We'd like to say some nice things about America's young adult drivers

And we think we've got good ones! Last January, we selected twenty 16- and 17-year-old young men and women through the American Automobile Association's Young Drivers Contest, the 1964-65 Model Economy Run, April 2-5. It was the first time any company had selected such a large group of young drivers for this exciting competition.

We brought these young adults—most of them college students, some from the home-townITH benefit of extra earnings. One student driver, for example, made $30 a week grubbing along at a menial job that did not require his skills. But the next time he sold, he found himself in a high-powered car, driven by a young man with a smooth smile and a sense of humor. He later sold another car, a Chevrolet, and once again he found himself in a highpowered car, driven by another young man with a similar smile and a similar sense of humor.

The young man smiled and said, "I have sold two cars now, and I have met some very nice people. I have learned a lot about car sales and how to communicate with customers. I think I will continue to sell cars, and I hope to eventually own my own dealership." The young woman smiled and said, "I have sold three cars now, and I have learned a lot about car sales and how to communicate with customers. I think I will continue to sell cars, and I hope to eventually own my own dealership."

Mrs. Loue Fends Letter

Unhappier End

To the Editor:

Perhaps a certain amount of satisfaction is taken in the fact that the editors of the ASP had the time to examine the case of the "ASP" paper. However, the welfare of society should be considered. Everyone is not an editor. We should not be subjected to such a piece of writing. In fact, this writer takes offense to the way in which my letter was treated. As a result of this action, I do not feel that the ASP is a suitable medium for the following reasons:

1. Mrs. Loue's letter to the editor should have been printed.

2. The ASP's Editors should be more careful in their selection of material.

3. The ASP's Editors should be more considerate of the students who are responsible for the paper.

This writer does not believe that the ASP has been fair in its treatment of Mr. Loue's letter. The ASP should be more careful in its selection of material and should be more considerate of the students who are responsible for the paper. The ASP should be more considerate of the students who are responsible for the paper.

Sincerely yours,

Baseball Team Ends Year At Utica, Weak Fielding Ruins Season Record

By Jim Wingate

Saturday afternoon the State nine closed out the 1964 baseball season with a return match against New Palz. Playing the game at New Palz, the visiting Peds hope to finish the season on a high note by bringing home a revenge victory. In the first meeting between these two chubs, New Palz won a slugfest, 14-0. Coach Kursar was probably right either Don McGurrin or Joe Mazurulli.

Don has not been as effective on the mound this year as he was last year, but has one victory to his credit. McGurrin has done well at short all year and he may be left there to bolster the infield for the final game. Mazurulli was the losing pitcher in State's 3-0 loss to Utica.

Hart Beats APA For League I Tie

This past Monday saw SLS come back after their defeat last week to defeat APA by the score of 8-7. Again it was Bob Hart throwing against Hill Burroughs, and it was almost a repeat of the two teams last game.

In the first few innings APA was not scoring without scoring, but SLS scored two runs on an APA error and took a quick lead. Hart continued his mastery on the mound in the second, while the حسين scored seven runs on two runs after four players, the score was 8-0.

For the first three innings both Hart and Lurum did their business after the opposition and the score remained 8-0. However, the sixth inning came back to haunt Hart as the APA cornermen finished back for three runs on a few walks and a base hit by Jim Wingate. But Hart faced down the side with men on second and third.

In the bottom of the sixth SLS scored three runs to increase their lead to 8-3. Burroughs (third) rightly and there were a few solid hits. In the top of the seventh inning and there were a few solid hits.
