Interim policy concerning alcohol questioned

A task force named to review bus fee proposals

By Anthony Silber

The proposed bus fee has been delayed at least until December 1st.

A task force was named on Aug 31 by university President Vincent O’Leary to allow further review and study of the proposal by a wider array of campus constituencies. The fee, which SUNY Central approved this summer, called for limiting free bus service to residents of the Wellington Hotel and Alumni Quad as well as students registered in approved internships and community service program assignments. All other persons would ride at a service charge of $1.00 a semester or 10 cents a ride. Bus fee proposals have been delayed at least until December 1st, according to university Vice President for Finance and Student Affairs last year. Those reports, he said, were compiled by Dean of Student Affairs Neil Brown and a Task Force which was organized to deal with the alcohol policy and regulations for student involvement. Schaffer challenged this fact, saying “there was no student input on the interim policy.”

Great deal of student involvement. Schaffer said that last year students did participate on the Task Force with Brown, but did not provide direct input for this latest proposal.

The Task Force has been directed to submit its recommendations by November 1st. If consensus of three students, housing, or finance, then the guidelines, explains Harligan, would later the new year. He anticipated this policy as the “right thing to do.”

O’Leary said the Task Force will look at all proposals — including those from students. “The issue is that we are facing tough budget issues. Every proposal you could think of will be passed to the Task Force,” he said. Schaffer said he felt good about the Task Force but that it doesn’t have enough time. “It’s a very important decision, one which will affect the campus for a long time,” he said. “I think we need more time.” He said he would like to take the Task Force to look at the bus systems on other SUNY campuses, as well as the Albany system. Sheltton Banks, the guidelines, explained, Harligan, university Vice President for Student Affairs Frank Pogue in a previous statement, and is chaired by chemistry professor Sheldon Banks.

After a month of review by university governing bodies, the recommendations will go to O’Leary for a final decision. The guidelines, explained, Harligan, university Vice President for Student Affairs Frank Pogue in a previous statement, and is chaired by chemistry professor Sheldon Banks.

Reagan talks arms

(NPR) President Reagan has unveiled plans Tuesday to deploy intermediate range missiles at a national security center in Washington, D.C. Hitler's plan will come during a speech in New York City.

A government official said Reagan will announce the plan at a news conference Tuesday. The official said the plan will include the deployment of new long-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

Nuke fines possible

(AP) Federal regulators are talking about giving fines to companies that operate nuclear power plants. The fines could be up to $3 million in some cases.

A government official said the fines will be based on how much is spent on reactor safety. The official said the fines will not be on the order of $3 million in all cases. The fines will be based on how much money is spent on reactor safety.

Pougue chosen for Student Affairs Vice President

By Arthur Vista

After a two-year search, SUNY Albany selected Dr. Frank Pogue as the new vice president for student affairs.

Pougue, 43, is currently the dean of students at the University of California, Los Angeles. He is the second of two candidates chosen from a field of seven.

Grand Union is changing.

The Grand Union chain of supermarkets in the Capital District is going through many changes. The corporation, already modernized, is making further improvements in a host of areas.

The most visible change is an agreement by several supermarkets to match their lowest prices with those of the leading supermarket competitor in all their communities. This is not a price war, but we will match them no matter how low they go. And this is a permanent change.

We will increase our sales so that we can speed up our expansion and modernization plans. We will have a sales increase of at least 10% this year, and we plan to increase even further in the years ahead. The motion is what they will think. (Of course, we'll still have our Red Finder. It will be free to all to take home, to use in shopping at any supermarket.)

When you see the Grand Union chain of supermarkets, you will see the changes we are making. We are increasing our service to the people of the community.

We are reducing our regular prices to match those of our lowest-priced competitor and, to all our customers, this is not a price war, but we will match them no matter how low they go. And this is a permanent change.

Registration Blues

For someone who holds the title of 'student,' registration can be a source of endless frustration. This year's registration process at SUNY Albany has been described as a hesitant step towards the final semester where students were penned and prodded on pleating toward the final lines.

Cate Bowman

It's finally happened. The SUNY Albany registration form was almost complete. With every passing day, the sense of security and satisfaction grew. But at the last line, a feeling of disappointment set in.

Polling

Alcohol policy

Polling data shows that the majority of students are in favor of stricter alcohol policies. The issue is complex, and the results reflect the diverse opinions among students. The results will be analyzed to determine the next steps in policy-making.

