AMERICAN FEDERATION OF ART EXHIBIT WINS THE APPROVAL OF STUDENTS

Pictures to be changed in relays

During the ten dance last Saturday remarks were made upon the opportune coming of the art exhibit which is on display in the lower hall and related, "to treat it in our ex-claimed, adding that she preferred the nature pictures—plenty of trees with blue sky showing through.

Many admired the scene of the moose in black silhouette against a sunset sky. The very unconventionality of the lines of the picture, fitting to the subject, attracts.

Miss Cobb, "Darbreak" has been a center of attention. A member of the students has highlighted, "The Home of the Heron," and to many a throng of pleasant associations have been recalled by the old farmhouse, half hidden by apple blossoms. Numbers of favorite pictures might be named: the angels with flaming sword, the delightfully imaginative representation of mischievous, enchanting Fun, charming to him by soft music and glancing little living creatures, "In the Garden," the "picture of curves" as one student called it—but one cannot name them all; personal taste varies greatly. To give a professor's pet one a hint of the exhibition in my opinion surpasses last year's in that it is a true representation of life with how "slap-dash" application of colors produces effects. Many of the new art is modifying its radicalism, or I am being unnecessarily honest over to it. Most of the pictures are commendable in their expression of mood.

Thanks and appreciation are due the Dramatic and Art Council which is in charge of the exhibition. The pictures will be changed from time to time. Watch for new ones.

MISS COBB TO ATTEND NEW YORK MEETING IN INTEREST OF LIBRARY

LADY WINDERMERES FAN TO BE PRESENTED BY ADVANCED DRAMATICS CLASS

Saturday, May 24

"Lady Windermere's Fan," that delightful play written by Oscar Wilde, will be given by the Advanced Dramatics Class on Saturday evening, May 24. It will be presented at the Vincentian Institute under the direction of Miss Fitzalan. The selection of the members for the cast is scheduled for this week.

All of the 1924-25 productions of the Vincentian Dramatics Class have fully justified the hearty appreciation and interest manifested by the students of State College in the dramatic art. The play of May 24, probably one of the last to be presented this year, promises to be another fine entertainment. Students will be entered on presentation of their student tax tickets.

CHAIRS FOR THE CHILDREN

BUT WHO WANTS TO BE A CHILD IN CALCULUS CLASS?

Dr. Cornell Seems As Alarmed As Do His College Chorus

Back to childhood days! The sudden and mysterious appearance of a long line of seats approximately a foot high and guaranteed to hold the largest child in the kindergarten class, caused great excitement in Albany College last week. Could they possibly be bound for Miss High? Impossible, those youngsters could never fit in those chairs! More and more strange—next day they had reached the second floor, and—did our eyes deceive us? They were soon being installed in "Comly's" holiest sanctum—room 100. All day long a large gathering outside the door.

BRILLIANT PROSPECTS FOR BASEBALL THIS SEASON

Preparatory to the opening of the baseball season shortly after the spring vacation, Coach Wever will start next week to round his varsity team into shape. The process of elimination has already begun and the major squad is steadily being reduced to the twelve of fifteen men who will make up the regular varsity roster.

Through outdoor practice will be started in a few days and the subsequent scrub games will reveal the brighter lights of the squad—those who will eventually land varsity positions, providing they can keep up the pace. The last few weeks or so have been spent in the rudiments of the game and in getting the kinks out of the stiff arms. The next ten days will be devoted to the practical side of the training.
COLLEGE STUDENTS TO CONDUCT SUMMER COLONY AT WOODSTOCK, NEW YORK

Student at Bryn Mawr, Dartmouth, Yale, Swarthmore, and Northwestern will co-operate next summer in maintaining an Intercollegiate Camp at Woodstock, New York, near Saratoga, in September 17th. These students have assumed joint management of the camp with a committee of the National Student Forum which operates the enterprise last summer. One hundred fifty students from colleges, universities and Labor Schools are expected to visit the camp during the summer. Twenty-five scholarships are available to pay the expenses of labor delegates.

