Search Committee Picks O'Leary For SUNYA President

by Matthew Cox

Acting SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary has been recommended to become the next SUNYA President.

In a message released last week, the President Search Committee and the University Council voted unanimously to recommend O'Leary to the SUNYA Board of Trustees.

O'Leary, who has indicated some interest in the presidency, said: "I am pleased with the recommendation of O'Leary as his successor. Fields, recommended to the University Council that O'Leary serve as acting president, but he left SUNYA in late summer 1977.

"I know that O'Leary has a lot of time in the presidency and the University Council is confident in his ability to lead SUNYA.

News of the recommendation comes as no surprise to the SUNYA Board of Trustees, which has been considering the presidency of the University Council. SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary said he would recommend O'Leary as acting president, but he left SUNYA in late summer 1977.

O'Leary, who left as Dean of the School of Criminal Justice to assume the presidency, worked two presidential committees to form a recommendation for SUNYA's next president.

SUNYA has not announced when an acting SUNYA President will be designated.

"I don't think that I, or you, or any other person can say that a position is vacant, in 1979, that will still be good in 1980," said O'Leary.

"I have no way of predicting what we'll need. The test will not be for us to quit, but for them to worry. That's the test for everyone on this campus too."

O'Leary's recommendation for O'Leary came Wednesday, and was followed on Friday by a vote of the University Council committee member Judith Cohen, a faculty member in the English Department. All five final candidates were interviewed on campus by the committee over the last month.

In the end, the SUNYA Board of Trustees chose O'Leary from among candidates considered the strongest candidates.

"We had a lot of experience in the other candidates and O'Leary was definitely the strongest," said committee member Warren Goldfinger, a SUNYA undergraduate.

"I think it's evident of 'growing pains' support," O'Leary said. "I think it's a matter of time before we can see how that works.

"I am proud of the way that SUNYA has an opportunity to make this new president," O'Leary said. "I am proud of the way that SUNYA has an opportunity to make this new president."

Steingut To Meet With SASU

by Jon Subotnik

New York State Assemblyman Joseph M. Steingut has been invited to take part in a forum on the state of the nation's financial system, sponsored by the SASU (State and Federal Employees Union). Steingut will be one of several invited speakers to participate in the forum, which will be held in Albany next month. The forum will be an opportunity for Steingut to discuss the issues facing the financial system and how the state can work to improve it.

Steingut said he was pleased to be invited to participate in the forum. "I think it's important that we all work together to find solutions to the challenges facing the financial system," he said. "This forum will give me the opportunity to share my ideas and work with others to find ways to improve the system."

Steingut has been a strong advocate for reforms in the financial system. He has been active in the Albany legislative session, where he has fought for legislation to address the issues facing the financial system. He has also been a vocal champion for the state's retirement system, which is facing significant challenges.

Steingut said he was looking forward to the forum. "I think it will be a great opportunity to meet with others who are interested in the financial system," he said. "I hope that we can work together to find solutions to the challenges facing the system."

Bio Prof Defends DNA Research

Bio Prof Defends DNA Research

by Paul Wrobel

New multi-million dollar research on the viability of pumping human DNA into other organisms in an attempt to create new species has been underway for the past six months. The research, conducted by a team of scientists led by Dr. James E. Brown, has been hailed as a major breakthrough in the field of molecular biology. The implications of this research are vast, and it is expected to lead to significant advances in medical and agricultural fields. However, the controversy surrounding the project has not subsided.

Dr. Brown's team, comprised of biologists and bioinformaticians, has been working tirelessly to perfect the technology needed to safely and effectively transfer human DNA into other organisms. This process, known as transgenic technology, has been the subject of much debate and scrutiny.

The project has sparked a heated debate among ethicists, who are concerned about the potential risks and implications of such research. Some ethicists argue that the project could lead to unintended consequences, while others believe that the benefits of the research outweigh the risks.

Despite the controversy, Dr. Brown and his team remain committed to the project. They believe that the potential benefits of the research are too great to be ignored.

In a recent interview, Dr. Brown stated, "We believe that this research has the potential to revolutionize the way we approach medicine and agriculture. We are confident that we can safely and effectively transfer human DNA into other organisms."

The project has also been supported by the National Science Foundation, which has provided funding for the research.

In conclusion, the controversy surrounding the project highlights the complex and multifaceted nature of scientific research. While the potential benefits are significant, it is important to carefully consider the potential risks and implications of such research.

Upset-Minded Trackmen Shock Cortland 93-70

Running Key Factor For 7-1 Danes; Dross Shines, Scores In Four Events

by Paul White

"All of us were in the groove," said Mike McGuire, captain of the Albany men's track team. McGuire ran the second leg of the winning 4x200 relay, joining Mark Doherty, Tom Belfiore and Mike Doherty in a time of 1:28.6. The victory was crucial in the Danes' 93-70 victory over Cortland on Saturday.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Danes, who entered the meet as heavy underdogs.

The Danes were led by a strong relay effort, with McGuire and Doherty also winning the 200 and 400, respectively.

Other Records

The Danes set new records in the 4x100 relay, with a time of 43.8, and in the 4x400, with a time of 3:33.5.

Netmen Beat Travelling UMass

by David Figur

What a win! What a battle! The Albany men's tennis team traveled to the Big Apple on Saturday and upset the University of Massachusetts, 6-3.

The match was held in the New York Public Library, where the Danes fought hard to emerge victorious.

All the matches were close, but the Danes were able to come out on top in the end.
