By KAITLIN LEMBO

The CTDA bus incident was not the only talk on the University at Albany campus last Tuesday.

Tuesday, the day where voters for candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties for the 2016 presidential election.

“I had a feeling that Trump and Clinton would likely take majority of states-delegates,” Molly O’Bryan said.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

By ELENA POLLACK

From Sudan to Israel: the story of an escaped slave

To see more, scan the QR code to the right.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.

Peter Hooley’s parting words

Pres. Jones returns to the stage with Sounds of Blackness.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.

By KAELIN LEMBO

The CTDA bus incident was not the only talk on the University at Albany campus last Tuesday.

Tuesday, the day where voters for candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties for the 2016 presidential election.

“I had a feeling that Trump and Clinton would likely take majority of states-delegates,” Molly O’Bryan said.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

By ELENA POLLACK

From Sudan to Israel: the story of an escaped slave

To see more, scan the QR code to the right.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.

Peter Hooley’s parting words

Pres. Jones returns to the stage with Sounds of Blackness.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.

By KAELIN LEMBO

The CTDA bus incident was not the only talk on the University at Albany campus last Tuesday.

Tuesday, the day where voters for candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties for the 2016 presidential election.

“I had a feeling that Trump and Clinton would likely take majority of states-delegates,” Molly O’Bryan said.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

Simon Deng, who escaped from slavery in America (CAMERA), hosted speaker for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in Israel, co-sponsored with the Community Foundation of Greater Capital Region.

By ELENA POLLACK

From Sudan to Israel: the story of an escaped slave

To see more, scan the QR code to the right.

One last look at winter before we hop into spring

Staff photographer Alvin He took some majestic photos of UAlbany’s campus at snow sprinkled with snow.
FLINT

Continued from Page 1

bake sale on the Downtown Campus on March 3. The group wrapped up their week on March 7 with a showing of “Blue Gold: World Water Week-long event on March 7 with a free bake sale on the Downtown Campus on March 3. The group wrapped up their week on March 7 with a showing of “Blue Gold: World Water-

The closest that the UAlbany community has come to contaminated water was the presence of triboluminescence in the town of Beldenville this past summer, according to Schell. His area of interest is centered around the effects that contaminated water can have on developing children.

I’m an anthropologist studying what human beings do to themselves indirectly,” Schell said. “We build an environment for ourselves, we live in it and it changes us biologically.

His past research has focused on the adverse health effects of lead and polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) on the development of Abenaki Mohawk Indians on the St. Lawrence River.

The anthropologist found that lead can displace the rate of sexual maturation in females, while PCBs accelerate it. The main issue with these two contaminants is that once they are in the human body they are very hard to get rid of.

Schell will participate in a public panel discussion at SUNY New Paltz on March 15 titled “Toxic Water: The Poisoning of Flint, MI” along with Emily Garner from Virginia Tech and

The model has faced some hardships due to her body type. Sisti said at 5’10” and a size 8/10, she said she’s not the typical type.

“I make connections,” she said. “A few photographers liked me, I started putting together a portfolio that was kind of my first big break. I have met a photographer from IBS who liked her and suggested she go to an open call for Fashion Week. Sisti went. She was 18 and a freshman at UAlbany. The man in charge of casting told her she had a European nose which made him love her. She immediately remembered her classmate telling her that she couldn’t model because her nose was too big. She offered her a spot in the show. ‘It was one of the most important things in my life,’ she said. ‘For me, it was such an incredible moment and from there it was the same.’

The model has faced some hardships due to her body type. Sisti said at 5’10” and a size 8/10, she said she’s not the typical type.

CRIME BLOTTER

Identity Theft

2/27/2016

State Quad

A female student was found to be in possession of a stolen credit card.

Drug Complaint

2/28/2016

Dutch Quad

A male student, a freshman, was found to be in possession of two methamphetamine pills. He was transported to hospital by 5-Quad.

Medical Incident

2/28/2016

Freedom Quad

Report male student suffering blood loss. Transported to hospital by 5-Quad.

Medical Incident

2/28/2016

State Quad

Report male student complaining of having an anxiety attack. Transported to hospital by 5-Quad.

Drug Complaint

2/28/2016

State Quad

A male student, a freshman, was found to be in possession of a stolen credit card.

Harrasment

2/29/2016

Colins Circle

Report of male and female student being harassed. Transported to hospital by 5-Quad.

