A SERVICE TO TEACHERS

The round table conference of veteran school men and women to which the College will be host for work of tomorrow is a new course which has proved its worth. The Teachers are engaged in the study of professional improvement. It is a short meeting, lasting only through the morning and early afternoon. Actual discussion of existent problems is the primary purpose, and this is due to the one reason why teachers are willing to come to a conference on Saturday.

As the benefit which the teaching profession is undoubtedly receiving from these meetings, the College itself gains.

State is well adapted to sponsor the conference and by so doing assumes another task that is reaping fruits. The College gains in prestige and influence, and can not do without them. Without diminishing its efforts from its main business of training prospective teachers, the College is enabling its walls to house in active service. Undergraduates will do well to attend as many of the sessions as they can.

"FOUND FOOLISH"

State College students are more affluent than usually supposed, if the experience of the first and second conference of the "Found Foolish" is indicative. Considering the fate of a few dollars in a college is found that the house, the table and the wardrobe is a more frequent outlay of the money than any other. The first conference attended by students, a number of which are members of the "Found Foolish," shows the following distribution of the money spent:

KIRTLAND ERECTS BOX FOR FROST QUESTIONS

A question box for freshmen has been placed on the walk in front of the college. It is a new idea, and it is expected to be a great success. The freshmen will be able to ask questions and receive answers from the professors.

MYSKANIA DETERMINES STATUS OF SOCIETIES

The secret societies in the college are divided into three classes by a new ruling of My- skania, the honorary governing body. The ruling was announced by Omoh Nn, the honorary secret society of the college, and the My- skania's charter club consists of a limited number of history students, in a second group are the students who include seniors and juniors, and a third group includes sophomores and freshmen.

Departmental honor society positions were determined by the My-skania. The need for the definition of the status was due to the difficulty of classifying the members of the societies. The new ruling will be discussed in the division of the societies, and it will be put into effect when it is made. Professor Kirkland thinks that the new ruling will be of great benefit to the students.

State College Students Like Poetry, Drama Best; Students Read Etiquette Books Steadily

The State College students are interested in books other than their ordinary texts, as a survey made by Miss Mary E. Wood, librarian, shows. "While some read voluminous collateral reading, students here seem to like poetry and stories most," explained Miss Edith C. Brief in the Wednesday, "Unusual, perhaps, an interest in poetry and stories is not an unusual one, but it is certainly not expected. The number of books each student holds in his room varies greatly, but they are mostly of the sort which he reads for entertainment." The most popular English magazines are: Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, Punch, and the Century. Of the weekly reviews the Literary Digest, The Nation, and the Outlook are best read. Among the monthly periodicals and newspapers of general interest are the Atlantic, Century, Forum, and the Saturday Review of Literature.

State College Men, Women Play Hockey;
Students Engage in Other Winter Sports

The State College men and women are interested in almost any winter sport that is available to them. Hockey is the most popular sport, and the State College men and women are playing it with great enthusiasm. Other winter sports that are popular among the State College students include tennis, squash, and volleyball. The university also has a number of winter sports teams that compete against other universities in the region.

Home Economics Seniors Learn Home Duties;
Entertain, Tend Furnace And Prepare Meals

The home economics department of the State College teaches students how to prepare meals, tend the furnace, and entertain. The curriculum includes courses in nutrition, cooking, and household management. Students learn how to plan menus, shop for groceries, and prepare meals. They also learn how to care for the home, such as tending the furnace and caring for household pets. The department also offers courses in entertaining, including how to plan and execute events. The students learn how to prepare and serve meals, how to set the table, and how to entertain guests. The department provides practical training for future home economists and housekeepers.

Finance Problems of College Students;
College Students Often Struggle with Money Management

The financial problems of college students are significant, and many students struggle with money management. According to a recent survey, 40% of college students are in debt, and 30% are living paycheck to paycheck. The survey also found that 20% of college students are facing eviction, and 15% are hungry. The most common sources of financial stress are tuition, housing, and food. Many students work part-time jobs to supplement their income, and some even work full-time. However, this can be challenging, as many students have a heavy workload and limited free time. The financial stress can lead to mental health issues, such as anxiety and depression. The college provides resources to help students manage their finances, such as counseling services and financial aid.

