SOLOISTS ENTERTAIN AT CONCERT

No one number of Friday evening’s musical could be singled out for praise since all were rendered in such a pleasing manner. The Public School Music Class made the children stick to play-days and “Hurry Diddle Diddles” when they gave the Group of Songs from the Child World.

The second number was given by Professor Candlyn, and a student assistant. Miss Leonard rendered several solos and was voted a success by the audience.

Mr. Hesser, who was in charge of the evening’s entertainment, sang “When the Lark rose in a delightful manner—but, then, no one who heard his songs at last Friday expected anything less.

Mrs. Markett, one of the best known soprano soloists in the city, charmed us by her rendition of several songs.

A piano selection was admirably executed by Professor Candlyn, who has gained distinction through his ability as a composer.

Community singing, under the direction of Mr. Hesser, concluded the musical program. The remainder of the evening was spent in the gymnasium, where refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

PSYCHOLOGY OF TEACHING TYPEWRITING

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Barnhardt gave a history of the teaching of commercial subjects from Colonial days, beginning with ciphering and casting of accounts, and ending with the teaching of commercial subjects in the present-day methods was that we teach the subjects without always remembering the business aspects.

Mr. Barnhardt gave a history of the teaching of commercial subjects from Colonial days, beginning with ciphering and casting of accounts, and ending with the teaching of commercial subjects in the present-day methods was that we teach the subjects without always remembering the business aspects.

On Monday Mr. Abrams devoted most of the time to discussion and illustration. Slides and a stereopticon were used. The audience turned into a history class and discussion as to what was shown, also those at Tarrytown, Van Rensselaer manor house was shown, also those at Tarrytown.

The second number was given by Miss Mary Leonard, a pupil of Mr. Lesser, who was in charge.

Miss Mary Leonard, a pupil of Mr. Lesser, who was in charge, rendered several solos and was voted a success by the audience.

On Tuesday Mr. Abrams mentioned the two main methods of teaching the subjects. One method was to use pictures that were the picture of the Dutch East India Co., the purchase of Manhattan Island by the Dutch, and Wall Street in those early days. The picture of a house built in Holland in 1600 shows certain features of architecture which can be found in Albany today. Slides showing mansion houses near the Hudson were interesting. The Van Rensselaer manor house was shown, also those at Tarrytown.

The following program was given:

1. Marche Slave Tschaikowsky (b) A dainty trifle by one of the best known soprano soloists in the city, charmed the audience with her rendition of several songs.

2. a) Moment Musical
   b) Ave Marie Schubert
   c) Paysage
   d) Ariel
   e) Honnet
   f) A dainty trifle by one of the foremost French organists.

The middle section (legato) is admirably contrasted with the lightness and brilliance of the first and second portions.

4. Humoresque
   “L’Organo Primitive”

One of the few humorous pieces written for the organ, only two steps are required for performance, a Mammal Flight and pedal movement. The composer is an Italian, but now resides in New York. He was recently elected Honorary Organist of the Vatican, Rome.

5. “Roundy” (b) Rossetter Cole

This American composer is organist in a Chicago church.

HISTORY TRIPS

Weeks of History and other topics take note. You have heard the name of Schuyler Mansion, the place of a former governor whom you have read about. Now you have an opportunity to visit the old place. With the aid of photographs, you can see the mansion and the room where Washington slept.

Both trips will occur on the same day, since the Revolutionary mansion is not far distant from the Capitol. One group will meet at the College (Washington Avenue), at 2 o’clock Thursday, August 4th; the second group will meet in the Capitol Building.

Are you interested in this opportunity? If so, sign lists in the “Co-Op” before Wednesday, Aug. 2nd.

to arrange a successful summer at State College, let us formulate our aims at the beginning of the session. I suggest that first and foremost, we must secure as much educational advancement as possible in order that we may go back to our schools with new methods and renewed inspiration.

Let us also strive to make new friends, because the possession of friends is one of the greatest factors in the happiness of men, as well as one of the greatest factors of happiness. We should also be happy, which is the sixth sense that we need in Albany. Even if one feels unhappy, one should be happy. We must have a happy state of mind while puzzling over a problem. And to secure the maximum of happiness we must secure our lives with work, recreation, rest and friends.

In order to be successful in any undertaking we must start with a definite goal ahead of us. In order
YOUR EXTRA COURSE
Are you a teacher? Probably you have had the urge to make yourself a more valuable member of your profession. Then you may forget the extra course which it is essential for you to take during the summer season. Perhaps you are already proficient in the art of painting, of catching up, of relaxing. Perhaps you are already able to secure enjoyment from the little pleasures found by the way. If not, begin to-day to cultivate that art, and see how much more pleasure there is in life than you ever before dreamed of.

