SA Might Shift Budget Priorities

by Bruce Hollihan

SA's Essential Budget Committee has agreed to modify its funding procedure which will result in a...
Chairman Joseph Svecoff, "We find that the budget crisis is a national issue, and it is completely based on unrealistic and unscientific financial planning. We call for a reasonable and responsible approach to the budget crisis, and we will continue to work towards a balanced budget that meets the needs of all Americans."

Chairman (Task Force) Michael Fields: "Our recommendations are based on the need for fiscal responsibility and the need to maintain the university as a viable institution. We strongly recommend the adoption of our proposals to ensure the long-term financial health of SUNY and its constituents."

Chairman (Task Force) Benjamin Block: "The recommendation of reducing the size of the School of Education, as suggested by the Task Force, is based on the need to reallocate resources to other areas of the university. We believe that this will result in a more efficient and effective education system."

Chairman (Task Force) Bruce Marsh: "Our recommendations are designed to ensure the fiscal sustainability of the university and to provide a solid foundation for the future. We believe that our proposals will enable SUNY to continue to provide a high-quality education to its students."

Chairman (Task Force) Cyndi Smith: "We recognize the serious financial challenges facing the university and have worked diligently to develop recommendations that balance the need for fiscal responsibility with the importance of providing a quality education. Our proposals are designed to ensure the long-term financial health of SUNY and its constituents."

Chairman (Task Force) Edward Acosta-Belen: "We have carefully considered the recommendations of the Task Force and believe that they are necessary to ensure the fiscal sustainability of the university. We urge the university community to support these proposals."

Zahn Claims Rathskeller Pub Loses Money

Although the Rathskeller Pub once drew large crowds during the weekly state House of Representatives meetings in the last Congress, PIA Director E. Herbert Zahn says that the stirring will not continue to be available.

"The pub has been closed since the Capitol is out of session," said Zahn. "The students are not interested in the pub, and we don't want them to become sloppier or rowdier.

Rathskeller staff members have complained that the pub is losing money, but the students have not been giving them any business.

Zahn added that the pub was designed to separate students from the general public, but the students have not been using it.

I WANT TO TALK IT OVER.

The House Select Committee on Intelligence, chaired by Otto Pia (D-NY), found that the CIA had violated Johnson's order against covert funding for domestic organizations. Although publication of the committee's report on the CIA was blocked by Congressional action, it is generally believed that the CIA had "subtly disguised" its activities and that the CIA is covertly involved in many other areas. The committee's report on the CIA was extremely critical and found that the CIA had "violated the law" when it funded domestic organizations.

In March 1975, the President's Committee on the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) was established to study the issue of domestic surveillance. The committee's report on the FISA was extremely critical and found that the CIA had "violated the law" when it funded domestic organizations.

The Arts: Albany’s Debt to Learning

by Stephen Hanaway and Paul R. Forrester

The recent proposals by President Ford’s Task Force on Higher Education and the Institutional Aid Task Force have had a number of implications for the University. One of the key issues raised by the Task Force on Higher Education is the need for a clearer definition of the relationship between the University and the community. The University should be viewed as a vital component of the community, and its role should be recognized and supported. The University should be encouraged to take an active role in the community, and its contributions should be acknowledged and appreciated.

The United States has a long history of education and learning, and the University has been a key part of this tradition. The University has been a center of education, research, and community service, and it has played a vital role in the development of the community. The University has been a leader in the field of higher education, and it has been instrumental in shaping the future of the community.

The University has a number of programs that are designed to meet the needs of the community. These programs include:

1. Community Service Programs
2. Research Programs
3. Education Programs
4. Health Programs
5. Cultural Programs

These programs are designed to meet the needs of the community and to provide opportunities for the University to contribute to the community. The University should be encouraged to take an active role in the community and to continue to provide a valuable contribution to the community.

The University should be supported by the community, and the community should be encouraged to take an active role in the University. The community should be involved in the decision-making process, and the University should be held accountable for its actions.

The University should be recognized for its contributions to the community and for its role in the development of the community. The University should be encouraged to take an active role in the community and to continue to provide a valuable contribution to the community.

Working Out

Of Gloucester

In the early darkness I could see the outlines of the buildings along the waterfront. The sky was a hazy gray and the moon was a sliver of light on the horizon. I walked through the narrow streets, looking for a place to stay for the night.

I found a small inn with a sign that read "Mariners' Inn." The bartender greeted me warmly and showed me to a room on the top floor.

I asked for a drink and he brought me a glass of scotch. We talked for a while about the old days, when the town was full of sailors and fishermen.

"This place isn't what it used to be," he said. "But it's still a good place to come for a drink and some company."

I agreed and decided to spend the night in Gloucester.

The next morning I woke up early and went for a walk along the waterfront. The sun was just beginning to rise and the air was chilly.

I saw a few fishermen out on the deck of their boats, checking their lines and nets. I stopped to talk to a few of them and they told me about their work and the daily life of a fisherman.

One of them was a middle-aged man named Tom. He had been fishing for over thirty years and he told me about the challenges and joys of the work.

"It's hard work," he said. "But it's also satisfying. There's nothing like the feeling of pulling up a big fish and knowing that you've caught a good one."

I asked him if he had any advice for me and he told me to keep my eyes open and my mind sharp.

"Always be ready," he said. "That's the key to success."
Growing Old in the Seventies

by Thomas F. Matthews

"The new generation" began in the 1960s. It was a time of change, of liberality, and idealism. A new society was developing, and the whole world was to be bettered by it. People learned to question old standards, mores and customs. The "old generation" had either been through the pressures of the 50s or had some of the same. People were driving in a whole new generation, and the whole world was to be bettered by it. People learned to question old standards, mores and customs. The "old generation" had either been through the pressures of the 50s or had some of the same.

