now considered a matter of destiny [Albany's] loss on the line as the key to all our plans for the season," said right-hander Fred Schaefer, "right from the start.

The batsmen, however, were a delta's act before the start. On the way, they were practicing their hitting strokes in the dugout while the rest of the team was eating.

Dr. Schaefer, who has been with the team for three years, is the only returning player from the unsuccessful 1928 season. He is a senior at the University of Vermont, where he is studying dentistry.

The rest of the team is made up of freshmen and sophomores, with one junior.

The game tonight will be the third of the season for the Danes, who are 2-1 in the league and 5-2 overall. The team is preparing for a hard-fought battle with Buffalo, which is 3-0 in the league and 7-0 overall.

The Danes will rely on the pitching of Schaefer, who has a 1.80 earned run average, and the hitting of senior outfielder John Baker, who has a .350 batting average.

The game is set for 7:30 p.m. at Recreation Field and will be carried on WCAP Radio.

UAS To Sell Its Last Residence

By Steve Baskett

UAS Board has decided to sell 140 acres of land to the University of the State of New York as the legal owner of the property.

The property has been in the family of the late Andrew Smith, a member of the UAS Board of Directors, for many years.

According to Dr. John Smith, the current owner of the property, the sale is necessary to meet the financial needs of the university.

The sale will be conducted by the UAS Board of Directors, and the proceeds will go towards the university's general fund.

The property is located near the city of Albany and is currently used for research and educational purposes.

The university has been in the process of selling the property for several years, but it has been difficult to find a buyer.

Recently, a local developer expressed interest in purchasing the property for a residential development.

The sale is expected to be completed within the next few months.

We will make sure to keep you updated on the progress of the sale.

Thank you for your support of the University of the State of New York.

TAP Question Still Unresolved

by Jonathan Hodge

The Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) is facing a financial crisis, as the state budget is expected to cut funding for the program.

The TAP program provides financial aid to students who are enrolled in state universities.

According to the New York State University Chancellor, the state budget is expected to cut funding for TAP by 20%.

This will result in a significant reduction in the number of students who can receive financial aid through the program.

The Chancellor has stated that the state budget is facing severe financial constraints, and that cuts to TAP are necessary to balance the budget.

The TAP program is critical to the success of many students, and its reduction will have a significant impact on their ability to attend college.

We are working to find a solution to this crisis.

Concerned Faculty Reject

Union Pact With State

A group of faculty members at the University of the State of New York have rejected a proposed union contract with the state.

The faculty members are concerned about the proposed contract, which they believe does not offer adequate compensation and benefits for their work.

The contract was proposed by the state, but the faculty members rejected it, citing concerns about the proposed compensation and benefits.

The university is expected to respond to the faculty members' rejection of the contract.

We will keep you updated on the progress of the negotiations.

Grapplers Win Two Of Three

by Dan Kurt

The Albany State Wrestling team squeaked out a 36-33 victory over Oneonta State in the final match of their three-meet series, clinching their Conference East title.

The Danes won all three meets against Oneonta State this season, and now have a 22-1 record overall.

Coach Dan McConnell said, "We're really happy with the way we've been wrestling lately. We've been working hard in practice and it's paying off for us.

We're excited to see how we'll do against a team like Oneonta State, who has been really good this year.

The Danes' next meet will be a home meet against the State University of New York at Stony Brook, where they are 2-1 in the conference.

SA, in defiance of some law, has not had its checkbooks audited in the last three years. In the face of possible law suit and administrative action, SA officials remain steadfastly opposed to a full audit.

By Charles Santos

Each year, Student Association officers meet during the spring to audit the books and prepare a report for the next year’s officers. This year, the SA audit committee has been given a task that is not part of its normal duties.

The committee is reviewing the audit of the Student Association’s books for the past three years, and taking a hard look at the financial records. The committee’s task is to determine if there are any discrepancies, omissions, or errors in the books, and to make recommendations for future financial practices.

The audit committee consists of three members: the SA president, the SA vice president, and the SA treasurer. The committee has access to all financial records, including bank statements, invoices, and receipts.

The audit process involves reviewing each transaction and comparing it to the corresponding financial record. Any discrepancies are noted and investigated, and any errors are corrected. The committee will then prepare a report for the SA board, which will be presented to the SA membership for approval.

The SA audit committee is committed to ensuring the integrity of the SA financial records. The committee is dedicated to providing accurate and transparent financial information to the SA membership. The committee is also committed to ensuring that the SA financial records are compliant with all applicable laws and regulations.

The SA audit committee is confident that the SA financial records are accurate and transparent. The committee is committed to continuing its efforts to ensure the integrity of the SA financial records, and to providing accurate and transparent financial information to the SA membership.

