State Quad party leads to referral over beer permit

By Lisa Strain

The State Student Assembly (SSA) has referred its beer permit application to the Office of the State University of New York at Albany for further examination.

The permit was requested by the SSA as part of its plans to host a spring dance on the State Quad.

The SSA requested the permit to allow for the sale of beer at the dance, which is scheduled for May 4.

The permit application was referred to the Office of the State University of New York at Albany because the SSA is a student organization affiliated with the university.

The Office of the State University of New York at Albany will review the permit application and make a recommendation to the SSA.

The SSA will then consider the recommendation and make a decision on whether to proceed with the beer sale at the dance.

Mass lobbing terminated effective

Full knowledge of issues difficult for large groups to attain

By Bob Gianfrancesco

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany (StuASU) recently conducted a survey to gauge the level of awareness and interest in political issues among its members.

The survey revealed that there is a significant lack of knowledge about political issues among the student body.

In fact, only a small percentage of the students surveyed were able to identify any political issues that they felt were important to them.

According to the survey results, students are more focused on non-political issues such as academics and personal development.

The survey results highlight the need for more education and awareness-raising initiatives to help students understand the importance of political issues and how they can influence public policy.

The importance of political awareness is further emphasized by the recent referral of the SSA beer permit application to the Office of the State University of New York at Albany.

The Office of the State University of New York at Albany will review the permit application and make a recommendation to the SSA.

The SSA will then consider the recommendation and make a decision on whether to proceed with the beer sale at the dance.

The referral process underscores the need for more education and awareness-raising initiatives to help students understand the importance of political issues and how they can influence public policy.

The Students' Union Board, which is responsible for regulating student activities on campus, also plays a role in ensuring that student events are conducted in accordance with university policy.

In an effort to promote responsible student conduct and foster a positive learning environment, the Students' Union Board enforces policies related to alcohol consumption and other matters.

Furthermore, the Students' Union Board provides guidance and support to student organizations to help them plan and execute events in a safe and responsible manner.

Overall, the referral of the SSA beer permit application to the Office of the State University of New York at Albany serves as a reminder of the importance of political awareness and the need for increased education and awareness-raising initiatives to help students understand the significance of political issues and how they can influence public policy.

Police protect miners

A U.S. federal judge denied the request of striking coal miners to issue a temporary restraining order to keep guards off the picket lines at 10 coal mines in eastern Kentucky. Judge Frank Mathis in Lexington ruled Monday that the miners' request was premature because it lacked evidence the miners would be injured by being without protection against the guards. The miners also sought a protective order to be issued against the guards, but that was turned down. A new judge has taken over the case, and the miners plan to file further motions. (AP)

AWACS sent to Egypt

Washington, D.C.

The U.S. Air Force plans to send AWACS aircraft to Egypt and to Sudan to help Egypt's forces modernize and combat terrorism. The aircraft will be used by the U.S. to support counter-insurgency operations and to protectEgypt's air space. The aircraft will be sent to Egypt and Sudan in order to support the Egyptian military's efforts to combat terrorism. (AP)

"The basic separation of church and state. I don't think kids should be pressured directly or indirectly for prayer. I think Reagan would have abstained. It's one of the reasons I didn't vote for him in the first place," - Michael Schindel

"I don't agree with it because the prayer they would come up with wouldn't be beneficial for all religions. Because kids who wouldn't have the courage to just walk out of the classroom if they don't want to pray," - Mike McGovern

"If you'd like to say a prayer it's optional. I think it's geared for the conservatives. I think it should be in the schools and don't think kids should be pressured directly or indirectly for prayer. I think he (Reagan) would have done it anyhow. It's one of the reasons I didn't vote for him in the first place," - Richard Wilson

"I don't think it should be in the schools and if it should be optional I don't know I'll be going to help him win politically," -udy McGovern

Slamming the door

The following is a statement:
Albany Student Press (ASP)

We are writing this statement in response to student concerns about the University Concert Board (UCB) and their recent decision to only feature Echo and the Bunnymen, Madness, and the Jam in their upcoming concerts.

We understand the importance of providing a variety of entertainment options on campus, and we appreciate the efforts of UCB in organizing events for students. However, we believe the decision to feature only specific bands does not reflect the diverse interests and preferences of our student body.

We encourage UCB to consider a wider range of musical genres and artists in future concert planning. By doing so, we can ensure that all students have an opportunity to enjoy a variety of performances and cater to different musical tastes.

We also urge UCB to consider feedback from the student community in their decision-making process. Student involvement can help ensure that events are more inclusive and representative of the student body's interests.

We stand in solidarity with students who have expressed concern about the lack of diversity in UCB's concert lineup. We believe that by continuously engaging with student feedback and incorporating diverse perspectives, UCB can provide a more inclusive and enjoyable experience for all students.

Let us work together to create a campus environment that values and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We call on UCB to listen to the voices of students and make necessary changes to better serve the needs of the community.

Trying to please all

The University Concert Board is charged with the task of providing entertainment on campus for our students. This can be a difficult task, but it is essential to create a welcoming and enjoyable environment for everyone. The board's goal is to make sure that our students have a fun and stimulating experience while on campus.

In order to achieve this, the board must consider the diverse interests and preferences of our student body. We understand that everyone has different tastes and interests, and it is important to cater to these differences. The University Concert Board strives to provide a variety of entertainment options that appeal to a wide range of students.

We believe that by offering a diverse range of events, we can create a more inclusive and engaging campus environment. Our students come from different backgrounds and have different interests, and it is important to accommodate these differences in our events.

We encourage the University Concert Board to continue working towards this goal. By doing so, we can ensure that our campus is a place where everyone feels welcome and can enjoy themselves. Let us work together to make our campus a place where everyone can find something to enjoy.

"Our parties are illegal, but we just don't think the University would care," said a student. "We've had the same problem with the City, but the University seems more lenient."

"I think the University is relieved to have a place to hold our parties," said another student. "They don't want us going outside and causing problems."

"Almost 90 percent of the students are not concerned about the safety of the campus," said a student. "They feel that the University is doing a good job of keeping us safe."

"The survey shows that the University's efforts to improve safety are not being appreciated," said another student. "They should be doing more to make us feel safe."

Records broken, trackmen take eighth at States

By Mark Turley

Records were broken and trackmen were praised in the eighth meet of the season, which was held in Westchester last weekend.

Fredonia, just before the finish line, was a very fast race Saturday, resulting in a new record being set.

Saracen's second-place finish assured the team of a strong showing in the upcoming meet.

Amer's third-place finish in the 400-meter run only to be knocked out of the race by a misstep.

SAC Chair Steve Gonyer added his enthusiasm, saying "Fredonia is now the team to beat in the State Championships." He explained that the team's success was due to "good strategy and teamwork."
