First Game of the Season

"LOOK FOR THE WORST, HOPE FOR THE BEST," IS PHILO.

Stables of pessimistic Gil Dabie.

Under the tutelage of a "chop off the old block," State's grid warriors, with the memory of last year's creditable start still in their minds, have started to work with a determination to render a good account of themselves this fall.

Tomorrow's battle, the first of the 1923 gridiron season for the Purple and Gold jerseys, pigskin fencers, will reveal to some extent the efforts of Coach Prince to develop a formidable football machine at State.

St. Lawrence university's crash combined, coughing by famous Cornell backfield star, Eddie Kan, and which limped into Union, at this juncture, as the opposition tomorrow, Coach Wiggs, like his noted Cornellian instructor before him, grudging conflict, is pessimistic as to the outcome.

However, against such a strongfooted faction as it will be presented by the up-state eleven.

As one looks forward each day, it becomes evident that Gridiron College is beginning the fall of the year.

Dorm Fund Swells

Already a record number of students have subscribed to the Dormitory Fund.

A number of amateur actresses of the faculty were engaged for an outside benefit play, "Main Street," before the English department. It is rumored that a certain young lady in English has blithely accepted Dr. Hasting's offer to direct a benefit play, "Main Street," which will be given at the Strand Sunday, October 28, opened with the singing of the Alma Mater. far, State College has been extremely fortunate in getting an excellent faculty together in spite of conditions. Each summer, however, finds it a more difficult task.

Just what class of teachers does State College aim to reach in its summer school? First, it aims to secure excellent professors who are taught by their professional insight, rather than by their professional worldliness. Second, it aims to secure the best and the brightest of the undergraduate faculty. Thirdly, it aims to get those teachers with a lively interest in the personnel of the profession of teaching. If the institution is to be in charge, contribute to the solution of the many problems arising in this field and peculiar to our State. State education.

THE KEYSTONE

Many freshmen are getting that collegiate attitude. Haven't you noticed the increased number of brief cases and little "brown bags" about the building?

An informal supper was held on Wednesday evening, September 30th, at the Home Management House. Miss Fleming gave a report on the National Home Economics Exposition which she attended in Chicago during the first week of August.

Miss Helen Shannon Metzlar, daughter of Dean William Metzlar and Mrs. Metzlar, became the bride of Chauncey Hale Fairbanks of Syracuse on Monday evening. Miss Metzlar is a graduate of Syracuse University in the class of '23.

Miss Gillett spent Saturday and Sunday in Amherst.

Dr. Brubacher is in Binghamton giving an address at a teacher's and Alumni meeting.

Miss Mary Cobb, State College Librarian, attended the State Library Association at Empire State College, Silver Bay in September.

Dr. Cowell and Professor Bichrest were present at a meeting of the Mathematical Association held at Vassar College the week before college opened.

Miss Cobb, in freshman lecture on library science: "If you wanted to look up a special topic in a book you'll look in the index, wouldn't you?"

"Fresh in second class: "Fuh! Should anybody know that?"

Freshman girl to Junior man: "What's your Major and Minor?"

J. Man: "C. E. Major and Economics Minor."

Fresh in: "I can't imagine you in a cooking class.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. service of October 9th will be in honor of the alumnae. Fortunately having a large number of them in college or near by and from them will come the leader, the speaker, and possibly a soloist. Everybody is welcome, but especially those who have been in our alumnas to be with us Tuesday afternoon, October 9th, at 3 o'clock in the Auditorium.

basketball Quadrangle

Skidmore, Russell Sage, Emma Willard, and State College are making a successful attempt to form a quadrangle for basketball. Such a series of games as planned would attract a large attendance to State and arouse more than the usual amount of interest in watching the intercollegiate games.

G. A. A.

The G. A. A. fall season of State College sports has commenced with much anticipated interest for horseback riding, organized hikes, tennis, and basketball. Arrangements for special events are being made. For time of practices see the G. A. A. bulletin board. In regard to this bulletin board, the G. A. A. president made this statement: "It is the vital interest of the members of this institution." See that your name appears there signed up for some sport.

WATCH FOR THE BIRDIE

Eddie Vines has been doing a lot of publicity work lately in the form of taking pictures. He has been busy with the Knickedeker Press photographer in league with each other in looking for fresh "targets." If you do or see any funny or clever stunts that an artist would think would look well in print—"Eddie." (Continued from page 2)

STEP CHILDREN

State College is very glad to welcome fourteen (14) graduate students this year. These students represent various parts of the United States and other countries. Because of their unfamiliarity with the city and lack of affiliation with any one class at college they should receive the special attention and friendship of the entire student body. They are not presented with handbooks nor have they the experience of any one who can make them feel that they have chosen wisely.

