Martin Lectures Will Answer Query, "Are You Really In Love?"

The New York State Department of Civil Service has released the following questions that will be answered at the next Martin Lectures: "Are You Really In Love?"

The series will run on March 11th and 13th. The lectures are given to help people who are in love, and to achieve proper attitudes to love and honor. The lectures are advertised as "A down-to-earth love and honor." Those who attend the fraternity will have two o'clock hours.

For Rush Women who attend the fraternity a lecture entitled "How To Be Happier" will be discussed February 13 in 7:30 p.m. at 423 State Street. Those advertised as "A down-to-earth love and honor." The all-important questions of these positions may secure detailed writing the State Department of Nursing instructors. The position in these jobs fall into two main genera, one, if there is no surplus they can be given, or if a student is in the surplus be appropriated to the organization with a deficit.
...As Mud

Jane-Seymore Council found itself in a quandary this week over an alleged violation of its rules. The situation was a highly controversial one with a great deal of ... and bitterness involved. Due to a lack of clarity and piecemeal action, many members were confused, and the meeting was necessary to determine whether these actions were indeed justified.

In spite of the Council's good intentions, the meeting was not successful, for as it was approached to the problem was concerned. It was, however, a tremendous success that it showed the various students who participated.

To set up a constitution which is to be adopted by the students of the campus we have very carefully to consider the problem of the current situation, which may arise.

As an alternative suggestion was made at the meeting to the effect that honesty and the right spirit of each member would serve the cause of ... erent. Although this is honorable it is, in a practical view, an idea that will arise again when the current situation is presented without direct aid in the current.

The meeting that was held resulted from the Jane-Seymore Council's desire to conduct the entire...
Statesmen Will Prepare For Basic Training through New Physical Development Program

By DOBOSZ and GORDON

In the second half of their game against Binghamton, the 1971 men's basketball team showed considerable improvement. The Statesmen were able to reduce their lead, but were unable to equalize the game and were defeated 87-65.

In the first half, the Statesmen dominated the game, with a 42-19 halftime lead. However, in the second half, the Binghamton team, with a score of 48-26, was able to reduce the gap to 12 points.

The Statesmen will use this game as a learning experience, and will continue to prepare for their upcoming season.

"A Close Place To Eat"

Said of State College...the place to eat, they say. And they may be right. The Waldorf Cafeteria is a favorite gathering spot for students at State College. At lunchtime, you can always find a crowd here, with students coming and going, eating and talking.

Now, just off the campus square is the Waldorf Cafeteria. It is a large, modern restaurant, with a bright and welcoming atmosphere. The menu offers a variety of foods, including sandwiches, salads, and soups. Prices are reasonable, and the service is fast and friendly.

The Waldorf Cafeteria is open from 11:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m., and is a great place to grab a quick meal, or to sit down and have a good conversation with friends.

If you're looking for a great place to eat in State College, the Waldorf Cafeteria is definitely worth a try. They offer delicious food at a reasonable price, and the atmosphere is friendly and inviting.