The camp will give students the opportunity to meet some of the leaders of American thought from lecture and discussion but in the frank and free companionship of the outdoors. A number of the best churchmen, business men, labor leaders, and social workers will be at the camp during the summer. Among those who are already expected are Dr. Charles P. Duggan, Institute of International Education, New York; John Haynes Holmes, Community Church, New York, Professor William Hoard Kilpatrick, Dept. of Philosophy, Teachers College, Professor William Fielding Ferris, Dept. of Economics, State College. The camp will be equipped with a small theatre and swimming pool. The committee in charge of the break will number from four to eight.

There will be five conferences per week, two each beginning July 14th, during whose two weeks the camp committee will be limited to ten students. Each conference will consider, with individual differences, international, industrial, racial, and educational questions. The camp will be equipped with a small theatre and swimming pool in which students may on occasion present one-act plays.

Woodstock, N. Y., is in the Catskill mountains, fourteen miles from Kingston, six from Albany, and it is only a two hours' train ride from New York City. In addition to offering hiking, swimming, and possibly tennis, it is centrally located which affords unusual artistic and musical advantages. Over 1500 students are limited in each camp, from any one college will number from four to eight. College directors desiring to send students should apply immediately for quota through the National Student Forum. Registration is from April 1st to May 1st, 1924.

THE RISING OF THE MOON REVEALED THROUGH USE OF STATE'S MAIDENS

Brass buttons and an excellent brogue! A copper and in escarpment on the same band and engaged in friendly conversation! A reward for the criminal's arrest nailed to the barrel of the man sitting on the same barrel and engaged in friendly conversation! These are among the major attractions which will be the play, "The Rising of the Moon," presented in the Auditorium Wednesday, March 26, under the direction of Beatrice Martin. Mildred Kuhn and Helene Bovick, as policemen, will届时 police stations and arreton the stage in all these fashionable as any member on the Albany Green. In spite of a renewal, in spite of her duty Edith Higgins, as the police sergeant, let a turn inward follow its bent and alight the criminal to escape.

Perhaps it was the singing of some" weird Irish song and the note of pulsus in her deep voice which made such a lovely villain. Whatever it was, this lovable villain is very much appreciated as the assistant to the landowner of the great home in which she is seen. In spite of a renewal, in spite of her duty Edith Higgins, as the police sergeant, let a turn inward follow its bent and alight the criminal to escape.

WHERE BUT IN AMERICA PROVED TRUE-OLD SAYING ALL MEN ARE EQUAL

"Where but in America" would be a garden of Eden, a place in which such a perfectly poised man as Mrs. Espenhanye, Forrester, would live. "Where but in State College" could one find such a perfect representation of a garden of Eden as was seen in the play "Manikin" last Tuesday, March 20, given by Dorothy Kelly and Sara Draniteke, who produced these three miracles. The committee in charge of the break will number from four to eight. College directors desiring to send students should apply immediately for quota through the National Student Forum. Registration is from April 1st to May 1st, 1924.

CLASICAL CLUB

The Classical club, as well as the rest of the College club, has made great progress in the way of scholarship and character. Over fourteen dollars was raised by this organization Thursday, March 26, which proved the pride of State College students for sweet-meats. Asked what they did with their money, they said, "We melted away under the onslaught. Evidently some of the money we were quite happy to give back." A characteristic in common with the comedy is the ability of our friends to make an instable appetite. The men have long ago built up their respect for our women friends.

Kappa Delta Rho welcomes John Gainor, '25, into its brotherhood. It is rumored that Oliver Putnam, and Elmer Stahlman had a slight misunderstanding with some State troopers over the weekend.

How about it, fellows?

Margaret Kuhn of Glenville spent a pleasant afternoon, but asked at Gamma Kappa Phi House at the weekend.

Pat Gamma welcomes Dorothy Fort, '26, as a pledge member. Lena Jackson of Utica was the guest of her sister Ruth Ellis at the Psi Gamma welcome reception.

TEA DANCE WELCOME DIVERSION TO LONG PERIOD OF STUDY

Dancing first floor! Bridge and mah jong second floor! All State College men and a few State College maidens. Party afternoon gown, and an occasional "tux." Good music and light refreshments! This may not sound like a pleasing afternoon but ask those who attended the tea-dance held Saturday, March 19. An affirmative answer is guaranteed. Mild thirst was satisfied by tea, poured in the Green Room by Miss Patterer and Miss VanDenburgh, and in the Red Room by Mildred Kuhn, Edna Shafter and Mary Wekes. While dancing appetites were satisfied by little cakes and cookies. One little freshman was heard to remark that she wished a tea dance might be held Saturday. Was it a success? Yes! Yes! Yes!