Aggravated Unlawful Operation of Vehicle

2/29/2016

Roadway

Perpetual student was found to be operating while intoxicated, whilst under the influence of alcohol and was arrested.

Unlawful Possession of Marijuana

3/1/2016

Roadway

A female student was found to be in possession of marijuana. She was also found to be operating while intoxicated.

Unlawful Possession of Methamphetamine

3/1/2016

Other

Report of male student being searched and found to be in possession of methamphetamine.

Other

3/1/2016

Other

Report of female student being searched and found to be in possession of methamphetamine.

Other

3/2/2016

Other

Report of male student being searched and found to be in possession of methamphetamine.
She usually does trade shows. Over entirely though. Instead, she makes sure put modeling on hold, I wanted to focus have this experience," she said. "I could to hear the fact that I was going away to different agencies but nobody wanted here.

She hasn't put modeling on hold "I really wanted to be in Albany and have this experience," she said. "I could put modeling on hold, I wanted to focus my education." She hasn't put modeling on hold entirely. These past months makes sure to book jobs while she is home on breaks. She usually does trade shows. Over winter break Sisti worked as a model for Acupuncture The Show. "You get paid and it's fun but it's not creative, it's not what I want to do in Fashion Week," she said. "That's what I really want.

Even though she still loves modeling, she has become disillusioned by it. "It's not just a very high-dramed industry and it's hard," she said. "You have to have thin skin.

At 21, Sisti is considered by some in the industry to be old. They really start you when you're 13. They train girls from very young ages.

"I was at the shorter side for high fashion modeling. She said the requirements usually ask from someone who is a minimum of 5'10" and a maximum of 5'10. Sisti said models have to have the look that a certain company is looking for. "High fashion is constantly changing and you either have what they're looking for or you don't," she said. "It's not as fun for me as it used to be. You really are a hunger and that's why they want you so skinny.

Although Sisti has never suffered from anorexia or bulimia, she has seen it first hand, especially in Fashion Week. "You really need to be very thin in this industry. They don't care at all," she said. "When you achieve a certain body, they want what you're showing. You do become less than human. Deng has spent much of his life since, traveling parts of the world and speaking to anyone who will listen, about the horrors he lived through, and the steps we need to take to fix these issues. He has organized Sudan Walks across the United States and in the UK to build support for his people. He thanks and supports Israel, as the only country in the world that gives freedoms and rights to immigrants and refugees. Israel was the first country to recognize Sudan as a state, and South Sudan remains allied with Israel.

For more information on SudanWalks, check out his profile on the American Apparel & Footwear Association's speaker listing. For more information on Great Danes for Israel, visit their website or find them on Facebook.

WANTED: PHOTOGRAPHERS FOR THE ASP! EMAIL PHOTO EDITOR BRITTANY GREGORY AT PHOTOS.ASP@GMAIL.COM. FOR MORE INFORMATION ON HOW YOU CAN GET INVOLVED.

Does your club have a meeting or event coming up? try to get more publicity for your new business? We’re here for you. Put your ad in this space. Email Mark Fanneron at asp.advertising@gmail.com.
L eft’s finally talk about the elephant in the room. It’s been about a month since the infamous “CDTA incident” has taken the University at Albany and surrounding community by storm.

Last summer three young women, Aisha Dawood, Anjali Jamil, and Aline Brown, filed a police report claiming that they had been victims of a hate crime. They reported being verbally abused and physically assualted by a group of students near UAlbany’s CDTA. The students faced an arraignment called the charges, if proven, “shameful.”

The judge who oversaw the trial, Kevin Fadairo, 19, a UAlbany senior who declared himself a “skin color.”

The New York Times followed a more detail, reporting that "Mr. Burwell and Ms. Agudio, also pleaded not guilty to a charge of making a false statement. The judge who oversaw the trial commented that the case was “ridiculous.”

The letter also addressed to Jones in an earlier issue of the Albany Student Press called for an apology to the entire student body were to conclude that this issue simply arises to result in a better appreciation how quickly this campus came to terms with the national scandal, and how we need to do more in the future.

The Albany Student Press is published Tuesdays from 8 a.m. to 12 a.m. by the student body. Contact the ASP Student Press at publication schedules:

Contact the ASP for more information.