Do you rush about from morning until night, from work to play, and from play to work? It is an American habit, and causes us to miss something in life which our European cousins have. Can you, for more than sixty seconds at a time, enjoy a sunset; a beautiful flower; a sunbeam; an old State street, registration day, the old State street, registration day, the old State street, registration day, the old State street, registration day? If not, then you are missing too many of those lovely things there are about us which we miss because we do not pause to enjoy them.

You say there isn't time in the day, and you cannot believe that any one could spend the leisure of the summer to feel the enjoyment of the beautiful little things in life. Remember that, after all, this is your holiday, and that if at every minute of the time is spent in an intense one of energy, next winter will find you lacking in the pep which makes life worth living and doing. Although your head will be stored full of information, the joy of importing it to others will be lacking. Suppose you do learn a little less of book knowledge. In the whole your life will be richer, your happiness more complete, and consequently your usefulness greater.

Then, too, there are the odd moments of the day which may be used to advantage. What do you see, and of what do you think while you are waiting on the dusty, hot corner for a car? Are you intrinsically fit to the requirements that, when after a long evening and a busy market, all the ills gone, you lie down in the soft, red of the parlor in the window-box near by? How do you use your four minutes of waiting in

BOOK EXHIBITS
If you chance to be in the basement of the main college building near Room II, be sure to take time and examine the fine display of books on exhibition there. There are two tables entirely given over to the exhibit, which is gathered from the output of the two big publishing houses, the American Book Company and Houghton Mifflin & Co. The books are all classified and certain branches are taken up each day. The progress from subject to subject is set forth each day on a big chart which is on the main bulletin board in the room. This display of books enables the students and teachers not only to read about certain books, but to actually see and handle them, and should they see a book they desire to own, an order may be placed with the people in charge of the exhibit. There is a second book exhibit in the College Co-Op, which is just as interesting and instructive as the one in Room II, although it is much smaller. This exhibit is from the books of the Scott Foreman Company, and is on display continuously without charge. Follow the chances of the Room II exhibit on the chart and be sure to visit both displays. The constant and frequent attention is a very profitable and a rather fascinating half hour.

SPANISH CLUB
The meeting of the Spanish Club was held at the home of Miss Dunn, Wednesday evening, July 20. A short program was presented, and refreshments were served. The club will meet next Wednesday, August 2 at 7:30, at the college. Watch the bulletin boards for notice of the meeting.

SARATOGA TRIP A SUCCESS
We feel that every minute of life is offering us either the opportunity for pleasure or an opportunity for learning. After such a trip as the ride to Saratoga, most of us are pleased and sang until we were hoarse. We were never more ready in all our lives for lunch as we were in the evening. Professor Hildley elucidated so many historical facts that we were almost overcome, and we were as ready to sing on the ride home as we were early in the morning.

NOTICES
The Biology Department is arranging an excursion to the "Indian Lakes" in the Adirondacks Mountains on August 5. All students who care to enjoy the excursion are invited to go with the Biology Department. Everyone who intends to go should see Dr. Hildley in Room 112, at once in order that transportation can be arranged.

Mr. A. E. Rejall, chairman of the committee to arrange the new library test for the new voters, will address the Association of Superintendents and Principals, Wednesday, August 2, at the subject of these tests and duties of superintendents and principals in regard to issuing certificates of literacy. The committee of which Mr. Rejall is chairman, was appointed by the Board of Regents and Dr. Graves and its work is regarded as the greatest application of the psychology of modern political problems. The State Department has asked for our institution for its preservation of these new requirements for the University, and the entire student body is invited.

On August 8, at 8:15, in the auditorium, the Near East Association will present a three-reel picture entitled, "Alice in Hungerland." After the picture Dr. McCree, who has seen service in Armenia, will speak on the objects of the Near East Relief. No money will be solicited from the students at any time, before or after the program. Dr. McCree is said to be a fine speaker and it is hoped that there will be a good turnout.

The college library owns about 7,000 volumes selected to cover collateral reading and quick reference work and to stimulate reading for recreation. Several thousand volumes are also available through the generosity of the Albany libraries in interlibrary loan. In addition to 600 and 1,500 volumes have been borrowed for the use of summer school students. The college library will borrow at any time books from other libraries for students who have special work in any subject.

Miss Mabel Carney, Professor of Rural Education in the Teachers' College, Columbia University, who was scheduled to conduct several conferences on Rural Education in August, will not be able to present at that time. Consequently the conferences have been closed.

The library takes about 75 magazines. These and the pictures and articles from the collections may be borrowed for one day. Books which have been placed on reserve for reference work in various courses may be borrowed any time during the day and returned until 9 o'clock the following morning. Reserve books of which there is only one copy may not be taken from the library until 5 o'clock. All other books circulate for two weeks with the privilege of renewal.