COLLEGE CONFERENCE FOR LAW OBSERVANCE IN WASHINGTON

With representatives from virtually every college in the United States and with nationally prominent men and women as principal speakers and leaders of the discussions, the College and University Students' Conferences for Law Observance and Citizenship at Washington tomorrow and Sunday will be one of the most important conventions of its kind ever held, it is indicated in reports from George Stewart, executive secretary.

Jerry Walker, who has been chosen by Dr. Brustaker as State's delegate, will leave for the national capital today. The sessions of the conference will start tomorrow morning at Hotel Raleigh, the conference headquarters. There will be seven sessions, adjournment being scheduled for Sunday night.

The speakers include Senator William E. Borah, Senator Carter Glass, the Rev. J. A. Bryan, dean of Catholic University; Miss Mahol Walker Wiltz; assistant U. S. attorney general; Senator Morris Sheppard, Representative M. Clyde Kelly, Roy A. Haynes, national prohibition commissioner, and Chancellor W. T. Flint, president of Syracuse University. President Coolidge will hold an informal meeting for the delegations at the White House.

The business of the conference will consist of: Platform messages bearing the general topic under consideration; reports indicating the actual facts about the degree of violation of law among students and in the adjacent communities; liberal discussion of all the problems brought forward; adoption of appropriate policies which can be recommended to every college and university in America; and development of a plan of promotion by which the spirit of observance and program of the Conferences may be made available to student leaders everywhere.

NEWMAN NOTES

During the past week Newman House gave fifteen dollars to the Dormitory Fund as a result of their bake sale. Also Newman Club contributed forty dollars as a result of their cake sale, March 17. If every club comes over as big as Newman, the Dormitory Fund will certainly swell!

Perhaps it would be interesting to Students in banking to know that the Dormitory funds are invested in six banks in Albany giving 4 1/2 per cent. The quota has been invested in these banks, and we are starting an account in the last bank in Albany which yields 4 1/2 per cent. Sums have been invested in two banks which give only 4 per cent.

An architect is drawing up plans for dormitories which will fit two available plots of ground within walking distance of the College. These are, of course, only preliminary sets of sketches to discover what could be built on these pieces of land as a basis for estimating expensive building operations.

The United States
Geological Survey as A Career

The United States Geological Survey, in the Department of the Interior, offers a career to the three types of engineers that constitute the technical staff of the organization—the topographic engineer, the hydraulic engineer, and the geologist, who may also be properly formed as an engineer. The engineer's work is many-sided, but most of his tasks lead him out of doors and often far afield. The engineer is in the public service among the men who do the work's work; in no sense is he a shut-in, either physically or mentally; all his powers have wide fields for expansion.

The work of the topographic engineer embraces the mapping of the surface of the country, and owing to the fact that nearly all the topographic surveys of the United States are done by the Geological Survey itself, the engineers engaged in this work are trained in the technique of their work chiefly in the Survey, although they should possess as a basic preparation a sound engineering education.

The work of the hydraulic engineers in the Geological Survey embraces every phase of the study of the surface waters of the United States, including stream flow and its relation to drainage, prevention, flood prevention, and the municipal use of water. The work here deals with water and water alone; the thorough training and instruction in construction, basic and advanced, that is necessary to the work.

The work of the geologist is diversified in the main to the determinations of the mineral wealth of the United States. It includes also the study of the history of our part of the planet as revealed by the rocks, each layer of which may be compared with a page in human history. The time and the manner in which the records were inscribed on these rock pages, the fossils and the minerals that make up their text and illustrations, and the ways in which the record may be made useful to man are objects of the geologist's study.

The practical requisites for technical employment in the Geological Survey are college courses in engineering or geology, preferably supplemented by postgraduate studies. Employment in the Survey begins with the first two or three years in a further and more practical postgraduate course, after which the member of the Survey may be assigned to individual or coordinated research work.

All the positions described are filled through civil-service examinations, which are held as an average about once a year. Requests for information as to examinations should be addressed to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.