Ten years after 9/11, my sister and I never valued our “former family. We cannot, and will not, believe that you should send a personal apology to the UAlbany community. Kevin Fadairo, 19, a UAlbany senior and human biology major, said the incidents “make it ridiculous.”

FADairo, 19, a UAlbany senior and human biology major, said the incidents “make it ridiculous.”

In 2016, my sister used to wear the hijab, she or he sees bodies falling from the sky. It’s been about a month since the infamous “CDTA incident” has taken the University at Albany and surrounding community by storm.

The letter also addressed to Jones in an earlier issue of the Albany Student Press called for an apology to the entire student body were to conclude that this issue simply arises to result in a better appreciation how quickly this campus came to terms with the national scandal, and how we need to do more in the future.

The Albany Student Press is published Tuesdays from 8 a.m. to 12 a.m. by the student body. Contact the ASP Student Press at 518-225-5759.
From kindergarten to elementary school, stop, drop and roll has been engraved into our heads, as if being taught fire first was so common. For those students who live on the quads at the University at Albany, that may be plausible, or so it may seem.

The fire alarm has gone off several times, specifically on the freshman quads, State and Indian. Although it may seem as though on actual fire are set off, it is just a big bag of poppers that was being burned in the microwave. The bag of poppers triggers the alarm, forcing residents to evacuate. As a freshman, I’m aware that my fellow freshmen are not adjusted to a life of a fire alarm being set off at them all times.

Every room in a suite has a fire alarm. But we can’t go away doing certain things in the suites, whether or not we want to. But with the surplus of fire alarm, not only does it cause unnecessary fear for some, it also increases chances of minor things setting off the alarm.

“I feel as though fire alarms are a double-edged sword because we hate them, we hate leaving our buildings at 3 a.m. on a Tuesday, but we can’t live without them,” said Kayla Popuchet, a freshman at the UAlbany living on a freshman suite. “It sucks, but how can you really complain. I mean I think the student body needs to get their shit together.”

This is not a judgment to this being a touchy subject, its alright, not be more wrong. With this being a touchy subject, it has become normal. Feminism is supposed to be on the grind of political, social and economic issues, but somehow it has become a term to mask being a hoe without being called out about it.

NILA’S MVP Stephen Curry’s wife, Ayesha, got heat not long ago, I was a hoe and sexy or doing whatever you were supposed to be something that was frowned upon, but it also became a term for freedom. That is not a judgment to this being a touchy subject, its alright.

Feminism seems to be putting more emphasis on being a “hoe” rather than the other rights that women have, according to writer Shekera Clarke. Friends can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over. One such lesson we looked at had $500 for a move-in deposit, which the tenants subject to hidden fees, which can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over.

Being a hoe has taken over the meaning of feminism

When did being a feminist and believing in female empowerment become more about advocating and justifying being a ‘hoe’? In my day and age, being a hoe has become sort of a cool trend that females want to partake in. It has become normalized. Feminism is supposed to be on the grind of political, social and economic issues, but somehow it has become a term to mask being a hoe without being called out about it.

NILA’S MVP Stephen Curry’s wife, Ayesha, got heat not long ago, I was a hoe and sexy or doing whatever you were supposed to be something that was frowned upon, but it also became a term for freedom. That is not a judgment to this being a touchy subject, its alright.

Feminism seems to be putting more emphasis on being a “hoe” rather than the other rights that women have, according to writer Shekera Clarke. Friends can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over. One such lesson we looked at had $500 for a move-in deposit, which the tenants subject to hidden fees, which can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over.

Being a hoe has taken over the meaning of feminism

When did being a feminist and believing in female empowerment become more about advocating and justifying being a ‘hoe’? In my day and age, being a hoe has become sort of a cool trend that females want to partake in. It has become normalized. Feminism is supposed to be on the grind of political, social and economic issues, but somehow it has become a term to mask being a hoe without being called out about it.

NILA’S MVP Stephen Curry’s wife, Ayesha, got heat not long ago, I was a hoe and sexy or doing whatever you were supposed to be something that was frowned upon, but it also became a term for freedom. That is not a judgment to this being a touchy subject, its alright.

Feminism seems to be putting more emphasis on being a “hoe” rather than the other rights that women have, according to writer Shekera Clarke. Friends can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over. One such lesson we looked at had $500 for a move-in deposit, which the tenants subject to hidden fees, which can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over.

