Who Is Who

"Who's Who" books are very numerous. Few people ever realize how many people are included in "Who's Who." And "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" is an example of the use of the phrase.

Lately, there has been among the students a curiosity regarding the validity of this publication. Few people are acquainted with a "Who's Who" in every year. The "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" book, according to our librarian, "obviously makes no claim to be all inclusive." It is the opinion of the librarian that it has been suggested that it is used as a reference book, what boys just out of college. Due to the fact that it is not made available to them, only a small number of students have purchased it. Hopefully, many professors will use it to look up the names of prospective teachers.

Nevertheless, this is no favored group. There are no specific criteria for the people who are included. In fact, one cannot see a certificate or chart to determine, and in other schools, a list is written down. Six hundred college students own a "Who's Who" every year, and this seems to be such a good book that it is worth the money to buy it.

"Who's Who" books are very professional. The phrase is not used in the same way in other professions. It is used in the business world, for example, where the phrase is not used in the same way in other professions. One Man’s Opinion

Luncheon afternoon and evening speeches by Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Barker, members of the College of Liberal Arts, will be the featured events of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures during its 75th anniversary celebration this week. The speeches will be held at the College of Liberal Arts, 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. respectively.

Dr. Barker, a veteran of World War II, will speak on "The World's Role in the United Nations." His address will be in English.

Mrs. Barker, a native of Scotland, will discuss "The Role of Women in World Politics." Her address will be in French.

Both speeches will be followed by a question and answer period.

These speeches are free to all students and faculty members.

New Queen To Reign Over Evening Activity
Catherine Lyons, 22, of the Sophomore Class and State College's basketball player who starred at Union College, will reign in a pageant at the State College this year. The pageant, scheduled for the evening of November 19, will be the second of its kind at the college. Lyons was chosen by the Sophomore Class, which had nominated three candidates: Morris R. W. Christy '49, a sophomore; Lyons; and Leo J. House '49, a sophomore. Lyons' reign will be capped by June Youmans, 22, a sophomore, who was chosen by the Junior Class.
