NEW DEAN APPOINTED.

Harrison Hoyt Horner was confirmed at the meeting of the Regents as the new dean of the New York State College for Teachers.

Mr. Horner’s appointment as dean of the New York State College for Teachers was confirmed by the Regents at a recent meeting, has had an unusual experience in educational administration. He was born on a farm in southern Iowa, and received his high school education in Illinois. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1904 and was an instructor in English in his Alma Mater for two years after graduation. He later became secretary to the president of the University of Illinois, then the late Dr. Andrew S. Draper, and when Dr. Draper became commissioner of education in 1904, Mr. Horner came with him to Albany and served as his secretary in the State Education Department for three years. When the business and administrative interests of the department as a whole were consolidated into an administration division in 1907, Mr. Horner was put in charge of that work and filled that position for three years. As a result of a competitive State civil service examination, he was made chief of the examinations division of the department in 1909, and in 1925, he was made director of the combined examinations and inspections divisions of the department. In this latter position he has had charge of the largest administrative unit in the department.

Mr. Horner has edited numerous publications for the department, I have numerous publications for the result of a competitive State examination for three years, as a result of which he was made chief of the examinations division of the department.

STATE COLLEGE LOSES TO ARMY.

West Point Wins by 15-0 Score.

The State College baseball team opened its season at West Point on March 31 with a defeat at the hands of the Army by a score of 15-0. While the score truly indicates superiority on the part of the cadets, yet it must not be understood to interpret great weakness of the State College team. While the Purple and Gold men were outclassed, this was due mostly to the lack of practice on their part as the early season and the consequent inexperience of the weather made outdoor practice an impossibility. This was noticeable in the erratic playing of the men who made more errors in that one game than they probably will in all the remaining games combined.

The game opened with Woolever catching and Case on the mound. However, the latter was unable to locate the plate and as a result of a few mistakes’ work four men were passed, a batter hit, and a balk committed, so that three runs were scored by the cadets without the use of the bat. Here Goewey was put in the box and the affair began into which in future is to take charge of undergraduate life. Dr. Brubacher said there are really two sides of student life; first, that phase of it which is to do with the curriculum;

OURSELVES AND THE CRISIS.

A students of State College have returned from the spring recess with the same light hearts, the same sense of freedom from responsibility, the same complacent and serene view of the immediate future with which we departed for our homes some two weeks ago, there is something radically wrong with us. We do not feel our hearts gripped by an earnest conviction that great duties, great dangers, great sacrifices, great sorrows are sternly facing us, then we are in urgent need of being rudely awakened to the realization of the grim realities, that are standing at our doors.

America is at war! America, the peace-loving, the patient, the forgiving, has at last found its position of outraged neutrality so intolerable, that it has taken open issue with those forces that are threatening world-wide destruction of democratic government and democratic institutions. America is at war! State College student, do you think about it?

Are you satisfied to feel that the fighting is taking place in France over some three thousand miles of ocean, and that, though you many behold some thousands of young Americans march away to take ship for the scene of conflict, yet it is a matter of no immediate concern to you, and that there is no particular reason why you should not proceed undisturbed and untroubled along the way of self-satisfied existence? It is to be admitted that such an attitude may shortly be proved justifiable; the newspapers are predicting peace before the end of the summer, and many well informed men declare that the whole system will crumble to ruins. If this be so, well and good, We may then understand, nor the will to do and to refrain from doing until peace is obtained.

If we students of State College have returned from the spring recess with the same light hearts, the same sense of freedom from responsibility, the same complacent and serene view of the immediate future with which we departed for our homes some two weeks ago, there is something radically wrong with us. We do not feel our hearts gripped by an earnest conviction that great duties, great dangers, great sacrifices, great sorrows are sternly facing us, then we are in urgent need of being rudely awakened to the realization of the grim realities, that are standing at our doors.

PROF. DOUGLAS HOLDS QUESTION BOX.

Last Monday evening Prof. Douglas, conducting the "Question Box," which is a new feature on the program of the Industrial Organization, the practice teachers as well as the other students of the evening and day courses handed in questions referring to industrial work and these were answered by the various members of the organization. If a question was not fully answered, it was then "up to" Prof. Douglass to give all the necessary information. Those who were present certainly enjoyed the program. He had a jest for practically every answer, not only because they learned many interesting little facts which they could not easily have found out other ways, but also because of his humorous and very entertaining way in which Prof. Douglass brought out the information.

The meeting was declared a success by all and another one on the same order is being looked forward to.

SIGNAL CORPS ORGANIZED.

The State College Signal Corps has been organized with the following officers and members: Edward L. Long, commanding officer; Jesse A. Jones, aide; C. J. Wood, secretary and treasurer; Walter Herrington, Jos. Sherlock, Theodore Cunnar, Gay Y. Bruce, Joseph T. Spruille, James W. Willbur and Howard E. Whitney.

Dr. Brubacher and Dr. Hale have consented to act as a faculty council.

The aim of the members of the organization is to become proficient in the art of signaling especially with radio apparatus, in order that they may be of service to the country in case of need. The corps is at present practicing the code and constructing a portable wireless set, which they hope to have ready for use in about three weeks. A power supply, consisting of two accumulators, can be used advantageously. Any desiring to join the corps should consult Edward Long, commanding officer, Room 156.
