To the Student Body:

In our years at Alma college we have witnessed a reform movement—an administration that has taken a definite positive policy toward all extra-curricular activities. The student body has approved this policy; we have learned by our own mistakes. It has fit itself the responsibilities of a four year institution of a high intelligence level. Why don't they exercise what their vote means?

The Legislative reform movement in the assembly is in full swing. Will it be enacted by voters not understanding that everyone has the right to vote—he also has the obligation to vote?
