FOOTBALL REVIVED AT STATE COLLEGE

Friday afternoon, November 12, football will again come into its own at State College when the upperclassmen meet the underclassmen on the Ridgefield gridiron in what will undoubtedly be a spirited and hard-fought contest. The last football game at State College was played November 2, 1917, when the underclassmen defeated the upperclassmen by a score of 9 to 0.

Coach Nagy, who was one of the mainstays of the Lebanon Valley College eleven, back and full-back, and who is well known in football circles, has had a chance to look over State's prospective football material. He is so well pleased with the work of the men in this line that a tentative varsity game will be played November 20.

Football is one of the oldest college sports, and it is expected that its return to State College will be greeted with great enthusiasm. Special arrangements are being made to attract as large a crowd as is expected to attend the football game, Friday, in order to cheer the respective teams.

THE "NEWS" FILE

While there is much being said about college spirit and college traditions, we feel that the few words which we consider closely applicable to both. Thus, there is, as probably most State College students know, a file in the "News" office containing the papers for the years 1916-1917, 1917-1918, and 1919-1920, and this file is supposed to be a complete record of college activity for those years. We say was supposed to be. It would be except for the fact that some unscrupulous person took it upon himself to remove Volume II from the office without permission, and returned the same in a badly delapidated condition and without the copy for October 17, 1919.

Now those bound copies of the "News" are the only written history of State College life. They should be guarded as jealously by the students as the students guard the Commonbook--this book is guarded by Britain. Any one should consider it a disgrace to in anyway tamper with or defile these records. Hitherto we have left these books open to students, as many occasions have arisen when they were the only authorities to which we could refer to settle certain difficulties. We trust that the students will cooperate with us in this matter, so that we will not have to put the file under lock and key.

Remember this, State College people. Respect the "News" file. Guard it for it is one of your most treasured possessions. And, when you read the "News" for October 17, 1919, bring it to the Publication's office so that we can make a duplicate and have it rehoused.

The Editors.

WELL, HOW ABOUT IT?

When you hear a State College orchestra, or see a notice of orchestra practice, do you ever think of a group of girls, each with a stringed instrument, sitting by a lake playing and singing songs old and new, under a wonderful "harvest" moon? Probably you do not. You would be apt to think of it, then, if you had joined the orchestra a few weeks ago. You can have a part in such ladies and better ones if you just join the orchestra now.

Think of it--a college, the size of State, with six members! Where is our college spirit? Every one who plays any instrument shall have his luck of that spirit every time he does not come to orchestra practice. Thursday nights, when you are to be an orchestra we can justly be proud of this year! It depends on you--on you, with that mandolin, violin or guitar in hands. Your alma mater calls you. Aren't you coming?

WANTED!

Well, what's wanted now? List and you shall hear. We want more, and lots more at that, "ginger and snap" in upholding our college traditions. Every real college has traditions. State is certainly a real college, and we have traditions, and we want the same tradition "really ring!" by upholding them with might and main. Now, freshmen, the clarion call is to you who are not yet fully acquainted with the customs of the alma mater. Even if not all the excitement of midterm tests, remember this one thing. On Friday morning you must remain seated in assembly until all the other classes have passed out of the auditorium. It may seem irksome and exasperating at first, but just remember that it is a day when you may own to college. Just remember that every freshman who does this in both "college," and "collegeotic." Just remember that last traditions must be upheld by each entering class.

Spanish Club

At the last meeting of the Spanish Club, Prof. Yost gave an interesting discussion of geographical conditions in South America. There was quite a large attendance at this meeting, but there's always room for one more, so come--and pay your dues!

FRESHMEN WIN

The freshmen broke their losing streak Wednesday, November 3, when they defeated the juniors, 19 to 14. The team, a remarkable one, was hard put to it by the juniors, but victory was uncertain until the final whistle blew.

Scores:

Juniors: 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3
Freshmen: 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4

Summary: Score at half-time; freshmen, 11; juniors, 7. Referee, Dr. Towers. Scorer, Scudder. Time of periods, 15 minutes.

CLUB IS ORGANIZED AT R. P. I. TROY, FOR NEUTRAL STUDENTS

Nonfraternity Men Form Association at School for Engineers

Great interest is being shown at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy in the activities of the newly organized Commons Club. The club was started last spring and has progressed rapidly. The members are all nonfraternity men not connected with the college society represented in the interfraternity council.