The way we viewed the world, people were in a whole new generation, and the whole world was to be bettered by it. People learned to question old standards, mores and customs. The "old generation" had either been through the pressures of the 50s or had some of the same.

Instead of the natural, we of the 1970's have the 'natural look.'

ALBANY STUDENT PRESS

MARCH 12, 1976
To the Editor:

The New York Times misread the tone of the letter in late April 29 by its author, as it appeared in the New York Times and the Albany Student Press. As a result, the letter was published in the wrong context, leading to a misinterpretation of its content.

As an Albany Student, I find it important to point out the inaccuracies present in the letter's portrayal of SUNY. While the author of the letter correctly identifies the issue of the Albany Student Press being a venue for the voice of SUNY students, it fails to acknowledge the contributions made by the press to the SUNY community. The Albany Student Press has played a crucial role in advocating for student rights and runcing the university, and its work should be recognized and supported.

I urge the New York Times to reevaluate its coverage of SUNY, and to provide a more accurate representation of the efforts made by SUNY students and the press. By doing so, the New York Times can contribute to a better understanding of the SUNY community and its institutions.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Albany Student Press]

This letter was published in the New York Times on May 1, 1977, as a response to a previous letter by the Albany Student Press.

To the Editor:

The Albany Student Press has repeatedly been misquoted in the New York Times, in particular regarding the activities of its members and the content of its publications. The Times has consistently published stories that are factually incorrect and that misrepresent the work of the press.

As the editor of the Albany Student Press, I must strongly condemn the Times for its lack of accuracy and fairness in its reporting. The press has been a voice for the students of SUNY for many years, and its work has been critical in advocating for student rights and improving the quality of education at the university.

I urge the Times to take responsibility for its actions and to rectify the errors published in its stories. By doing so, the Times can contribute to a more accurate and fair representation of the SUNY community.

Sincerely,

The Not-Work Ethic

by William B. McCollum

Most of you probably heard of the term Protestant work ethic—still, the inherent goodness of doing work. Our country was built on the philosophy of the work ethic (along with a few other ideas). The key of the Protestant ethic is work, and not work. The modern idea of work is to do anything and everything at work is a modern concept. Only a few years ago most work was done at home. The modern idea of work is to do anything and everything at work is a modern concept. Only a few years ago most work was done at home. The modern idea of work is to do anything and everything at work is a modern concept. Only a few years ago most work was done at home. The modern idea of work is to do anything and everything at work is a modern concept. Only a few years ago most work was done at home. The modern idea of work is to do anything and everything at work is a modern concept.

There is no work ethic without the idea of work. The idea of work is a modern concept. Only a few years ago most work was done at home. Braun Wins Chess Tourney

by the Smith

James Braun, an ASU Economics major, and two other students were recently awarded winning spots in the Annual National College Chess Tournament in New York City and $50.00 in prize money. Braun's strategy in the four round competition was to maintain a steady, patient game, which allowed him to acquire some of the more experienced players' weaknesses.

Cagers Lose, Then Win Finale

Oliver was high man for Hamilton scorers with 18 while Royal added 15. However, the ball back to Albany and finished the season with 34 of 35. Although Albany won only 12 of 26 contests this year, they at least continued from page twenty won the tournament. Coach Ted Earl blamed last week’s vacation. "We lacked consistency because of that," he said. RPI on Tuesday night marks the season. The League II (excluded interleague play) continues through March 31. The League I and II conferences stand together. If you are interested in starting a private camp, contact the WIRA office at the New England, Mid-Atlantic States, and Canada. Danes Split Vacation Pair

Fall to Hartwick, Upset Hamilton, 91-83; Cavanaugh Scores 36 in Season Finale

by Mike Pitchford

With the university's annual vacation period was drawing to a close, the Albany athletic teams were active with friendly games. Last week saw the start of an exciting weekend for the Danes, who played a game against Hartwick and another against Hamilton.

The Danes lost to Hartwick, 70-68, on the road. The game was tight throughout, with Hartwick leading 30-28 at the half. The Danes were able to regain the lead in the second half, but Hartwick managed to steal it back. In the end, the Danes fell to Hartwick, 70-68.

The Danes then turned their attention to Hamilton, where they played an exciting game. The Danes led early but trailed for most of the game. With the Warriors employing a fast-paced, high-scoring offense, the Danes were unable to keep up. Despite this, the Danes fought hard and managed to hold Hamilton to a final score of 91-83.

The Danes were not the only team to have a successful weekend. By Mike PltkinU Tangling with powerhouses Hartwick and Hamilton, the Danes were unable to defeat both teams. The Danes lost to Hartwick, 70-68, and to Hamilton, 91-83. Despite the losses, the Danes showed their ability to compete at a high level.

The Danes' next game will be against a tough opponent. However, with the team's ability to fight hard and never give up, the Danes are sure to put up a good fight.

Legislature Slashes SUNYA More

by Paul Rosenbaum

The SUNY Board of Trustees is meeting this week to discuss the future of the SUNY system. The board is expected to vote on a series of cuts to the SUNY system, including a 10% reduction in state funding.

The cuts are expected to affect SUNYA students, who have already faced significant budget cuts in recent years. The cuts will affect SUNYA's ability to provide quality education to its students.

The SUNY Board of Trustees is expected to vote on the cuts this week. The board's decision will have a significant impact on SUNYA's ability to provide quality education to its students.
