Upset-Minded Trackmen Shock Cortland 93-70

By Fred Shook

"All the credit goes to the athletes," said Mark O'Sullivan, head coach of the University of Massachusetts men's track team after his team upset the state champion Cortland 93-70 last Saturday. "They are the ones who work hard and make it happen." The game was held at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Netmen Beat Travelling UMass

By David Young

What a match! The travelling University of Massachusetts (UMass) netmen, led by their ace player, Bill Young, defeated the host team, the Harvard Crimson, 6-2 on Tuesday afternoon. Young's performance was the highlight of the match, as he scored two goals in the first period to give the UMass the lead. The Crimson fought back in the second period, but Young's goal in the 69th minute put the game out of reach. The match took place at the Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Bills On Retrenchment Unlikely

By M.J. Maunder

The New York State Assembly's recent defeat of a proposal to cut spending is a setback for Governor Cuomo's plan to reduce government spending. The proposal, which was introduced by Assemblyman Mark Comerford, would have cut $1 billion from the state budget over the next two years. The bill was voted down by a margin of 81-58. Governor Cuomo had hoped to use the savings to fund his tax relief plan.

Search: Choosing a Non-Candidate

By Matthew Coo

The search for the perfect candidate is always challenging. Many people are hesitant to commit to a candidate who is not their first choice, but may still be the best option available. This is especially true in a primary election, where the candidates are often ideologically distant from one another. In this case, it may be best to choose a candidate who is not your first choice, but who is still a good option for the position.

Mayor Denies Blocking Regents Bid

By John O'Keefe

Mayor Bill de Blasio has denied reports that he blocked the nomination of a new chancellor for the City University of New York (CUNY) system. The mayor's office has said that the nomination process is handled by the state legislature, and that the mayor does not have the authority to block it. However, some critics have accused the mayor of using his influence to block the nomination of a Democratic candidate.

Kremer Supports Health Fee Repeal in Budget

By Fred Lefkowitz

Assemblyman Steve Kremer has introduced a bill to repeal the health fee, which was adopted as part of the state budget in 2015. The fee was initially intended to help fund the state's Medicaid program, but has been criticized for being regressive and benefiting the wealthy. Kremer's bill, which has been endorsed by the New York State Association of School Administrators, would use the funds generated by the fee to help fund public schools.

Women's Clinic Seeks Funding

by Karla Murphy

University researchers believe a new clinic at SUNYA might be the answer to the women's health care needs of the region. The clinic would be staffed by University faculty and students and would offer a wide range of services, including gynecology, obstetrics, and family planning.

The clinic is being planned by SUNYA researchers in cooperation with the University's College of Medicine. The researchers believe that the clinic would be an important resource for women in the region, providing access to high-quality health care services that are currently unavailable.

The researchers are currently seeking funding to support the clinic, and they hope to begin operations within the next year. They are asking for the support of the community in making this important project a success.

UAC Passes Proposed 'W' Policy

by Bill Parker

A new policy that allows students to use the term 'W' in academic writing and discussion has been passed by the Student Senate. The policy will go into effect next semester and will allow students to use the term 'W' in any context in which it is appropriate.

The policy is designed to provide students with more flexibility in their writing and to encourage a more inclusive environment. It is hoped that the policy will be well-received by the student body and that it will contribute to a more diverse and open-minded academic community.

Curriculum Report May Be Late

by Anna Smith

The annual report on the curriculum of the college has been delayed due to the ongoing pandemic. The report is expected to be released in the near future, but it may be some time before it is available.

The report is an important resource for students, faculty, and administrators, as it provides an overview of the college's academic offerings and helps to guide the curriculum development process. Students and faculty are encouraged to check back for updates on the release of the report.

SUNYA Symphony Set To Sound Off

By J. M. HALL

The SUNYA Symphony is ready to perform its spring concert at 8 p.m. on May 10. This event marks the final performance of the season and promises to be a memorable experience for all who attend.

Lack of communication again!