Bottle Bill

A ballot initiative has been proposed to introduce a 'Bottle Bill' system in the state of New York. The initiative aims to reduce litter and encourage responsible drinking.

Bowie: Dancing As Himself

The Story Of Leonard Zelig

David I. L. Laskin

If you thought you had heard of it all, then you need to see 'Zelig.' This film is a perfect blend of comedy, drama, and visual effects. It's the story of a man who can morph into anyone. The film is a testament to the power of imagination and the human ability to adapt.

Lisanne Sokolowski

Zelig is a character who can seamlessly blend into any situation. The film explores the boundaries of identity and the power of illusion. It's a must-see for anyone interested in the psychology of identity and the nature of reality.

Alcohol policy is incoherent

As a student at SUNY, I have been faced with the issue of alcohol policy on campus. The current policy, which was implemented several years ago, is not only confusing but also ineffective. The policy states that alcohol is permitted in residence halls, but it cannot be consumed in public areas. This creates a conflict because students often hold parties in their rooms, which then become public areas. Additionally, the policy does not address the issue of alcohol consumption in the classroom or in areas where students congregate.

The policy also fails to take into account the fact that many students choose to drink responsibly and within the limits set by the policy. However, the policy is often not enforced, and students who choose to drink responsibly are often punished along with those who do not. This creates an unfair situation where students who are responsible for their alcohol consumption are treated the same as those who are not.

I believe that the current policy is incoherent and needs to be reevaluated. A more sensible approach would be to focus on education and preventive measures rather than strict enforcement. This would help to reduce the negative effects of alcohol consumption on students and society as a whole.

Bus fare fair

To the Editor:

Regarding the NYGBA's recent fare increase, I would like to present a different perspective. First, it is important to understand the reasoning behind the fare increase. The NYGBA has been facing financial difficulties in recent years, and the fare increase is intended to help cover these costs.

Secondly, I would like to address the issue of the unfairness of the fare increase. While it is true that some students may feel that the increase is too high, it is important to remember that the NYGBA provides a valuable service to students. The NYGBA allows students to travel to and from campus, which can be a significant expense for those who do not have access to transportation.

In conclusion, I believe that the NYGBA's fare increase is necessary and fair. I encourage students to continue using the NYGBA and to support the organization in any way possible.

Robert Smith

More time needed

To the Editor:

I would like to address the issue of the Interim policy for Student Affairs. The policy was implemented last year, and while it has had some positive effects, there is still room for improvement.

First, the Interim policy has caused confusion among students and faculty. Many students have reported feeling unsure about what is expected of them under the policy. Additionally, faculty have expressed concern about how the policy will be enforced.

Secondly, the Interim policy has failed to address some important issues. For example, the policy does not provide clear guidelines for the handling of alcohol-related incidents. This has led to inconsistency in how these incidents are handled.

In conclusion, I urge the administration to take the necessary steps to improve the Interim policy. This includes providing clearer guidelines and addressing the concerns of students and faculty.

Fifteen students will be elected to OCA

By Richard Gruber

Fifteen off-campus students will be elected to the newly formed Off-Campus Association (OCA), an offshoot of the Student Association (SA) that is designed to better serve those students who live off-campus.

The new board of directors, originally formed by SA Treasurer Fred Kaufman and Acting SA President Suzy Auletta, will meet in the Student Union to discuss the implementation of OCA. The new OCA will be formed for those students who live off-campus and will be responsible for organizing events and activities for them.

The new board of directors will be elected this fall, and the OCA will be responsible for organizing events and activities for off-campus students. The new board will be formed for those students who live off-campus and will be responsible for organizing events and activities for them.

Faulty fire alarms cause evacuations on Indian

By Phyllis Lorkowitz

The faulty fire alarms caused evacuations on the Indian reservation on Monday. The alarms were triggered by shower steam or cigarettes, causing the students to be evacuated from their dorms. The dorms were not damaged, but the students were inconvenienced.

Airliner incident disrupts Russian exchange

By Bill Lorkowitz

The airliner incident disrupted the exchange students' arrival at SUNYA. The students were scheduled to arrive on September 20, but the flight was canceled due to weather. The students were then scheduled to arrive on September 23, but the flight was delayed due to technical issues. The students were finally able to arrive on September 24, but the exchange program was still disrupted.
