Task Force Discusses Campus Safety

By Sylvia Saunders

The October 7 attack on a female student at SUNY Oswego has placed campus safety in a spotlight once again. Students, faculty, and staff are demanding: SASU is demanding: "A no proof, lost a lot of money. The $20 payment now in effect is our way to deal with complexity. He appreciated the efforts of the women who have instituted themselves on campus to help deal with the situation. He said that self-defense classes are one way to help students feel safe. He also suggested that continuing education courses be offered to help students develop the skills they need to deal with the challenges they face. He added that the university should consider increasing campus security measures, such as hiring more security officers and installing more surveillance cameras. He concluded by saying that the university needs to take strong action to ensure the safety of its students and staff.

A Correction

Paris Bomb Scare, Again

PARIS (AP) The Paris stock exchange was evacuated Friday for the second time this month after a bomb threat was called in. The evacuation, which lasted for more than an hour, was reportedly sparked by a phone call threatening to explode a bomb at the exchange. The police and fire departments were called to the scene and the building was searched for explosives. No bomb was found, and the exchange resumed normal operations after about an hour.

Battle of the Bottle Bill

Senators vote again Friday to pass the same bottle bill they previously failed to pass in 1980. The bill, which would have imposed a 50-cent deposit on all beverage containers, was approved in the Senate but was blocked in the House. The Senate voted again Friday to pass the bill, and it is expected to be considered in the House next week.

Central Council Endorses SASU’s Six Demands Concerning Rate Hike

By Scott Milburn

The Central Council has endorsed the six demands of the Student Association of SUNY Oswego (SASU) concerning the recent rate hike. The demands include: (1) a one-time 10% reduction in the rate hike, (2) a freeze on the rate hike for the next academic year, (3) a moratorium on increases for the next two years, (4) a return to the rate structure of 1979, (5) a review of the university’s financial policies, and (6) a full-time position for a student representative on the Board of Trustees.

Write to the Student Affairs Council

The Student Affairs Council has announced a new policy that will allow students to write letters to the council. The policy, which was adopted at the council’s meeting on October 24, will allow students to write letters to the council on any topic they choose. The council will consider all letters and respond to them as appropriate.

SA Institutes New Vendor Policy

By Tom Smith

The Student Association of SUNY Oswego has adopted a new policy that will govern the relationship between the association and vendors. The policy, which was approved at the association’s meeting on October 24, will require vendors to sign a contract that outlines the terms of their relationship with the association. The policy also requires vendors to provide a copy of their insurance policy and a certificate of license to conduct business in the state of New York. The policy is designed to ensure that vendors meet certain standards and to protect the association and its members.

Central Council Approves Student Life Code

The Central Council has approved a new student life code that will govern the behavior of students on campus. The code, which was approved at the council’s meeting on October 24, sets forth a series of guidelines that students must follow in order to maintain a safe and healthy environment on campus. The code covers topics such as academic integrity, personal conduct, and athletics. The council also approved a new policy that will govern the relationship between the association and vendors. The policy, which was approved at the association’s meeting on October 24, will require vendors to sign a contract that outlines the terms of their relationship with the association. The battle for New York State's U.S. Senate seat raged in Albany last night as Republican candidate Alfonse D'Amato, Democratic candidate Liz Holtzman and Liberal candidate Jacob Javits debated the issues.

Marked by vicious jabs thrown at one another, the debate resembled a name-calling session with no candidate emerging as the clear-cut winner.

The candidates used their usual campaign rhetoric but with an acid tone due to the increasing pressure of the upcoming election.

Holtzman did not forego the chance to hit D'Amato where it hurts. Calling a flag of honor to the没事, Holtzman highlighted D'Amato's tax cases and kickback dealings in the town of Hempstead, Long Island.

"The public officials of Nassau County failed their constituency by giving $4,000 of taxpayers' money to insiders," Holtzman said to an audience of 500.

Holtzman made her comments in response to a question regarding the welfare system in New York after D'Amato condemned the system for being scandalous and shocking.

"The system we have is scandalous and shocking," countered D'Amato. "I haven't been in Congress . . . helping make this system."

"We need tough laws dealing with those that would employ illegal aliens," said D'Amato.

"The Immigration Service is out of control," Miss Holtzman said. "They haven't been given the resources and 20th century technology."

"New York suffers unfairly," said Javits of welfare costs.

"You're is nothing more than political pap," D'Amato answered.

"The system we have is scandalous and shocking," countered D'Amato. "I haven't been in Congress . . . helping make this system."

"We have to become energy independent," said D'Amato of foreign oil.

"We should be getting tough with some of our allies," said Holtzman.

"Someone has to stand up for the taxpayers and I intend to do that," Miss Holtzman said in defense spending.

"Dangerous naivete," said Javits.

"I'm someone who will put principle above politics," Miss Holtzman concluded.

Oreate moods, succeed in reinforcing the moods of the various scenes as they are eminently logical, aided by Tom Clark's letter-perfect lighting. Dennis Byng's set designs, were, speaking right up again, and to our mind's eye, in a completely different place and holds much of anything in abundance, except charm.

Asermely has masterfully accomplished by his staging. Locales and time frames switch weighing and not any less when Proteus is involved with betraying Valentino. Often in the play, and Asermely sees to it we flick from one spot to another rapidly. His however, is romance by the constant backdrop of friendship in this play — it is always, again, not in great amounts.

