The purpose of Army's Athletic Association, as stated in the Freshman Handbook, is "to foster and promote athletics at the college." Last Wednesday night, MAA held an open forum to discuss the role of athletics at the college. The meeting was attended by many students who wanted to voice their opinions about the future of intramurals and the role of athletics at the college. Then, with inputs from the students, the meeting will continue to discuss the downsides that MAA has been suffering in recent times. The majority of the students present agreed that MAA has been suffering from a lack of organization and coordination, and that there is a need to improve the way intramurals are organized. Many students also expressed concerns about the costs associated with intramurals and the need for a more equitable distribution of expenses. The meeting was held in the Office of Student Life at 9:00 p.m. and was attended by many students and faculty members.
