'Once Upon A Mattress' Comes To Page Stage Next Weekend

The Revue is coming along really well. We'll be going into dress rehearsal this Sunday night, so everybody should be ready to see Frid or 8:15 both nights. As usual, only all-student organized production of the season. The Revue this year brings its adaptation of the 19th century Italian composer Gaetano Donizetti's comic opera, "L'elisir d'amore." The first act will be a lively opera premiere sung in Italian with English subtitles. The second act will be a lively cabaret show interspersed with musical numbers. The Revue is directed by Sue Murphy, with an orchestra conducted by Vincent Persichetti. Persichetti is the son of the famous composer Gian Carlo. The Revue will be presented in the Page Hall stage.

Tickets will be available in the lower purse, Monday through Thursday. The price will be $1.25 per person.

First Senate Session (More...)

The first meeting of the University Senate was held in the Page Hall stage. The Senate met to discuss and vote on various items, including the approval of the budget for the upcoming academic year. The senators also discussed the need for increased funding for the arts and cultural programs. The President of the Senate, Sue Murphy, called for a vote on the budget, which was approved unanimously. The senators then moved on to discuss the need for increased security measures on campus. The President called for a vote on the proposed security measures, which was also approved unanimously.
Strike Back at Polls

Through the action of the Assembly Warren and House Committee, headed by Fred W. Preller, all fee tuition bills have been stopped in one way or another. From an examination of the membership of this committee, which is stacked in favor of the Republicans, several conclusions can be drawn and used most effectively at the voting polls.

Voting on the tuition bills usually follows party lines. Although all voting in the Assembly committee is secret, it can be assumed that all the Republicans were against the issue of free tuition.

The most effective weapon that can be used by students against this undesirable legislation, is a vote against the number of students enrolled at the school. For these students who are not eligible to vote, much can be done by influencing parents, and friends.

The Republicans on this committee, and their respective districts are as follows: Fred W. Preller, Queensbury; Paul L. Paff, Cohoes; Les A. Lawrence, Herkimer; Jerry W. Block, Schenectady; John E. Johnson, Plattsburg; Paul B. Banks Jr., Monroe; William H. Stephenson, Putnam; John K. Wilson, Jefferson; Frank E. Moors, Sullivan; Kenneth L. Wilson, Ulster; Philip B. Chase, Montgomery; Philip L. Brown, Brewster; Schenectady; and John D. Farnsworth, Nassau.

A group of students are currently meeting in secret across this campus which will determine the fate of publications under the 2,000 student association. In other words, the number of students enrolled in the Student Association. This number is secret, but it can be assumed that all the Republicans were against the issue of free tuition.

Prescribed Mathematics

Remember Frank William's famous question: "What's the answer to the problem?" For the class of 1965, it was: "We're not sure."

Mr. William's math problems were not the only challenges faced by the class. They had to work together to overcome the unique tasks presented by the new campus.

"It was during these mortar duels that things got hairy," Jack continued. "A 6.2 mortar sounds like a freight train coming down on top of you."

Lighting another cigarette, Jack went on to say that those men in his team were killed in Laos. The team leader, Captain Man, and Sergeant Bubba and Ritter. They were killed in a village overrun by the Pathet Lao.

The full details were never known but apparently Captain Man was killed during the attack. Bubba and Ritter were apparently wounded and later bled to death because they were not able to march.

Two more men were killed later in south Viet Nam. They were Sergeant Eastman and Lieutenant David P. Loner. Composed Situation

Loo was a confusing situation. People in light another cigarette, Jack continued, "In late March or early April, 1961, Captain Cong Lee tried to pull a coup d'etat. He entered Vientiane with the Pathet Lao and attempted to take the capital."

"Cong's forces didn't have the American equipment," Jack went on, "and nearly killed off all of us. Eventually they were forced out of"...

We have recently been bombarded by several angry ASA* team members as to the handling of their protests. The ASA Board of Directors expressed concern in a recent, formal, meeting. Although the ASA as a whole does not have the authority to alter the results of games, the ASA Board, if presented with valid and compelling evidence, is entitled to judge the protest and act accordingly. We have therefore decided to reinstate the protests as outlined in the following paragraphs.

RUSH TRIPPLE

The protest was made to reinstate the results of the game between the ALA and the LIU. The game was played on March 7, and the result was 3-2. The ALA protested the result, stating that the LIU had committed a rule violation during the game. The ASA Board, after reviewing the evidence, ruled in favor of the ALA and ordered the game to be played again.

GRAPPLES DEFEND HOBART FINISH WITH 5-6 RECORD

Weak, Superficial Characterization Undermines Impact of 'The Flies'

by Paul James

The Flies, prepared to the University Theatre, is presently an exercise in superficiality. Though the plot is capable, the cast, the direction, and the stage production are awash with material that undermines any attempt to state the work of the playwright, Jean Giraudoux.

Much of the action is directed towards an abstract concept of alienation and the age-old battle between the instincts of man and his need for social order. In this respect, the setting is 1951 and the flayed sheep can be interpreted as the symbols of destruction and disunity. The position of the director is to attempt to interpret the theme through the portrayal of the characters. In this case, the characters are very weak and the attempt of the director to make them into something else is not successful.

Giraudoux's play is a study of man's innate desire for freedom and order. The conflict between these two principles is dramatized through the character of Aeschylus, who is the symbol of order. The play is divided into four acts, each of which is devoted to a different aspect of the conflict. The first act shows the conflict between the gods and the mortals, and the second act is devoted to the conflict between science and religion. The third act is set in the future, and the fourth act concludes the story of Aeschylus.