"We don't publish and promote these events enough," says Dr. John Smith, director of SUNYA Symphony. "People are just not aware of what we have to offer."

Caskadl also attended the concert. "It was a great experience," he said. "The music was wonderful and the overall atmosphere was very enjoyable."
“Fleming had originally envisioned actor Hoagy Carmichael as James Bond.”

By RICHARD SCHENKMAN

I was back in 1952 that the name James Bond was born from the pages of a comic strip, the

James Bond comic strip that scarf bound was published in the Sunday supplement of The Chicago Daily News. Its creator, Ian Fleming, was a special agent of the MI6, the British Secret Intelligence Service. His work as a spy inspired him to create the character of James Bond, a secret agent who became the ultimate spy in the world of espionage.

Fleming was a war correspondent during World War II and later became a successful novelist, with his most famous work being the James Bond series. The first book in the series, "Casino Royale," was published in 1953.

Casino Royale was very popular, and Fleming was inundated with offers to adapt it into a film. However, he was initially hesitant to do so, as he was concerned about the suitability of the material for film.

Fleming had originally envisioned actor Hoagy Carmichael as James Bond, and actor

Roger Moore later took on the role. However, the role was ultimately given to British actor Sean Connery.

Connery had a long and successful career in film, and his portrayal of Bond remains one of the most iconic in cinematic history.

Fleming was a master of creating memorable characters, and his work continues to inspire filmmakers and writers to this day. His legacy as a spy novelist is firmly established, and his work continues to be read and enjoyed by millions of people around the world.

Unanswered Questions

The search is over. Vince O’Leary has been recommended for the SUNYA presidency, yet there are many questions about the search process which will remain unanswered. First, the search committee never made public the names of the other candidates. What was the caliber of these candidates? It was very rare that the committee speak of O’Leary, who repeatedly stated that he did not want the job permanently.

If committee members were not pleased with this secrecy, why has this only come out after the process has been completed? Why didn’t the SUNYA community get a chance to question the candidates? And why was the decision to hire O’Leary made in the absence of the SUNYA community? The SUNYA community should be asked how the recommendations are made, how the candidates are selected, and why O’Leary was chosen. The SUNYA community should be involved in the decision-making process and should have a voice in the selection of the new president.

“W”, Students and Senate

A constituent of SUNYA Senate passed a new bill on the course withdrawal policy yesterday. This bill calls for the elimination of the “W,” that negative mark which has marred many a SUNYA student’s transcript and chances of employment or placement in graduate school.

The “W” did not get erased without some sacrifice in return, however. The bill calls for the replacement of the withdrawal period in the current spring weeks to one week after mid-term.

While this is not the best thing for students, it does make the faculty happy, who have been studying a “W” for years. For faculty, the “W” is no longer teaching a course and has students drop out of it at the end of the semester. For students, it means a little adjustment. They must think twice before dropping a class, and must also think twice about the effect of the “W” on their transcript.

In a related Senate issue, the question of whether students should remain in the policy-developing body comes to a faculty vote on Monday.

Without student representation, the Senate would no longer be a truly representative body and would lose a large amount of integrity. Faculty members who will vote on this question. Monday should keep that in mind. The vote is not only for students, it is for SUNYA as it future as a viable university governing entity.
Now comes Miller time.

Intramurals: A SUNYA Success Story

The Intramural program has been a huge success, both in terms of participation and in terms of winning. The program has been well-received by the students and has helped to create a sense of community and healthy competition among the students. The Intramural program has also provided an opportunity for students to develop their skills and to learn new ones.

Netmen Roll Along, Defeat Hartwick With New Lineup

by David Wright

The Le Moyne College men’s track and field team added four new members to the program last year. As a result, the team has shown growth throughout the season.

This year, the team has added a number of new faces to the roster, including several transfers from other schools. The additions have helped the team improve in several events, and they have contributed to the team’s overall success.

The Le Moyne men’s track and field team will compete in the Great Lakes Valley Conference meet this weekend. The meet will be held at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa.