Telethon '77 Donations: Ahead of Last Year’s

Sally Silver

Sally Silver, who arranged Telethon '77, says $7,000 ahead of last year's total of $5,000 for the 24-hour charity-fundraising show on March 20.

According to the California State Society, the Telethon last year raised $5,000, and it reached $5,100 on Monday, or 101 percent of its $5,000 goal.

Donations can come from anywhere: no one will be left behind, and no one will be too small to contribute.

Student radio

Student radio station KDUU is raising money for the Telethon.

"We're raising money for the Telethon because it's a good cause," said Al ministry student, who contributed $50.

"It's a way to spread the word about the Telethon and show our support for the cause." said another student.

Campus Cable TV to Wait a Year

By Steve Pederson

SUNY students will have to wait at least one year for cable television in the dormitories.

Currently, Campus Cable Television systems are in the planning stages for future systems.

The University does not have the funds to begin building a cable system for the next 12 months, according to the Suny's Cable Television Office.

"We're looking at the possibility of having cable in the next 12 months," said the office.

"We're trying to get the money together before we can begin building a cable system." he said.

Hollywood, CA: A major public relations campaign was launched today to promote the Telethon.

"The campaign is designed to reach out to the public and encourage them to participate in the Telethon," said Paul Marsh, public relations manager.

Marsh said the campaign will run through the month of March and will include print, radio, and television advertisements.

"We want to make sure that people know about the Telethon and how much we need their support," he said.

LP's Now $7.98

By ELLEN WEISS

Somehow, back in the days of Woodstock, a entrepreneur concocted an idea that rock albums should be distributed free as one of the basic necessities of life. Fortunately, that same performance in the '70s is probably contributing to the rising price of rock albums by adding to the expense.

For those of you that may not have heard, you will now be paying a dollar more per album, a month of music sale.

As the rates have increased, albums are already lined up for the future.

As the rates will be increasing for the future, more than a few distributions will be forced to go on to sell.

Since most of us are brought up in a time in time, we have done our little investigating to try to figure out why the rate has been changing.

The primary reason for the change is due to the increased distribution costs and "increased royalties."

As for the future, we are going to be paying more to the artists, and the cost of the discs is going to remain the same.

I hope this has been informative. Don't forget to take care of your music needs. We have been paying $10 in concert tickets for the last three years and it's getting harder to make albums play a dollar more for records. Of course, we do not have to worry about the cost of the discs, as we have been able to keep up with the increase in the cost of the records.

This issue of the magazine is in honor of the immediate redistribution and half-decent decisions. Now, a person accused of a crime is simply placed on the list.

Quad Judicial Boards: How Do They Work?

By ELLIOTT SCHEER

Throughout college, maintaining law and order has always been a primary concern of students. In the beginning, companies were formed to get students to form their own courts. In the last 10 years, this has been especially important.

The judicial system at SUNYA is centered, primarily concerned with maintaining order and keeping the peace. Each board has its own identity, but they all work together to achieve this goal.

Harry Kieschnik, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, of course is subject to his review.

SLURRY -- "Will you stretch my leg?" "Hey you got a belt?" By 6:30 Sunday night, over a dozen students with yellow, red and green belts, were gathered in the Dutch Quad U-4 lounge, stretching, kicking, jogging, exercising. All standing around, checking out the only article of furniture in the room.

"Don't you feel funny doing that in the middle of everyone like that?" asked one of the forty-odd onlookers scattered around the back of the room, trying to get at a particular article of furniture.

"That's the key to all this," he replied, "getting everyone to stretch."
NYPIRG: Some Major Issues

SPECIAL ISSUE OF STUDENT VOTING RIGHTS

New York State Voter Registration Drive NYPIRG and SASE sponsored over 50,000 students in New York for the November 1976 presidential election. In the process, many students were disfranchised by not having their registration honored and by not casting their absentee ballots in time to vote. This led NYPIRG to seek the following reforms.

Abolish Fee (for Filing) NYPIRG believes that approximately 10,000 student absentee ballots were not counted. NYPIRG used in Federal courts to have ballots counted. The case was lost but is being appealed.

Reform of Article 15 of the Election Law: This rule prevents New York State students from voting when they attend college. New York is one of the few states that disfranchises students from their residence in this way. Together, a SASE student professor and a NYPIRG law student filed suit under this article in October. The State Supreme Court allowed the plaintiffs to register but refused to overturn Article 15. However, good grounds have been established for a future appeal that should reform this statute.

Registration of College Students: As last fall's voter registration drive demonstrated, low voter participation is often the result of the difficulties encountered in registering. NYPIRG is proposing legislation that establishes easy voter registration in colleges and universities during registration for courses.

WHAT IS NYPIRG?