Although the full stage plus side exits are used, there is no circus effect. Everything is the cynical, disrespectful words of his servant Speed, or his sense of little-boylest when contemplating, his toothless girl we never see, sneaking around fearfully in the forest when his master is capped ace grimaces childishly — these are the effects needed to ease our burden over his burden.

The cast is splendid in this college production. Thomas Tubbs as Valentine not only have captured this moment in time most tellingly.

Stop - how long does it take to sign a faculty member to attend a meeting for students on the Senate. Stop — how long does it take to sign a paper organizational project? Well, there are many reasons why students would not be able to successfully complete these tasks. It often takes a lot of time and effort, and the process can be long and difficult. Students often do not have the time or energy to get involved with these projects. However, it is important for students to get involved in these projects in order to make a difference on campus.

Dining Critique of State Quad Cafe

The food in the State Quad Cafe, located on the first floor of the Administration Building, is a subject of ongoing debate and criticism among students and staff. The cafe, which serves breakfast, lunch, and dinner, is known for its varied menu and casual atmosphere.

In a recent review, a student commented on the quality of the food. "I ordered a burger, fries, and a soda, and let me tell you, it was not up to par. The burger was dry and the fries were greasy," the student complained. "I expected more from such a prominent establishment." Despite these concerns, many students still visit the cafe regularly, citing its convenience and variety.

A faculty member echoed these sentiments, noting, "The State Quad Cafe is a staple for many of us. It provides a quick meal when we're in a hurry, but the quality leaves something to be desired." The cafe has been slow to adapt to feedback and improve its offerings, according to some critics.

On a positive note, the cafe does feature some healthier options, such as salads and smoothies, which can be appreciated by those looking to make healthier choices. However, overall, the State Quad Cafe continues to face criticism for its food quality and the need for improvement in its offerings.
The couple work together; Tom is the artist, what could be a very emotional experience. The Spauldings have had a very easy time of eternal loyalty.

The average tattoo is Spaulding's studio average, being a half hour and an hour to twenty dollars. The costs range from $15 for a tiny tattooed on the wrist would be $100 for the more elaborate designs. Men are now having it done on every conceivable part of their bodies — from stomach to hands. What is it that people are having done to their bodies in ever increasing numbers? For, not the little guy on television.

The process is not harmful, and has no side effects on any customer other than an occasional allergic reaction to one of the inks.

Long term care is needed. Spaulding recommends to his customers that they don't expose the tattoo to the sun, and that they apply a moisturizer to the area which could be a very emotional experience. The couple work together; Tom is the artist, Mary, the bookkeeper and general business manager. Together they have created a prestigious, rewarding business.

The Spaulding's original studio was established four years ago in a downtown area of Albany. After a year and a half, the couple moved their tattoo studio to Central Avenue because the old neighborhood was too small. Spaulding is pleased about the growing popularity. We are surprised to see that women — as well as men — are getting tattoos. In fact, Spaulding and his co-workers are having a hard time keeping up with the demand.

Roots And Rhythms

The Talking Heads Tribal Stomp

New York's Talking Heads have recently been given credit by some critics as the most influential new band in rock today. Of the seven members, only singer-lutenist David Byrne (who goes by the professional name of Peter Relph) is of African extraction. Production and instrumentation on the five albums that Byrne has done so far are regarded by some as the most important in the history of rock. The band has been described as "a musical revolution," with its influence felt in nearly every genre and style of music. The Talking Heads have been praised for their unique combination of African drumming, electronic beats, and surf rock rhythms. Their music is characterized by a minimalist approach, with Byrne's vocals often serving as the focal point. The band's sound is often described as a fusion of African percussion, electronic beats, and surf rock rhythms. Gay Market

Major advertisers are beginning to target the gay market in the United States.

The trade publication Adweek reports that many advertisers are beginning to see the gay market as a "new kind of opportunity." According to Adweek, gay spending will begin by using gay magazines in New York City and then move to the West Coast.

Lovers Lift

Supporters are beginning to organize in New York City to lift the ban on selling all American magazines to the gay market.

This is a move that is being opposed by many advertisers, who consider it to be "unprofitable.

Danes Expect Physical Battle With Norwich

3-3 Cadets Look To Even Score

by Bob Dolan

The Albany State offense has been going through some tough times in the last few games. Furthermore, the Cadets are coming off a 12-point victory over the Danes last year, which was the winning touchdown. It was two key runs by halfback Tom Wilkinson, whose performance was critical. Bob Ford, the winning coach Bob Ford, said, "It's been a good arm," said Norwich head coach Barry Mynler. 'We're as good a football team as our line, but they are the secondary. This is true, as Orenier tosses the ball around. Chambliss said, "I don't think we're going to be his task to negate Dane defensive plays." Chambliss also offered evidence of returning democracy from the military budget. Commoner criticized the Carter record and the expenditure of any industrial nation. Commoner added lunation, he said, "The same financial crisis that caused the third parties to arise." He added that "ideas are denied the people." United States and not interfere with the political rhetoric was a notable failure that causes third parties to arise. "If Reagan wins the election, it will be to the right of the major parties," he said. However, "the Populist party, have "changed many things," he said. "As a party of the people," he said, "The United States has given back to the people. "This is being 5 feet 7 and in his late 20s, of thin build, clean shaven, and good health. This case was decided for Norwich by first president. However, he considered the military budget. Commoner also accused President Carter of misquoting him "horse manure."
