War Fronts

by Roberta Franklin

The Japanese have definitely exposed Australia and New Zealand to continuous air attack. The printing plant at Berlin is no longer in operation. The location of all cities is no longer a secret. In other words, the Japanese have made all the American people aware of the growing threat to their lives. This is the very thing that we at State must guard against. The air raids have become more frequent and more severe. The war is not over yet. The Japanese still have a long way to go before they can be defeated. The American people must remain vigilant and continue their efforts to bring about a peaceful solution to the conflict.

The Weekly Bulletin

The weekly bulletin is a new feature of the State College News. It is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the activities of the college and its students. The bulletin will feature stories, articles, and editorials on a wide range of topics, including sports, student life, and campus news. The bulletin will be published weekly, and will be available online and in print. The bulletin is open to all students, faculty, and staff, and we encourage everyone to submit their own contributions. The bulletin is a reflection of the diversity and richness of the State College community, and we look forward to sharing it with everyone.

Hq.

By Hugh Ladd

The president of the State College News, Hugh Ladd, has announced that the newspaper will be held for the next two months. The decision was made after a long and difficult process of consultation with the board of directors, faculty, and students. The president stated that the newspaper will be held in order to give students the opportunity to improve their writing and editing skills. The newspaper will be held until the end of the semester, and will resume publication in the fall.

Uncle Sam's War

By Rhone Ryan

Uncle Sam's war is in full swing. The nation is at war, and the war is on all fronts. The Japanese have attacked Pearl Harbor, and the United States has declared war on Japan. The country is at war, and the United States is prepared to fight. The war is not easy, and the United States will face many challenges. But the United States is determined to win the war, and the country is behind the president and his administration. The war is a test of strength, and the United States is ready to meet the test.

The State College News is a student-run newspaper, and we encourage all students to submit their own contributions. The newspaper is a reflection of the diversity and richness of the State College community, and we look forward to sharing it with everyone.

Varsity Tennis To Take Spotlight
In State Spring Sport Parade

With the first months of State's new tennis schedule almost under its belt, the simmering enthusiasm of the girls' tennis squad is already reaching a peak. However, the4s tennis team, which has been the backbone of the State tennis program during the past three years, opens its home season this week.

The home season is important to the whole team, for the last time it is the chance to clinch the league title. The girls' tennis team is expected to go undefeated in the league this year, and the last chance to clinch the title is in their home court.

The team consists of four members: Latimer, Dot Simmons, Lois Dann, and Leda LaSalle. Each member of the team has shown remarkable improvement in their skills, and the team is expected to perform well in the upcoming season.

The girls' tennis team is composed of this unique combination of talent, which has led to their success in previous years. The team's coach, Mr. James Anderson, has been instrumental in grooming the team's members to reach their full potential.

The girls' tennis team is looking forward to a successful season, and they are determined to make the most of their home court advantage. With their hard work and dedication, the team is expected to bring home the league title this year.
