Color Blind?

The subsection has never been a problem at State College, but the color line was certainly well defined at the "inter-color" bee party held last Monday evening. Suddenly the color of your banner and the shape of your pen made the difference between a smile and a shrug. What was the theme of the party? "Separate Tables!"

We all go to the same school, we all play on the same teams, we all live in the same dormitories. There certainly must be a common topic of conversation among the range of all our various experiences.

"This is amusing, but it is not a fair scale way! There is no penalty for fraternizing with "the enemy." There are no "Reserved" signs on the cafeteria tables.

We must learn to accept these conflicting colors as bright as our colors. We all have no problem with that, we should be proud of the groups in which we belong, but even more so, we should be proud of ourselves as individuals. To stand alone is not a sign of weakness but a sign of strength.

Dear Oedipus Smith

Dear Oedipus Smith,

I am more than pleased to have the opportunity to discuss the subject of journalism with you. I think it is important to have a clear understanding of the role of journalism in society.

In your recent column, you mentioned the importance of reporting the truth. I completely agree with this view. As journalists, we have a responsibility to report the truth and to hold those in power accountable.

I also think it is important to consider the impact of journalism on society. Good journalism can have a positive impact on society by raising awareness of important issues and promoting social change.

I hope that this column has been helpful to you. I would be happy to discuss this topic further if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