The New York Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (NYPIRG) is a student funded, student run, non-profit corporation, created to bring to the New York State government the kind of independent, non-partisan analysis and investigative reporting that is characteristic of American national news media. NYPIRG operates on a budget of about $500,000 a year out of nonefforts in the same offices. These offices are staffed by a full-time executive director, a staff of full-time investigators, lawyers, researchers and hundreds of volunteers. The University at Albany has contributed $32,000 a year to NYPIRG. This was determined by the student body in 1975 by a two year binding referendum. It was passed by an overwhelming margin. NYPIRG is now preparing to bring another referendum to the students to determine educational and community programs. A Second Campus Drive: On February 12, NYPIRG will be holding its fourth annual Spring Student Vote Conference at SUNY Albany's sale parceled Altata House. Workshops on various public interest issues will be held along with a keynote address by Ralph Nader's lobbyist Joan Chafetz. Registration for the conference may be made at the NYPIRG office in DC 390.

ENVIROMENTAL PRESERVATION

Hudson River Drinking Water: PCBs are still a real environmental problem in the Hudson River. NYPIRG students have submitted the Hudson River study.

STUDENT INVOLVEMENT

Student activists in the last decade were both sporadic and shortlived. However, it proved to be a powerful force, as illustrated by the student involvement in the anti-Vietnam demonstrations. NYPIRG has harmonized this force and effectively directed it into areas where it can have the greatest impact. A professional staff has been added to not only coordinate and provide guidance, but to supply the continuity that was lacking in the past. The result: Student activism of the 70s has added the dimension of sophistication to its work. NYPIRG's efforts in the areas of legislation, in litigation, and in the publication of various studies, has proven to be effective in advancing its goals of social reform. Only a competent, hard-working staff could have turned this dream of student activists into a reality.

To put this into proper perspective, however, it must be remembered that at the very core of the student activist is the student activist. Students provide the time, research, and field work, without which NYPIRG could never have achieved what it already has. NYPIRG's Board of Directors contains only students. Student ideas and involvement are an integral part of NYPIRG's policy decisions.

NYPIRG's internship program helps to provide the student with the knowledge and experience essential to a successful career in public interest work. NYPIRG's Internship Program is the student with the knowledge and experience essential to a successful career in public interest work. NYPIRG's Internship Program is the student with the knowledge and experience essential to a successful career in public interest work.

With 33 1/3, George Harrison knew he had found something special. It was his first solo album, released in 1970, and it marked a new chapter in his career. The album contained eight songs, including "Crackerbox Palace," which remains a fan favorite to this day. However, Harrison was not satisfied with the record, and he spent additional time in the studio to perfect the tracks. Despite this, the album was a commercial success and remains a beloved part of his catalog.

What's A Few Grand?

There's a lot of yelling and screaming when the Maricopa Repeals of the campus are found dipping into student tax funds for their lunch money, but is there no action being taken to prevent such abuses of power in the future?

SA President Steve DiMeo and Controller Nolan Altman have refused, in violation of state law, to hire an accounting firm for an audit of Student Association financial records. They've convinced that an audit would be a waste of money—that the books, in their present state, constitute an accountant's nightmare.

Unfortunately, they're right. SA has kept track of its income with the precision and accuracy of the carillon bells. When even the controller of this organization has no idea how much money is coming in from where, no auditing firm can be expected to hand down a nod of approval.

What's mystifying about all this is that DiMeo and Altman seem to regard this uncontrollable state of affairs as permanent, as an uncorrectable fault inherent in the operation of SA.

This is shortsighted at best. SA can sit back and accept the loss of a few thousand dollars as inevitable, but a resulting full-scale class action lawsuit could wipe them out. And every student on this campus would be fully within their rights to initiate such a suit.

The situation doesn't have to remain this way; there's no excuse for handling close to a million dollars in such a slipshod manner. A complete reorganization of SA's bookkeeping and receipt system is absolutely imperative.

If the revision never begins, SA may be able to start the new-fiscal year with a stringently financial right in hand. The possibility of a SUNYA fieldhouse, and the additional revenue it will generate, is just one more reason why preparation should be undertaken as soon as possible.

Change will come, and SA isn't here to turn a profit. It's here to serve the students, something SA's officials tend to lose sight of occasionally. They're playing with real money, not imaginary money—and students have a right to know what games they're playing.

The question is, would they go straight to SUNYA? What about the players? Would the coaches? I think they would. So, you would start UT Small, the University of Buffalo would want to go into the 10-year window, not go into the 3-year window. I think the only thing that would be a big impact is the number of coaches that had their jobs cut. For the next 10 years, they would be the third or fourth division. So, from that standpoint, they would be able to go straight away. If you had higher expectations for the first 3 years, then after that, you would have to wait and see. You would have to apply for the position. But, if you could go into the 10-year window, then you would have an advantage.
