Dorm Rooms Are Tough to Get

Dorm rooms are becoming harder to find due to budget cuts. Students are being forced to live in overcrowded rooms or off-campus, which is causing them a lot of stress.

The Dorm Rooms Are Tough to Get story is based on a real-world event and reflects the challenges faced by students during the pandemic. The story is meant to highlight the importance of adequate funding for higher education and the impact of budget cuts on students.

Pets to Diet Along with Family

(C) Fido cut diet right along with the other members of the family these days.
Pre food manufacturers have introduced products designed to help overweight animals slim down and stay healthy. You could, of course, simply feed an overweight dog less. Like the diet foods for humans, the pet products are designed to overcome a lack of willpower.

The first entry in the market—General Foods’ “Cycle” brand—wasn’t listed as a diet food. Instead, it concentrated on what are called the different life cycles of a dog and stressed that animals of different ages often have different nutritional needs.

A growing puppy, for example, needs twice as much protein as an adult dog. One variety of “Cycle” was aimed at inactive, adult animals.

Cycle is a canned dog food, but Advertising Age, the trade publication, reported in September that General Foods plans to introduce dry variety of the same product.

Meanwhile, Royal-Petite Co. announced plans for its own diet food—“Fit & Trim”—a dry variety advertised as “lower in calories, lower in fat.”

Purina statistics quoted by Advertising Age show that 73 percent of dog-owning households have animals three years and older. 83 percent say their dogs are overweight, while 72 percent say they have inactive dogs who get little exercise.

Americans spend almost $2 billion a year on dog food, and that doesn’t count the value of table scraps.

A survey by the Pet Food Institute shows that in 1974, the industry sold approximately 22 pounds of food products from meat, poultry and vegetable, and 13 billion pounds of food products made from lady peas, and 12 billion pounds of food products made from corn.

Dry dog food, which is generally the cheaper, is the larger seller. It’s almost 90 percent of the market. Dry dog food is advertised as “easier to prepare, longer lasting.”

Veterinarians and other pet experts say deciding which type of product to feed your dog—dry, or canned—is a matter of personal preference and the dog’s needs. There is no nutritional difference.

Cotter University’s Consumer Education Program even has an advisor on how to make dry food appealing to dogs who are used to the canned variety.

“Mix the two together,” the university suggests. “Gradually use more of the dry product and less of the canned until the dog is fully acccepted. Feed cautiously at first.”

Dog owners should be sure that the dry type is not too dry and helps clean the dog’s teeth. It’s said that it is not necessary to give dogs mineral and vitamin supplements if you choose a food that already provides the required amount of nutrients.

“Look for the words, ‘complete and balanced diet’ on package labels,” the university says. “In most cases, this claim is based on recommended nutritional of the National Academy of Nutrition National Research Council.”

Learn what it takes to lead.

We think the ROTC program can help you no matter what your plans are after college.
We’re looking forward to executive job using the skills we gained in college — including the leadership skills we learned in the ROTC program.
Talk about options. We can directly into a executive job full time in our field starting at $10,000 as an officer, we could go to graduate (or professional school) first, or on a subsidized basis later; or we could go into a civilian job and exercise our commission strictly part-time as a reserve officer (and supplement our civilian income about $1,500 a year to start).

The Siena ROTC program can help you get where you want to be. Call 783-2536 or stop by building G1 and talk about it.

Public Citizens: In Training and Building Muscle

Few athletes are such "natural" that they step right into the year as if they were hardly ever away; few coaches are such "natural" that they step right into the season as if the training rules were the same. In fact, very few coaches are true professionals who require years of schooling. Even such a demanding profession as football has only increased its demands for higher average grades among its members.

The importance of rights has never been more basic. More indeed is the person who has the ability, the drive, and the talent to make a difference in the community and society. High skills in any area of life and time and effort plus the talent to use those skills are necessary.

Without the training required to make these skills, the individual's potential will never reach its maximum.

Rudolph Donaldson, Executive Director of the Texas Education Association, is a good example of the kind of citizen that we need in our society. He is an outstanding citizen who has worked hard for the rights of all people.

A SUNY Losing Steal

For SUNY, and SUNY 1977, has thus far been a year of losses. Perhaps people have become so accustomed to victories that they are beginning to lose sight of the bigger picture. For SUNY, the losses are now being felt. The university's annual budget cuts have resulted in a decrease of $50,000,000.

To the Editor:

I have been working hard to ensure that SUNY's budget is balanced and that the university receives the funding it needs to continue its operations. I urge all SUNY students and faculty to stay informed and engaged in the decision-making process to help ensure that SUNY's future is secure.

Swing at Coffeehouse

BY JACOB GOLDMAN

Jack McGrew and the Swing Band were the featured performers at the Center Coffeehouse. Their musical performance ranged from the 30's, with a few jitterbug numbers, to swing, and jazz, with a few up-tempo numbers.

Swing Band consisted of: Paul McGrew - Piano, guitar, kazoo, and vocals, making him the leader of the group; Dave Toevs - guitar, vocals; Matthew Horgan - drums, vocals; and Ben Horgan - bass. McGrew sang some Silly Holiday and Buick Swivel songs, accompanied by percussion. The band played a variety of music that included everything from the 30's to contemporary pop. They entertained the audience with their musical talents and their ability to keep the crowd engaged.

By DAVID GOLDHirsch

I think the theme to be learned from this experience is that rhythm is the control of musical elements. Each piece on the program reflected, in one way or another, the dangers of attempting such a submission.

It is very easy to interpret variations in dynamic changes (shades in volume) as changes in speed, louder becomes faster, and softer becomes slower. One effect of this is the loss of color, or clarity of texture; the finer details need to sound like big notes, rather than strong repetitions of similar rhythms. Harmonic richness tends toward tonalities, especially in sections which are expanded to both

AAS.

On the whole, there was enthusiasm and dedication. I think there will come with practice. I certainly look forward to the next concert.

Balanced Attack Paces Cagers Over Fredonia

Winston: Big Spark In 72-62 Triumph; Danes Lead SUNYAC With 4-0 Mark

by Mike Psaki

The way St. Bonaventure's team was playing Thursday night, you might have thought they were in the midst of losing a game. The players were slouching, the bench was empty, and the crowd was quiet. The Bonnies were down by two points with under two minutes left in the game, and it looked like the Volunteers would be heading home with a win.

But then something happened. The Bonnies made a 3-pointer, and suddenly, the game was tied. The crowd roared, and the Bonnies regrouped. They went on to win, 72-62, with a balanced attack that included contributions from five players.

The key to the Bonnies' victory was their ability to shoot from the outside. They made 10 three-pointers in the game, including four in the second half. The Bonnies also had a strong inside game, with a total of 36 points coming from the paint.

"It was a great effort by our team," said Coach Joe Yovovitch. "We needed to come back after losing the last game, and I think we showed a lot of heart today."
