the right aging and blending... make Chesterfields milder, better-tasting... They Satisfy!

ENTERTAINS ALUMNAE

Eunice Rice Messent is editor-in-chief of the "Alumni Quarterly," the publication of the alumni association.
