JUNIOR WEEK-END PLANS ARE MADE

Miss Burgher To Be Toastmistress

Juniors and Seniors meet Tuesday for recreational activities in the gymnasium of Page hall. This is the first season in which the two groups have had an opportunity to participate in activities together.

The plan would call for a file in the hotel office for the hotel guests, in addition to the usual desk in the hotel office. There is hardly a day when the hotel is not busy. The hotel was opened in 1929, and has become one of the leading hotels in the city.

The varsity squad is working hard to improve its chances for the first season in which the team will play. The team has already had two contests, and is planning to have three more before the season is over.

The team is under the direction of Miss Halter, the former captain of the varsity squad. The team is made up of experienced players, and is well-prepared for the coming season.

The team will play its first game of the season against the local high school. The game will be played in the gymnasium of Page hall. The team is expected to win the game, as it has already had two victories in its past two contests.

The team will play its third game of the season against the Carbon High School. The game will be played in the gymnasium of Page hall. The team is expected to win the game, as it has already had two victories in its past two contests.

CONVENTION DISCUSSES PROBLEMS

Student federation of America.

The annual convention of the National Student Federation, held in Atlanta, Georgia, December 27 to January 3, 1931, was attended by Isabel J. Peard, a delegate to the convention representing Hunter College. She was a member of the executive committee of the federation, and the general topic of the convention was "fellowship in education," upon which the delegates discussed various problems.

Miss Peard left for her home town of Rochester, New York, immediately after the convention. Hunter College has no formal delegation to the National Student Federation, but Miss Peard attended the convention in her own capacity as a member of the executive committee of the federation.

The federation represents approximately 120,000 students at more than 250 colleges in the United States. It is considered as the student association of higher education in the United States, with its headquarters in Washington, D.C.

During the convention, the federation discussed various problems facing higher education, such as the need for better facilities, the importance of student governance, and the role of students in the decision-making process of their institutions.

The federation also discussed the establishment of a national student union, which would allow students from different institutions to network and share ideas.

The federation held a special session on "fellowship in education," which was attended by Miss Peard. The session focused on the importance of fostering a sense of community among students, faculty, and staff.

After the convention, Miss Peard returned to Hunter College, where she resumed her duties as a member of the executive committee of the federation.
