Student Council Opposes Talks On Recognition Of Red China

The Student Council has expressed its opposition to the talks on recognition of Red China. The council feels that the talks are unnecessary and that the United States should focus on other issues. The council has also urged the administration to take a firm stance on the issue and to reject any attempts to recognize Red China.

Four Residence Halls Will Feature Open Houses

The Open Door will be held at all residence halls on Sunday, November 30, from 2 to 4 p.m. The halls will be open to all students, and the residents will be happy to show off their homes and to answer any questions that students may have. The halls will be decorated with festive decorations, and there will be refreshments available. This is a great opportunity for students to see the different halls and to get a sense of the college community.
We Want The Topic Debated!

"I have never been the type of person who values uniformity. I believe in freedom of expression and the right to voice one's opinions."

Members of the Debate Council appeared before the Student Senate last week to express their concerns about the topic for the upcoming debate. They argued that the topic was too broad and did not allow for a meaningful discussion. The council recommends that the topic be narrowed to focus on specific issues.

In response, the Student Senate agreed to consider the council's recommendations. They urge the debate participants to come up with a more focused topic for the upcoming debate. The council's recommendations will be considered by the Senate at their next meeting.

We are confident that this debate will be an exciting and informative discussion of the issues involved. We hope that the participants will bring their best arguments to the table and that the audience will enjoy the debate.

One Man's Opinion:

Oral Interpretation Class Gives Second Evening Of Readings

by JOHN LAING

The program for the Oral Interpretation Class will be on Monday night. Monday readings will be given at the auditorium, and the event will be supervised by Jack McPhee. The reading will take place in the auditorium, and the event will be supervised by Jack McPhee.

The second evening of readings will consist of readings from "Rudyard Kipling" by Robert Frost in the auditorium. The reading will be given by Mrs. Elinor A. Elian, who was the first to present "Rudyard Kipling." Mrs. A. Elian has been the head of the Oral Interpretation Class for the past two years, and has been a member of the college faculty for the past three years.

This year, there will be a total of 10 readings from "Rudyard Kipling," with Mrs. A. Elian giving the opening reading. The other readings will be given by members of the Oral Interpretation Class, who will be chosen by Mrs. A. Elian.

"Rudyard Kipling," a collection of poems by the British poet and author, has been the subject of many readings in the Oral Interpretation Class. The poems in this collection are known for their vivid imagery and strong themes, and are well-suited for the Oral Interpretation Class.

The readings will be given in the auditorium, which is located in the center of the campus. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 200, and is well-equipped for the readings.

The Oral Interpretation Class is a popular class among students, who enjoy the opportunity to present their interpretations of literature. The class is taught by Mrs. A. Elian, who has a deep appreciation for literature and a talent for teaching.

The second evening of readings will be a wonderful opportunity for students to enjoy the art of oral interpretation, and to appreciate the beauty of literature.
