The Interfraternity Council received a rule recently which is designed to involve non-students in the university's activities. The council decided to adopt the rule because it was felt that the current system of involving non-students was not sufficient to meet the needs of the community.

The new rule requires that all members of the Interfraternity Council must be formally affiliated with a fraternity or sorority. This means that any individual who wishes to participate in the council must belong to a recognized campus organization.

The sports pages are filled with exciting stories about the many different teams and the games they have been playing. It's always interesting to read about the different strategies and tactics that teams use to try and gain an advantage over their opponents.

Coach Munsey's first annual Albany Crosscountry Invitational made the sport big time at the University, bringing Albany's record for the year.

The Ski Club is planning two trips to the mountains this year. The first trip is scheduled for this weekend, and the second trip will be in the late fall.

The annual time lapse between varsity sports has hit the campus, with fall baseball and cross country leading the way. The cross country team has already recorded their seventh straight win, and the baseball team is looking strong this year.

It's now time for the weekend, and there are a number of events taking place. On Saturday, there will be a blanket concert at the Washington Avenue Armory, and on Sunday, there will be a baseball game between the Great Danes and Stony Brook. The game is expected to be a tough one, with Stony Brook being a strong team this year.

The Harriers Romp To 15-50 Win

New Paltz 15-50. Mike Attwell this Saturday as they defeated Stony Brook when he scored on a breakaway at 10:33 of the first quarter.

The Albany State Harriers romped to a 15-50 win, their third straight victory. The team is now 3-0 on the season and looking strong for the rest of the year.

The fall baseball team became a reality, and the team is off to a good start. The first game of the season was played against the Western Avenue puddle.

The Great Danes controlled the ball for a greater portion of the game than did their opponent, the Stony Brook. However, Stony Brook was able to put up enough of a fight to make the game competitive.

Gary Swartout was the Great Danes high scorer this season, and he has been a valuable asset to the team. Swartout's scoring has been instrumental in helping the team to stay ahead in the game.

Frank Decker, chairman of Religious Affairs Council and will participate with the council in operating religious services.

The Harriers are looking strong for the rest of the season, and they are expected to make a run for the championship. With their strong performance so far, it looks like they are on their way to a successful season.

The idea of a training session of justices was proposed at the last meeting of the judiciary commission. The training session would be open to all members of the judiciary, and it would be held after the regular meetings have ended.

The recent history of the judiciary commission has been one of controversy and debate. The commission has been criticized for being too lenient in its sentencing, and there have been calls for it to be more strict.

The commission is currently working on a new code of conduct for student conduct courts, and it is hoped that this will lead to a more consistent approach to discipline.

The commission is also considering the possibility of being able to hold elections for the positions of president and vice president. This would give the student body more of a role in the decision-making process.

The commission is currently working on a new constitution for the student senate, and it is expected that this will be presented to the student body for approval in the near future.

University Academic Plans Have Two-Fold Function

by Carl Linderman

The University of Michigan will hold a new Academic Planning Day on Saturday, October 7th. The planning day is designed to bring together all the various academic units of the university in order to discuss the future of the university and its academic programs. The planning day will be divided into two main sessions: one for the academic units and another for the administrative staff.

The academic units will be asked to consider the following issues:

1. The university's academic programs and their relationship to the needs of society.
2. The university's role in preparing students for the future.
3. The university's role in research and development.
4. The university's relationship to the community.

The administrative staff will be asked to consider the following issues:

1. The university's financial resources and their allocation.
2. The university's personnel policies.
3. The university's administrative procedures.
4. The university's public relations.

The planning day is an important step in the university's effort to ensure that its academic programs and policies are responsive to the needs of society and to the future demands of the world.
The controversy which has been building up over the 1968 Jazz Festival continues to be waged through the red tape and sniping. The red tape is ever so prevalent, and all that remains is a basic difference in philosophy between the Special Events Board and the proposals of a Board for the Fall of Jazz. This is revealed in the following Special Events Board budget proposal: "The Albany Student Press will be excluded because of its basic difference in philosophy from other groups." The communications problem on campus will certainly be solved by the inclusion of the AS Press in the communications problem on campus.

The problem should center around the communications problem more than the communications problem. The problem should be resolved by the inclusion of the AS Press in the communications problem. The Phantom of the Opera

The Phantom of the Opera, renowned for its lavish Stagecraft and grandiose performances, has become a worldwide phenomenon since its premiere in 1986. The story revolves around a mysterious figure who haunts the Paris Opéra, terrorizing those who cross him. Through its iconic music and bold performances, the Phantom has captivated audiences for decades, cementing its place as a beloved classic in the world of theatre.
A play which concentrates almost entirely on the relationship between audience and actor, "A Piece of Cake" began its four-night run at the Playhouse Wednesday night in the little theatre, Richardon 29. This play is an original script prepared by John Lipmon, a graduate student at the University of Bridgeport, and is being produced as a part of the requirements for his master's thesis in Dramatic Art.

Frankonis selects his production as an experiment in audience involvement and in this end he has changed the "sounding board" format he has been using. The directors adds that the entire staging of "A Piece of Cake" is designed to bring the audience into the performance of the play.

By changing even the typical seating arrangement, Frankonis feels that the spectator will be in a position to observe the play differently than it would have been previously. This production is intended to be an experiment and Frankonis feels that by having the audience in such a position, the ultimate impact of their attitude and response to the production will be observed.

There is no charge for tickets for "A Piece of Cake," but there may be some reservations each night. Tickets must be obtained in advance. They are available at the State University Theatre Box Office at the Campus Center Information Desk.