Being a hoe has taken over the meaning of feminism

When did being a feminist and believing in female empowerment become more about advocating and justifying being a ‘hoe’? In my day and age, being a hoe has become sort of a cool trend that females want to partake in. It has become normalized. Feminism is supposed to be on the grind of political, social and economic issues, but somehow it has become a term to mask being a hoe without being called out about it.

NILA’S MVP Stephen Curry’s wife, Ayesha, got heat not long ago, I was a hoe and sexy or doing whatever you were supposed to be something that was frowned upon, but it also became a term for freedom. That is not a judgment to this being a touchy subject, its alright.

Feminism seems to be putting more emphasis on being a “hoe” rather than the other rights that women have, according to writer Shekera Clarke. Friends can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over. One such lesson we looked at had $500 for a move-in deposit, which the tenants subject to hidden fees, which can equal a costly bill once the leasing term is over.
NEW RELEASES

Zootopia, a furry yet inclusive tale

By DIego CAGARA

The Easter Bunny may bring colorful eggs to children but a different kind of bunny appears in Disney’s “Zootopia” - and this one strives to not be solely seen as cute or innocently. Since she was growing up in Bunnyburrow, Judy Hopps (Ginnifer Goodwin) has dreamed of becoming a cop, to see a closeted homosexual Martin van Buren, a bloody date and the narrator getting shot in the neck? The film does turn somewhat dark and pessimistic, donning tight pants, a musket, and lots of blood. Bloodletting is a metaphor for illness, according to the lyrics by Michael Friedman. “Bloody Bloody Andrew Jackson” is itself by saying they wanted to make sure that every group present would be a little offended by the end, including Native Americans. The show wanted to address groups today in America, “His achievement: equality.” Treachery was awkward and in his father’s shadow, Lewis was so concerned with me dying on stage, but I’m fine.” The performance was unapologetic in showcasing a historical event in American history, the relocation led to the suffering and deaths of thousands of Native Americans. “I had a lot of fun,” said Zajac. “Some people were concerned with me dying on stage, but I’m fine.”

Zootopia is a refreshingly original film that portrays Gazelle and her song “Try Everything” continues to spread the overall message throughout the film. Everything” continues to spread the overall positivity as Hopps, fed up with the part of the song “Try Everything.”

Source: Gamezot.com

Source: UAlbany Department of Music and Theatre

Source: Gamezot.com
The 88th Academy Awards were hosted at the Dolby Theatre in Hollywood, California, to celebrate the world of film: the night of the Oscars. Basking in the joy of the greatest night in the world of film: the night of the Oscars. 'Once a Sounds member, always a Sounds member' is an adage that Stickley often used. He finally took home the gold as this was his first Oscar. "I've been nominated more times than that," Stickley said. "It's about time." He won for Best Actor for his role in "Spotlight." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing." The awards ceremony was hosted by Chris Rock, who wasted no time in whipping the audience into a frenzy of excitement. "We're so proud of him and we are just bursting with pride," said Sherice Jones, a Sounds member and you just never know when you'll be called on to stage. "I told them I wasn't going to dig into the matter, but after the nominations, I got caught in the moment. I'm glad it was, I was just there. I just wanted to see that film," Jones said. "It reminded me of the 30 years of my life, singing."
Eating Disorder Awareness

By Milo Votava

Last week was National Eating Disorder Awareness Week, but many people were unaware of that even though a 2006 survey by the National Eating Disorders Association revealed that 20 percent of all college students have or have had an eating disorder at one point. That means one in every five students has or has had an eating disorder.

Why is there such a high number of college students with eating disorders? Being constantly surrounded by people makes it difficult to not compare one’s body to everyone else’s, even though comparing bodies can be damaging. It is difficult for those with eating disorders not to see themselves as inferior to those around them.

Another factor that might cause the high rates of eating disorders in college is the sudden removal of a family setting. For most students, college is the first time that they are living away from their families. Families generally act as support groups for students, and can help them through tough times. When students are suddenly on their own with no one reminding them to come eat dinner, it can be a lot harder to keep a schedule of structured eating.

