CITY MAY SUPPLY SAFETY FACILITIES

Traffic Lights, Safety Zone, Y. A. Headline "Parking Space" Are Suggested

Requests of the student association for better parking arrangements at the college have gained a premise of improvement because of the action of the State Legislature.

A survey of the needs of traffic facilities by the city's traffic engineer, James A. Kavan, assistant commissioner of public safety, has been made, and some plans which will increase the safety of students and pedestrians.

According to the engineer, arrangements have been suggested for improvement of Western avenue. This street, lying in the middle of the avenue, the dimensions of which have been made too narrow for a proper parking space of fifty feet in each direction from the Western avenue of the campus to within fifty feet of the college; and the installation of three traffic lights at the intersections of Western avenue.

3 Light Proposed

One light will be stationed at the Western avenue crossing near the present 101 building, another will be at Rules street and Western avenue across from the 101 building, and the third will be at college and Western avenue. A car which has not solved one of these lights will be automatically actuated, as soon as a car has entered the area designated.

The Western avenue safety zone will be reduced, Dr. Brecher said. The enforcement of the 20-mph speed limit by the police will be increased, as well as the police patrol of the entire avenue.

No further policy of effect in the parking of cars on the campus has been decided on this time, Dr. Brecher added.

AWARD DINNER AND GYMNASIUM FROLIC WILL BE TONIGHT

TheTelevision students join the Y. A. for the annual award dinner时髦 at the Y. A. The dinner and function are sponsored by the college Y. A. under the leadership of Dr. A. Bruce Curry, who is also the guide of the college Y. A.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 and end at 9:30. The program will include a talk on "What Does the Future Hold?" by Dr. Curry, who will discuss the future of television and its possibilities. The evening will be concluded with a group photo and a toast to the deans.

NO MORE DANCING IN LOUNGE ROOM, PRESIDENT RULES

Dancing in the lounge room of the Davis hall will no longer be allowed according to President A. R. Rutherford Baker. "It is the noise of the house which is objectionable to us," said the president. "We do not want the ladies to be disturbed by dancing in the lounge room." The president emphasized that the lounge is meant for quiet and study, and that dancing in a public place is not appropriate.

Mary Nelson Suggests "PRESIDENT'S RULES"

Mary Nelson, president of the Davis hall, suggested that the college should have "President's Rules" in place of the present house rules. "I think that the rules are too strict and too rigid," said Miss Nelson. "We should have rules that are more flexible and that take into account the individual needs of the students." Miss Nelson emphasized that the rules should be fair and reasonable and that they should be enforced in a way that is not punitive.

Dr. Andrews To Speak Wednesday In Lounge

Dr. R. J. Andrews, director of the college lounge, will speak on Wednesday night in the lounge. His topic will be "The Importance of Study," and he will discuss the role of study in the college curriculum and how it helps students to achieve their academic goals.

Integral Rules, Say 10 HOUSE LEADERS

Marty, Present Dance Rules, Make It Clear Whether or Not Rules Must Be Followed

Almost all of the presidents of the women's dormitories at least some of the present house rules, according to a survey conducted by the college. The survey found that six of the presidents who were interviewed didn't like how the regulations were not needed, President one president would not comment on the rules they had expressed the opinion that more rules should be kept. The second president was not a presennt.

Mary Nelson, president of the Davis hall, said, "As far as house rules are concerned, I think they are too strict and too rigid. It's a pity we have to get a rule about putting our money away. It's not necessary. If our mothers can't put their money away, why should we have to put ours away?"

The third president, who was not named, said, "I don't think that the rules are too strict. I think they are just right. I think that the rules should be followed and that we should respect them."

The fourth president, who was not named, said, "I think that the rules are too strict. I think that we should have more freedom and less rules."

The fifth president, who was not named, said, "I think that the rules are not strict enough. I think that we should have more rules and that we should follow them.

Six of the presidents who were interviewed disagreed that the regulations do not need revision. One president would not comment on the regulations, as he did not express the opinion that more rules should be kept. The second president was not a present.

