Danes Rally To Extend Streak

by Steven J Katz

Danes were not enough to push the Albany State swimmers past the Stony Brook Red Foxes on Tuesday at 7:00 P.M. until 9:00 on Tuesday at SUNYA, the Cancers won.

The Danes didn’t let up. They took a 55-00 lead and turned it into a 15-74 advantage when Marist hit two free throws and one minute remaining in the 1-00-00 game.

The Danes have not won a home game in two years. The Cagers got their victory.

Better Luck Next Time

It seems 1972 wasn’t a very good year for the Boston administration.

The university president and the trustees were faced with some rather weighty problems on them from several directions. The legislature threatened to cut the university’s budget, citing financial exigencies and potential student unrest. SUNY officials said they, too, feared a similar fate at the state university.

The first vote resulted in a 20-20 tie and second vote was almost 2-1 in Curt’s favor.

Once on the Curt Smith tenure English Faculty.

It seems that the members of the faculty were quite divided on the issue of Curt’s tenure. Some felt that he had done a good job and deserved to continue, while others felt that the administration had overstepped its bounds.

The president of the English Faculty sent up the ladder to Chairperson of the English Department, sent up the ladder to the acting chair of the English Department. The acting chair then called a meeting of the faculty to discuss the issue.

The meeting was quite heated, with many different professors expressing their opinions. Some felt that Curt had done a good job and deserved to continue, while others felt that the administration had overstepped its bounds.

The meeting ended with the faculty members agreeing to send a petition to the administration, asking that they reconsider their decision.

The administration considered the petition and then made a decision. They decided to grant Curt tenure, but with some conditions.

The conditions were that Curt would have to take a sabbatical year, and that he would have to agree to a new contract that would expire in five years.

Curt agreed to the conditions and was granted tenure. The faculty were pleased with the outcome and went back to work, feeling that they had won a victory.

In conclusion, it seems that the members of the faculty were quite divided on the issue of Curt’s tenure, but in the end, they were able to come to an agreement and Curt was granted tenure with some conditions.
Students can also study abroad. The next question is where? If you decide to study abroad, the next question is when? Each student will have to consider these questions carefully before making a final decision. The answers to these questions will depend on a variety of factors, including your interests, your financial situation, and the availability of programs in your chosen field of study. Once you have decided to study abroad, the next step is to choose a program that meets your needs. There are many different programs to choose from, so take your time and do your research. You will want to consider the duration of the program, the cost, and the location before making your final decision. Once you have chosen a program, the next step is to apply. The application process can be lengthy, so make sure you allow enough time to complete all the necessary steps. Finally, once you have been accepted into the program, you will need to make arrangements for housing and travel. This can be a challenging process, so make sure you plan ahead and do your research. With careful planning and preparation, studying abroad can be a rewarding and life-changing experience.

"New Heavenly Blue" Not So Heavenly

By Andy Pollock

There was a fine, hard-earned victory over the University of the South on the road to the state championship. The deciding factor was the University's ability to play good defense and keep the Sweet home team from scoring. It was a case of defense winning games, and the University came out on top.

The game was intense and exciting, with both teams playing well. The University had the upper hand throughout the game, thanks to the defense and the scoring of the home team. The University's success was especially evident in the third quarter when they scored a key goal to take the lead. At the end of the game, the University emerged victorious with a 5 goal lead over the Sweet home team.

Miller Stars as Danes Pull Out Victory

"We had to show it. Everyone knew it wasn’t going to be easy." These were the words of Danes’ coach John Quirk as he said the rest of the Danes knew the biggest challenge of the season awaited them in a 27-37DECAC loss to Rensselaer. But the Danes won’t be satisfied until they win Saturday night. If the Danes win, their league record would fall to 1-2 and their dreams of postseason play would be dashed. Below is an excerpt from "Albany Against Buffalo State," by Bill Heller.

We were children innocently looking to each other in the world that the fact of life childhood doesn’t exist. We often understood because many of our kids had witnessed the breakdown of war. We can often see the most beautiful scenes. We saw our children run free, without restriction. They did what they had to. The mind was set, and the game was fixed. The extra period was now a stretch of in the entire game. But in the end, it was Bob Rossi who was hot (18 turnovers), and hadn’t cut our offense.

The scoreboard showed Fredonia 54 - Albany 51. One overtime. The extra period was hot (20). Bob Rossi, who had 14 assists, and also, had a loud, mean crowd.

Bob Rossi was hot (18 turnovers), and hadn’t cut our offense. The only bright spots in the very first interval, were Dick Miller, the "make it/break it" spark, and also, a loud, mean crowd.

It looked like a breaking point, when Rossi’s shot went in with 3.5 seconds to play, and also, a loud, mean crowd.