MOORE ADDRESS AT CONVOCATION

Students of History and Government, particularly those of international law and political science, will have an opportunity Friday, October 19, to hear John Bassett Moore, judge in the permanent court of international justice at The Hague and recently one of the former living authorities on international law, when he speaks at the annual convocation of the State Regents in Chancellor's Hall, Albany.

The convocation this year, with the exception of Judge Moore's address on international relations, will be especially devoted to a discussion of the problems of colleges and junior high schools. Governor Smith, Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education, and Harlan H. Horner, former dean of State College and now secretary of the State Teacher's association, will be among the principal speakers. The sessions will start Thursday, October 18.

NEW DORM A REALITY

State Senator William T. Byrne, of Albany, who has made possible the enlargement of State College after a long fight in the Legislature, is preparing an appropriation bill, to be presented in this session of the Assembly, which will provide for the construction of a dormitory adjoining the college and Albany High School. Governor Smith has assured its passage.

Preliminary work on the new structure, including the raising of old buildings, formulation of architects' plans, and other attendant details, has practically completed and it is expected the foundation will be started before cold weather sets in.

STATE COLLEGE STUDENTS

You are cordially invited to the YWCA People's and Student's rally at the Gospel Tabernacle, 225 Washington Ave., between Lake Street and Northern Blvd., Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Sat. night at 7:30. Speaker: Rev. C. P. Aro, Congo, Africa, Evangelist T. J. Blye, Syracuse, and Rev. C. Giefer, India, now dean of the missionary training Inst., at Nyack, N. Y.

Special missionary meetings Sunday 11 A.M. and 7:30 P.M.

 Invite your friends.

Convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance now is progressing at this Church.

CHOOSE YOUR SPORT

Through G. A. A., an opportunity for participation in all popular college sports is offered to students. There will be one title on the list to make an appeal to the student who "was never athletic in high school and wonders just how she can get in the five to six hours of active exercise which Dr. Crossdale advises urgently for all students. If you have never participated in any sport, choose one such as tennis or hockey. Then, if you have chosen a sport, which has special practices, attend them, all and every one and the chances are you'll make your class team. If you choose a more individual sport, such as tennis, write a note to your sport captain and she will arrange instruction, if possible.

By choosing one sport, the inexperienced person may become really skilled in the five or six hours advised. Regardless of participation in such sports, Dr. Crossdale stated: "It is the foundation in the life of a man and woman and will enable him to stay on top. Moreover, such neglect invites bodily harm. The student who neglects exercise cannot compete with those who take it. Indeed it is distinctly because I had to dodge the horrid thing to save my own life."

The source of the excitement was not the source of the excitement was not the source of the excitement was not the source of the excitement was not the source of the excitement was not.

The office has now had two coats of paint. It is the upper hall, and many a member of the News board have come fourteen (14) graduate students to the upper hall. The office is the office is the office is the office is the office is.

A REVOLUTION

Through the corridor a peculiar odor seemed to be wafted, and no one could tell from whence it came. It even penetrated to the upper hall, and the source was made out to be the source.

On descending the stairs to the lower hall, the trail seemed to grow stronger, but by the time freshman stood by the source of the excitement it was far away.

At last one brilliant freshman exclaimed: "Ah! Now I remember. About half an hour ago I saw the janitor, wearing sweaters, come down the hall with a roll of paint. He seemed so friendly that I had to dodge the horrid thing to save my own life." At that Geraldo group gathered around the mail box saying, "Well how stupid of course it's paint." And indeed it was. But then came the question, What was being painted? Could it be true? It was the NWS office.

When 3:00 o'clock chimes were out, the members of the News board floored to the office. More than one newly arrived to the office to see the color of the offices walls undergoing such a change.

The office has now had two coats of paint and the improvements are noticeable; a new electric fixture has been added which will further improve the facilities of the office. The News board has taken the steps toward a better paper: better conditions under which to work.

LOST AND FOUND

The News office will be, from now on, the one and only custodian of the Lost and Found box. Come in any time it is open and one of the staff will open the box. It will first be necessary, however, to describe the lost article in order to claim it.

On account of the frequent demand for house matrons in the present student body, Dean Pierce asks any student knowing women who would meet the requirements for such a position to report their names and addresses to his office.

The NEWS regrets the absence of Orena Reuten, '26, who served as assistant business manager on the staff.
