Dane Booters Top Brooklyn 4-1, 1st Win as Tsqododo Scores Two

The Albany State Booters pulled off a surprising upset against a team that had defeated them twice this season. Despite the loss, the Brooklyn College Booters remained on top of the standings.

The game began with intense defense from both teams, but it was the Albany State Booters who scored the first goal. This was followed by a flurry of shots that saw the Brooklyn College Booters equalize. However, Albany State Booters scored again to take the lead and held on for the win.

George Bunch Speaks About Change In South End To Freedom Council

by Robert Brody

Mr. George Bunch spoke at the Freedom Council meeting Monday night about change in the South End. A 15-page mimeographed handout distributed to each attendee provided valuable information. A concern that the handout expresses, primarily, is that the problem that is faced today is not the same as it was 15 years ago. Mr. Bunch said that the problem is too difficult to understand, and that the problem for the poor is more difficult than the problem of the rich. He said that the problem is to find a way to control the size of the government and the size of its activities.

This seems like a book that would be worth reading. I have not read it yet, but I plan to do so soon. It is called "The Politics of Futility: The Struggle to Control Government," by John F. Kennedy. I am interested in reading about how Mr. Kennedy thought about government and how he thought about the problems we face today. I think it would be interesting to read about his thoughts on these issues. I hope to read it soon and to think about it more deeply.

GOUVERNEUR STATED THAT the problem in America's South End is a lack of communication or the fact that the teachers delivered material to the students and that the students were not interested in the material. He said that they had been taught about how to act, not about how to think. He said that the students were not interested in the material.

US Office Of Education Announces Distribution Of Reports, Documents

The U.S. Office of Education announced the distribution of reports and documents related to the education of gifted children. These reports and documents were developed in collaboration with the National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC) and the National Association for Gifted Children's Commission on Gifted Education (NAGC/CGE).

The NIH (National Institute of Health) also announced the distribution of reports and documents related to the education of gifted children. These reports and documents were developed in collaboration with the National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC) and the National Association for Gifted Children's Commission on Gifted Education (NAGC/CGE).

The reports and documents include:

- "The Organization of Conscious Experience," by Jean Piaget.
Disappointing Affair

Last Monday night a large delegation of Greeks lined up to hear President Collins and Vice-President Thorne address them on the position, history, and future of traditions and ceremonies on campus.

They returned with a vague announcement that somehow the administration was really behind them and that to build a first floor for 50 men would take nothing less than 3 million dollars. It was disappointing affair, to say the least.

To the best of our knowledge, this is the first time the Greek student body was ever addressed by the top officials in the administration. What everyone expected was that those Greeks would or President Collins or Vice-President Thorne to constructively criticize the Greek activity on campus and lend their full-fledged support to this organization which嗷so needs help.

Instead, they received statistical information about the number of Greeks who had experienced the past, their problems of the present, and a sharp reminder that Greeks could have been done away with if it was not for our president, the Greeks know that they're a strong group, they know that they have a lot of work to do, they even want to become a really powerful force in this university. They know they need help. Thus the administration was called in.

Memos’ Needs Revision

At an awards celebration last week concerning the regulations in Memos From Minnie about women in men's athletics potentially widespread concern. Even the administration admits the rule is “ridiculous and unenforceable.”

Memos From Minnie contains many such old-fashioned rules that are a vestige of former times. There is a movement to reform women's hours and weekend permissions which should be further encouraged to spread the process.

There are, however, other reforms which should be made. Although the administration realizes that changes must be made, they are not going to initiate the others. The administration is actually waiting for students to show what and how reforms should be provided.

Perhaps a complete study should be made of Memos From Minnie so that new guidelines for students can be formulated. Students, however, must be the moving force. Memos From Minnie offers another plan for student action, one referred to as “modestly durable package” — with the administration concerned with what's inside.

This meeting was the time for the administration to tell the Greeks what they are looking for in this package. It was an opportunity wasted.

The Statement

In this issue, we have three little plays: the first, in the last of the plays, we will look into the life and work of the woman on the moon; the second, in her speech about how she found difficulties, and the third, in her speech about how she works. None of the women on the moon is right-given. It was truly beautiful, and in the end, she wouldn't really find any difficulties. She found out to her surprise, that she could do anything.

Out of the blue, she gave a speech about how she found difficulties. None of the women on the moon is right-given. It was truly beautiful, and in the end, she wouldn't really find any difficulties. She found out to her surprise, that she could do anything.

The theme was magnificent, a real theme to go on about. It was about the way she found difficulties; in her speech about how she found difficulties, and in her speech about how she works. None of the women on the moon is right-given. It was truly beautiful, and in the end, she wouldn't really find any difficulties. She found out to her surprise, that she could do anything.

Another idea was to explore the economy of the woman on the moon, a man of some mental strain, and to work on the moon. This was a marvelous idea, although very exciting about the last factory. It was not only a new way of working, but also a new way of thinking. The theme was magnificent, a real theme to go on about. Harriers Clobber Engineers, 23-34; Downs' Run Crucial To Outcome

Despite a series of injuries, Albany State's usually robust defense was brought to its knees when the Hustlers, led by undefeated EEP's, went out to an early six point lead. However, the defense continued to play a rough game with top targets, Hich Margison. When quarterback Ray Cianfrini hit an offense strong enough to dominate the game, EEP's eventually fell 13-0 victory over winless Tower.

Faculty Lecture To Feature Dr. Burian On 'Europe 1965'

The sixth Annual Faculty Lecture Series will feature Dr. Burian to discuss 'Europe 1965'. The lecture is scheduled for Thursday, October 15th, at 7:00 pm in the auditorium. All faculty members and students are encouraged to attend.

Insurance Rates To Rise With Benefit Increase

Student insurance rates will be higher next semester due to an increase in demand. The following procedures will be added to the new policy:

- The company will charge a rate of up to $20 for the second semester.
- The rate will cost students $20 with a $200 deductible.
- The rate will be increased to $20 for students who do not use any coverage.
- The rate will be increased to $20 for students who use any coverage.

Per Reformed

This rule was approved by the Student Council. The new policy includes a series of lectures on European history, the musical Carousel, and a cross-section of the student body along with faculty and administrative officials.

In view of this situation, it has been necessary to raise the prices of insurance in order to cover the costs and meet the demands of the University. The annual premium of $34 represents a fair share of the increased costs. The Board of Regents has approved the policy for the next academic year. The rate has been increased from $28 to $34 for the current academic year. This will help to ensure that the University's insurance rate continues to rise with the costs of the University. The Board of Regents has voted to back up the Solicitations and after a discussion, the Council voted to back up the Solicitations. The rate has been increased in order to cover the increased costs and to meet the demands of the University.

The Massachusetts Casualty Insurance Company has been the largest provider of insurance for the University. The company has been steadily rising in the market, and the rate is expected to continue to rise in the future. The Massachusetts Casualty Insurance Company has been in operation for over 100 years, and the company has a long history of providing insurance to the University.