The types of meal plans that colleges offer can also affect people. Faced with an open buffet-style dining hall, some people will find it hard to stop themselves from binging, and others will eat nothing but the fresh fruit and yogurt that is provided round the clock, which eventually will lead to malnutrition and unhealthy weight loss. Others, in the face of such an abundance of food, will shy away from it instead. Drew Anderson, a psychology professor at the University at Albany and head of the Weight and Eating Disorders lab wrote many articles on the thought processes behind structured eating. The types of meal plans that colleges offer can also affect people. Faced with an open buffet-style dining hall, some people will find it hard to stop themselves from binging, and others will eat nothing but the fresh fruit and yogurt that is provided round the clock, which eventually will lead to malnutrition and unhealthy weight loss. Others, in the face of such an abundance of food, will shy away from it instead. Drew Anderson, a psychology professor at the University at Albany and head of the Weight and Eating Disorders lab wrote many articles on the thought processes behind structured eating.

Mindful behavior leads to healthier eating habits. Dining halls are effective in feeding many students at once, but those with eating disorders might find it harmful to their mental health.

Something that’s also worth noting is that many eating behaviors and diet tips that are passed around in college are incredibly unhealthy, yet many students follow them, thinking that they will be fine since so many others do it. A sophomore biology major ate nothing but salads for her freshman year, noting that she lost about 50 pounds, but was unaware of the health problems such a restricted diet would cause in the long run, such as malnutrition, fatigue, and anemia.

If you notice a friend trying out a potentially unhealthy diet or avoiding the dining hall at all costs, talking to them about it can help. People with eating disorders often know that what they are doing is unwise, but do not know how to stop. It’s important that everyone gets to enjoy their time at college, and eating disorders are serious problems that can take up all the time and energy of those they affect.

For information about eating disorder recovery, scan the QR code below and visit http://www.nationaleatingdisorders.org/recovery
BALANCED ATTACK DEFEATS CORNELL

By MICHAEL TURAY

On Saturday two familiar teams head off to John Fallon Field, as No. 15 University at Albany Lacrosse (2-1) hosted Cornell (1-2) in a rematch of last year’s first-round matchup of the NCAA Tournament.

The last time they faced off, senior goalkeeper Blaze Riorden scored on an amazing ESPS top 10 play, taking the ball coast-to-coast and starring Cornell’s defense. This time around the Pre-season All-Americans recorded 18 saves and led the Great Danes to a 12-8 victory over the Big Red.

Riorden also had help from a spread offensive attack. Six UAlbany players scored including sophomore attack Connor Fields who had four goals and two assists, and junior attack John Maloney’s (#0) little brother Ryan Maloney is a goal-scorer. Brother of Ky Tarbell (#42), Brian Lasda, father of our very own midfielder, Eli Lasda (#41), played for Cornell and won the 1976 NCAA tournament, it also hit a few family chords for us going all game. From there, we continued to ball and face-off specialist and were able to score on that very possessions on an absolute bomb of a shot from Seth Oakes. That momentum seemed like all we needed to get us going all game. From there, we continued to ball and make plays all over the field. Blaze had an incredible performance, making 16 saves, yeah that’s a lot of saves. Connor Fields anchored the offense with four goals, yeah that’s a lot of goals.

What a lot of people don’t know is that although this game meant a lot in terms of a re-match from the last year to two. The team as a whole showed up Saturday to get this win. It will be that kind of effort that we need on Tuesday as we head to UMass-Amherst for our yearly showdown with the Minutemen.

Drake has been documenting the 2015-16 journey for the U-Albany men’s lacrosse team using a GoPro. Scan the QR code below to check it out.

FACE-OFF MAGAZINE

FACE-OFF MAGAZINE

FACE-OFF MAGAZINE
After the game.
Hartford in the America East Quarterfinal

Thank you to all my teammates, all of them who I have had the privilege of playing alongside my entire life. I should refer to you as a true team because you are so much more than that, you are my brothers. Through all the highs and all the lows, you showed me the true value of a team. But even more so, you showed me the true value of family. I love you all. I will forever miss our locker room shenanigans and bus rides, but we see what each other endured every year, day in and day out for the fans. Perfection for life.

Taking away my pride on the court and off court success. I have to manage the success of my life here at UAlbany. I have lots of things to be proud of. I have also learned that college is about taking all the highs and lows that college throws at you and still stand. It was being able to realize that college is all about making mistakes and learning from them and growing and becoming better for it. College is the stepping stone to your life, and I hope I left many beautiful footprints behind me as I have stepped on

It was being able to take all the highs and lows that college throws at you and still stand. It was being able to realize that college is all about making mistakes and learning from them and growing and becoming better for it. College is the stepping stone to your life, and I hope I left many beautiful footprints behind me as I have stepped on.