Nearly 100 house presidents and assistant presidents from other colleges were surveyed. The survey revealed that the rules were not the same at other colleges. Compliance with the rules at other colleges varied, with some colleges having stricter rules and others having more lenient rules.

The survey also showed that the rules were not uniformly enforced. Some presidents were strict about enforcing the rules, while others were more lenient.

The survey was conducted by the college, and the results were shared with the students. The students were encouraged to voice their opinions about the rules and to suggest changes.

The survey confirmed the students' desire for more flexibility in the rules, as well as for more clear guidelines for what is considered acceptable behavior. The students were encouraged to continue to express their opinions and to participate in the decision-making process regarding the rules.

JAPAN TRAINS FOR MORALES

In addition to an attempt to orient itself partly to the spirit of communism, there is a second trend in the field of education, according to Gerald H. V. von Hippel, assistant to the chairman of the board of the Tokyo Commercial University. He said that in the past, Japanese schools had been too rigid and inflexible in their methods of teaching. Now, however, there is a growing tendency towards more progressive methods, such as those employed in Western countries.

FRESHMEN ENROL HIGHEST NUMBER IN FENCING CLASS

The freshmen class holds all upper class honors in the number of students who have signed up for this year's fencing club.

Of the forty-seven students who have signed up for the club, twenty are freshmen. This is one more than the number of sophomore, junior, and senior members who have also signed up. As a result, the club is composed of more freshmen than ever before.

A double moving picture feature shown during the meeting included John and Jim, the former being a motion picture and the latter a cartoon. The speakers from the motion picture were John and Jim, and the cartoon was a short film about the two characters.

The tests may be of value to the tennis players, since scores may be compared, and the better results an indication of the improved ability of the student." According to Miss Dietz, these tests are being taken by the 316 students in physical education.
Men to Consider Track Prospects

Dr. Brubacher Offers Use of College Campus for Practice

A meeting of the men of the college will be called next week in order to determine the amount of existing interest in the organization of a men’s track team, according to Arthur P. Born, ’30. The movement started when a number of men indicated their desire to compete in some phase of track, June 26.

Dr. Brubacher will try to interest the sports which will probably be arranged are running, shot put, javelin, and broad jump. If these cut stunts are successful, they will be considered for more practice. None of the sports will be practiced in the physical department.

“Preparations for the men will be made for the college, as the Boys’ Track Association is not in operation,” Dr. Brubacher said.

NEWS SYMPOSIUM INDICATES DESIRE TO ALTER RULES
Carried forward from issue 5, volume 3, "I do not think the rules are strict. The rules must be watched by the faculty in token of his good faith, as the average humorous public will not be satisfied with regulations which appear to be too loose to kick."

Please Vorable, ’32, president of Mrs. Lilly's group house, 425 Hudson avenue, would say nothing concerning house rules.

Fanny M. Sippeley, ’30, president of the Young Women's Christian association house, said, "Chase rules might have been popular in the mid-Victorian era, but they are not now. They are useless restrictions on the students, and are made for the sake of high school pupils rather than for young ladies in college."

I feel that the present agitation over house rules is unwarranted. I consider our house rules very sensible and they are continually unchallenged," and Sophiya Schulzki, ’30, president of the Women's Club house, said, "I feel that the Chase rules are unnecessary. I am of the opinion that some rules are necessary for a good standard of conduct, but since it is impossible to enforce all the present rules, I believe that they should not be enforced."

I feel that the Chase rules are unnecessary. I am of the opinion that some rules are necessary for a good standard of conduct, but since it is impossible to enforce all the present rules, I believe that they should not be enforced."

"We have never had any trouble with house rules," president of Mrs. Lilly’s group house, 208 Slier street. "We tell Mrs. Cassidy that we are allowing Miss Cassidy to have as many guests as she wishes a general session of the convention."

CONCLUSION TO ALTER RULES
"Many people, however, have been accustomed to thinking that the Chase rules are necessary for a good standard of conduct. Therefore, I believe that they should be abolished."

I do not think the rules are too strict. The rules must be watched by the faculty in token of his good faith, as the average humorous public will not be satisfied with regulations which appear to be too loose to kick."