In addition to the use of the books in the library during the day, the circulation during the summer session runs between 90 and 100 books and 10 to 12 magazines daily. The total circulation for the summer session of 1921 was 722 books and 67 magazines; the circulation for the summer of 1921 was 1,539 books and 105 magazines. The average for the summer of 1921-22 was 10,857 books and 541 magazines.

Students should read the bulletin board, as important announcements are made from time to time, which the students as a whole as well as individual students. The director cannot take an excuse that a notice which appeared on the bulletin board was not read.

The Director, through the college paper, wishes to thank the people who use the roadway between the Science building and the Main building for parking their cars, for the elimination of all unnecessary noise in answer to his request.

DR. BRUBACHER SPEAKS TO PRINCIPALS AND SUPERINTENDENTS
The members of the Principals and Superintendents' Association listened to a very interesting talk by Dr. Brubacher last Wednesday evening, July 20. Chairman Coons said that he was unaccustomed to introducing presidents of colleges, the only occasion of which he had heard was the time Nicholas Murray Butler introduced Woodrow Wilson as a sleepy president from a sleepy college in a sleepy town in New Jersey. Woodrow Wilson answered by saying that Mr. Butler could not be called sleepy, for everyone knows that he who watches over, head neither sleeps nor slumbers. Mr. Coons then introduced President Brubacher, said his office is conveniently located, and he was not in a sleepy college nor from a sleepy town.

Dr. Brubacher stated that there was a great variation in the grade of teachers at present, with Dr. Eliot at one end and the most poorly qualified teacher in the most remote rural sections at the other. Graduation of teachers is now being introduced. At the present time there are five members of the faculty of this college who are "Personalities of the Students." This success begins with the entering freshman. Dr. Brubacher pointed out the student of the year is gathered with that year's student falls out before entering college. The intelligence quotient is determined by the results of the intelligence tests given in the freshman year. The results of the tests of each student the behavior quotient is obtained, and the scholarship determined by the grades obtained. The results of the work of this committee determines the "Personality of the Teacher," and enables the faculty to recommend the graduates for position.

Next Wednesday night, August 2, Mr. A. E. Rejall, chairman of the committee on preparing literary tests for voters, will address the Principals and Superintendents on the giving of these tests.

VISITING FACULTY

Mr. Jared Scudder
Mr. Scudder, Latin Master in the Albany Boy's Academy, will again instruct in Latin at State College, during the Summer Session. He received his A. M. at the Ringer's College and is now taking post-graduate work at Harvard and Chicago University. Mr. Scudder has entire charge of the Latin classes in Summer Session and conducts his two courses in a very able and interesting manner.

Mr. W. Randall Waterman
Mr. Waterman, who is instructor in History in Dartmouth College, received his A. M. at Brown University. He also taught in a Vermont High School for a time, but is now doing graduate work at Columbia University and is busy preparing his thesis for his Ph. D.

Franklin W. Barrows
Dr. Barrows is instructor in general knowledge and French. He is assistant chief medical inspector of schools in the State Education Department. His activities have been about equally divided between pedagogical and medical work. Dr. Barrows received his Master's degree from Amherst and studied medicine at the University of Buffalo.

Mr. Hodge
Mr. Hodge is one of the instructors in Education in the Summer Session. He received his M. A. and B. A. from Columbia University after which he was superintendent of schools at Malone, for twelve years, and for the past ten years has been deputy superintendent of schools at Yonkers. He is now doing graduate work in the State College, during the Summer Session, is a graduate of Teachers' College, Columbia, where she received her degree of B. S. Miss Strong was a Teacher of Drawing in the East Orange Public Schools, at which place she is now Superintendent of Drawing at East Orange.

Mr. Benjamin W. Brown
Mr. Brown, who has charge of Dramatics and Public Speaking at State College during the Summer Session, is an instructor in Public Speaking at Brown University. He received his degree of A. M. at Brown University.

Miss Jane Jones
Miss Jones is an instructor in English here at State College during Summer Session. She is a Cornell graduate with an M. A. degree, and was instructor in State College English in Mill's High School. She is now Principal of the Brown School in Schenectady, N. Y. During Summer Session here, she has charge of the two courses, English Grammar for Teachers, and Methods of Teaching English, both of which courses have a large attendance of interested students, all of whom are or have been English teachers.

the study is useless, but may I add little whether the experience is our ther study is useless. is a dangerous disease. Bagley has said:

"Whenever a teacher has come to the conclusion that he or she is nothing to learn from studying the work of others, anabolism has caused and katabolism has set in.
In other words if we become self-satisfied to the extent that we think we can afford to stop studying we are not even standing still and are at a standstill."

It has been said: "Experience is the best teacher," This statement is undoubtedly true, but may I add another clause to this? Experience is the best teacher, but it matters
little whether the experience is our own or that of others if we but judge it from the viewpoint of improvement. It is absolutely necessary that we, as teachers, profit by the experience of others, anabolism has ceased and katabolism has set in.
