950 ATTEND 1930 SUMMER SESSION

18 Members of Winter Faculty Included On Present Teaching Staff

Dr. Milton G. Nelson, professor of education in the winter session of State College, is director of the 1930 summer school. Other members of the regular session include: Arthur Kennedy Bell, professor of education; Harry Birchough, professor of mathematics; Helen E. Crooks, supervisor of practice teaching in the Milne high school; Howard Adams Dobell, assistant professor of mathematics; David Hutchinson, professor of government; Helen C. Jones and Alice M. Kirkpatrick, assistant instructors in library science; Richmond Henry Kirkland, professor of education; Harry J. Linton, assistant professor of education; Carroll Edelman Pogue, assistant professor of education; Arthur Levinstein, assistant professor of English; Adam Alexander Walker, assistant professor of economics and sociology; Katherine F. Whelahan, assistant professor of English and George Marrell York, professor of commerce.

The members of the summer session faculty, who are visiting instructors in the Milne high school, are: Howard A. Allen, secretary to principal; John M. Mulvaney, teacher of English, and Mary Jane Popp, teacher of mathematics, history, and English literature.

20 MEN TO PLAY IN SECOND ANNUAL COURT TOURNAMENT

The second annual Men's Tennis tournament to be conducted this summer will take its full swing when twenty men will match skill and ability at the college in a series of matches. The tournament will be completed by Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Nelson Welcomes Summer Students Body

The school year is an exhausting drain on the teacher. She is called upon constantly to give both of herself and of her knowledge. The opportunity to study and exchange stimulating personal experiences with a student body at approximately a thousand offers replenishment for the teacher's teaching personality as well as for the teacher's own development.

4 Women To Compete In Tennis Tournament

Five women have entered their names to compete in the women's tennis tournament to be conducted during the summer session. They are Misses Helen W. Byler, Alice E. Nelson, Leah M. Dobson, F. M. Porthus and Anita Nelson. They will play tennis and basketball and the winners will receive prizes at the end of the tournament. Names of opponents and dates of matches will be posted as they are decided.

1000 STUDENTS TO ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL

The summer school will extend for a period of nine weeks and will be open to students from all parts of the country. The maximum enrollment will be limited to five hundred students, and those who are interested are urged to register promptly.

Dr. Nelson Requests Students To Leave Addresses In Office

Director of the Summer Session

Mr. J. T. Bradbury, lecturer in English at the college, says that the subject of his lecture was the history and development of English education in England. He explained how the development of English education in England has been influenced by the history and culture of the country. The lecture was well received by the students, and many of them expressed their appreciation of the speaker's knowledge and ability to communicate his ideas effectively.

SUMMER SESSION ADDS HISTORY 20 UNDER DR. SMITH

A new course in the social sciences has been introduced into the summer school, dealing with the history of the United States and the history of the American Indian. The course will be conducted by Dr. Donald A. Smith, who is a well-known historian and anthropologist.

Students Are Invited To Go To Battlefield

An excursion to Saratoga Battlefield, Schuylerville, and other places of historical importance in the vicinity of Albany, is being planned under the auspices and direction of the History department to take place Saturday, August 2.

This trip is being made for the special convenience of the students of History S.A. However, an invitation is extended to all students to take part, according to Dr. Norman V. Smith.

A bus will leave the college in the morning and return in the evening. Some faculty member of the History department will accompany the students and explain and point out places of special historical importance. The fare will probably be $1.25, according to Dr. Smith.

All students outside of Albany who desire to co-operate purchase tickets in Room 106 at a time to be announced.

If there is a general approval and a wide interest among the students, similar excursions will be conducted to the General Electric plant, Hadley Training School, and other places of interest. Subsequent developments in this affair will be announced through this paper.

The social sciences consist of economics, geography, history, and sociology. Changes are now being made in the junior high schools, especially in New York State, to teach a social science course rather than a straight history course, according to Dr. Smith.

Similar work is being done by the general mathematics and general science. It is hoped that in the junior high school in the near future the social science, general mathematics, and general science will be permanently introduced into its curriculum.
SUMMER SESSION NINE PRACTICES

Team Composed Of Veteran Players To Represent Summer Session

The State college summer session baseball team has practiced several times this week at the home diamond at Rensselaer park in preparation for its opening contest of the season against the Lincoln Athletic club nine, Monday at 6:30 P. M., on the Lincoln park field.

The Rensselaer park diamond will be used for the practice sessions, and some of the State Colleger's future games will be played on that ground.

Plans for the rest of the team's schedule include contests with the Schuylers, the Sagamores, the Hect Stark, Sacred Hearts, and other good baseball aggregations in the vicinity.

Two games a week for the remaining time of the summer term will be played if tentative arrangements are completed successfully.

The list of prospective candidates for the nine is very promising and includes excellent material from well-known colleges in the East. Frederick Scholtz, Colgate graduate, and former veteran hurler at that University, will share the pitching assignment together with Leo Allan, star hurler at State college last year. Benjamin Becker, who was behind the bat in most of State's contests last season, will complete the battery.

SUMMER FACULTY HEARS BRADBURY TALK ON METHODS

Teacher training in England, according to Mr. Bradbury, is choosing the students for entrance who will make successful teachers. No student is allowed to enter before he is eighteen years old nor is he permitted to teach before he is twenty. In considering the candidate for admission to the teacher training colleges, the examination record is considered first, next the character recommendation of the head master. The extra-curricular activities are also considered. His home and religious activities are also investigated. These qualifications being satisfactory, the student is given a personal interview. If the officials deem the applicant qualified, he is then allowed to teach.

English teacher training institutions emphasize practical teaching experience. The student gets weeks of practical work in various schools rather than in one school provided for such a purpose. Mr. Bradbury stated. When the student graduates from a teacher training college, he is given a certificate to teach, but he does not receive a degree. Those who desire a degree must pass an examination given by a university.

At the close of the lecture, members of the faculty asked questions about social and political problems in English education, as well as further details of the English system.