The situation at Rensselaer has been a peculiar one. There are only twelve recognized fraternities in the school and the percentage of students who are members is about 10 percent. The neutrals, as the nonfraternity men are called, have not been active in the social and social activities as fraternity men have and one of the principal reasons for the organization of the Commons Club was to remedy this and give the nonfraternity man a home. From time to time, during the history of the institute, the neutrals organized on purely social bas and, although successful for a time, such organizations lacked the ideals and qualities necessary for permanence and on losing prominent members there would be no or graduation or loss of interest disinvolved.

STUDENT ASSEMBLY

According to schedule, the last student assembly was given over to a college sing. But before proceeding with the program a little business was transacted. Alba Ballagh gave a little persuasive argument for Pop housing. She told of the novel plan the board has made for recording what each class does with dormitory space. It may be a house. The club was to remedy this and give the nonfraternity man a home. From time to time, during the history of the institute, the neutrals organized on purely social bas and, although successful for a time, such organizations lacked the ideals and qualities necessary for permanence and on losing prominent members there would be noreness and on loss of interest disinvolved.

"Y" House

An informal house party was enjoyed Tuesday evening.

Margaret Lawson, '24, spent Friday night with Faye Stockard, '22.

Sydney Hall

Sunday night was spent last Saturday evening. The long living room was very pretty decorated with orange and grey crepe paper, the colors of the hall. The lights, dimmed with orange crape paper gave off a light which corresponded delightfully with the whole color scheme. The front room was very bright.

Wrigley's

Miss Treas. Kaufman, Assistant State Supervisor of Home Economics, visited the department and was a guest at luncheon on Monday.

The Home Economics Department has offered an Extension Course in Methods of Dressmaking and Millinery. This course is given in Troy by Miss Anna R. Keen, 21, a recent graduate of Troy Normal, and one of the principal reasons for the organization of the Commons Club was to remedy this and give the nonfraternity man a home. Illustrating a Definition

In proving a match to the brow-beating lawyer the woman witness is probably in the majority. At a recent case in court a woman witness was giving very damaging evidence against the prisoner, and the attorney for the defense, nettled at her manner, decided to embarrass her if he could.

"In giving your testimony, madam, I observe that you are constantly using the word 'troll.' May I ask if you comprehended its true meaning?"

"Well, I think I do. I will illustrate. If I were to call you a gentleman I should unquestionably be indulging in most decided irony."

Big Hats and Old Age

In opening the services one Sunday recently, the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see where I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.

Life in a Flat

"Hello, Tom, old man, got your new hat fitted up yet?"

"Not quite," answered the friend. "Will you, do you know where I can buy a folding toothbrush?"

Tommy's Inspiration

They were at dinner and the dainties were on the table.

"Will you take tart or pudding?" asked Pimp of Tommy.

"Tart," said Tommy promptly. "Be careful," said the foreman of the construction gang to a green hand who had just been put on the job. "Keep your eyes open. When you see a train coming, throw down your tools and jump off the tracks. Run like blazes!"

But Tommy's eyes were glued on the many lessons on manners he had given the boy.

"Tart, what?" asked the father sharply this time.

"Tart first," answered Tommy triumphantly.

It Was Hopeless

"Be careful," said the foreman of the construction gang to a green hand who had just been put on the job. "Keep your eyes open. When you see a train coming, throw down your tools and jump off the tracks. Run like blazes!"

"Sure!" said Thomas, and began to swing the pick.

In a few minutes the express came whirring along. Thomas threw down his pick and started up the track ahead of the train as fast as he could. The train overtook him and tossed him into a ditch. Shelly shaken up, he was taken to the hospital, where the foreman visited him.

"You bumbling idiot!" said the foreman. "Didn't I tell you to take care and get out of the way? Why didn't you run up the side of the hill?"

"Up the side of the hill, is it, sir?" said Thomas through his bandages on his face. "Up the slope of the hill by the powers. I cannot hate it on the level, I'd alone running up hill!"

Pullman porter (to aged man as train pulled into a depot)—"Brush your own air!"

Aged man—"No. I'll get off the usual way."