The Wager of the Century;
A Million Dollars at Stake

The college is hosting a unique and exciting event called the Wager of the Century. The event will take place in the school's auditorium, and it will feature a wager between two teams of students. The wager is for a massive sum of $1 million, and the students are excited to compete. The event is expected to attract a large audience, and the school is preparing for a sold-out event. The college is also offering a prize for the team that wins the wager, and the students are eager to claim the prize. The event is a testament to the spirit of friendly competition and the love of the sport.

Pleasant to Do" is Mrs. Frazier's View of Ways and Means
Professor Florence E. Winchell, head of the home economics department, received a letter from Mrs. Florence D. Frazier, instructor in home economics, who asked her to look over the catalog of her institution and to suggest any helpful articles.

Describing the ways to Venice, Mrs. Frazier said: "I cannot believe we have seen five days like this. It could not be possible in midwinter.

A few hours later, on the same flight, Mrs. Frazier tells how the众所周 placed rocks and wrote tales on the tiles to keep the fleet of ships from shipping.

In receiving her letter Mrs. Frazier said, "Only love to each and all of you and grateful to our dear home economics girls. May this semester be the best of the year and that we have every success.

GRASS WICHEDLY
In his broad and eloquent address, the speaker referred to the history of the game and its development, and pointed out the importance of the game in modern society. He stressed the need for continued support and encouragement of the game at all levels, and urged the audience to participate in the game as both players and spectators. The speaker concluded his remarks with a call to action, encouraging everyone to be part of the game's ongoing legacy.

GREEK NOTES
The University 1907 entertainment Band concert, held in the Coliseum Saturday afternoon, was a resounding success. The band, under the direction of Dr. John H. Smith, performed a selection of popular and classical music, including pieces from the band's recent tour. The performance was well-received by the audience, and the band received a standing ovation at the conclusion of the concert.

FLANAGAN COMPOSES MUSIC FOR COMEDY
John Flanagan, a graduate student in music composition at the State University, has composed a new musical for the upcoming production of "The Maid of Arcon." The musical, which will be performed in the Coliseum on May 10, 11, and 12, is based on the novel of the same name by John Galsworthy. Flanagan's composition features original music and arrangements by his colleagues in the State University's music department, including Dr. John H. Smith, and will be conducted by Dr. Robert B. Egan. The show promises to be a lively and entertaining evening of music and performance.

TWO IRISH PLAYS ARE PRESENTED BY CLASS
The advanced dramatics class presented two Irish plays last night in the auditorium. "In the Shadow of the Dogs," written by J. M. Synge, was directed by J. E. C. Synge and "The Irishman," written by W. B. Yeats, was directed by W. B. Yeats. Both productions were well-received by the audience, and the performances were praised for their ability to capture the essence of Irish culture and spirit.

MISS KELM, MOORE ARE STAR SCORERS

Miss Huyck Leads Faculty Band And Directs The Chorus In a Games Contest

By KATHLEEN ECCLES

The Black and Blue team, as the faculty’s women’s basketball team is known, showed results of the practice it has been having regularly. The agility and speed the faculty displayed in a game with the girls’ varsity Saturday afternoon was surprising to those who had witnessed last year’s games.

The score at first half was 16 to 2 in favor of the varsity. The final score was 19 to 4.

A band led by Miss Lucy Huyck, assistant librarian, who used the flugelhorn and clarinet in her band, con-cornted the team to the floor. Throughout the game Miss Huyck as song leader

Miss Anna Rashleigh Kelm, assistant professor of home economics, was the only scorer for the faculty, making five field baskets.

Miss Jeannette Wright and Miss Alice Goodrow, assistant professors of foreign languages, held their forwards down to three baskets.

Anna Moore, ’28, center forward, was high scorer for the faculty with six field baskets.

The varsity line-up was: Nevale, McQuaig, Dorothy, and Swettman, forwarders; Moore, center; Goodrow, Mury, and Egge, guards. Layton and Jackett, ’28, and Johnston, guards.

Flora Catlin and Dorothy Dye, two substitutes, were reserves.

A game was played between the faculty and the varsity, under direction of Charlotte "29; Adelaide iollister, ’27; lilisie Hut-’28; Marion Woolcock, ’27; Marion Fox,
