HANDBING OVER THE BLUE PENCIL

With this issue, the last to be published by the 1930-31 News staff, and with the departure of most on the editorial board, comes the familiar transfer of responsibility from one generation of editors to another. The retiring body of workers have almost disdained their duty to the student body and the institution they serve.

The 1930-31 board has tried to put out a proper worth of news and the coming board of 1931-32 expects to carry on and improve, if possible, the previous work of the News.

In a sense, the news media of a college is the voice of the students in the world. This statement is not meant to disparage the students, but rather to state the obvious. The student body is the most important group to the college, and the college is the most important group to society. Even if the student body is not aware of this, the media must be. The media is a tool for communication, and its purpose is to convey information to the public.

Therefore, it is important to the media to be careful in its selection of stories. The media has a responsibility to its readers to provide them with accurate and reliable information. The media should not be a source of entertainment or distraction, but rather a tool for education and enlightenment. The media should strive to be objective and unbiased, and should not allow its own biases or prejudices to influence its reporting.

In conclusion, the media has a responsibility to its readers to provide them with accurate and reliable information. The media should strive to be objective and unbiased, and should not allow its own biases or prejudices to influence its reporting. The media should be a tool for education and enlightenment, not a source of entertainment or distraction.

The STATEMAN

By Ray Collins, Jr

Charlie Jacquinet once more to the front with the girls in a most surprising showing. The girls' team placed a record of 5-0 in the Interclass Debate. The one debater was victorious in the last round of the debate.

The debaters were:

- M. Clancy, Prop. of Debate, First Presbyterian Church, Miss Margaret Trotter, of the Albany High School.
- L. Gross, Con. of Debate, First Presbyterian Church, Miss Margaret Trotter, of the Albany High School.

The winner of this remarkable victory was the girls' side. It was a splendid showing by the girls, and it is hoped that this will encourage more debate in the future.

It is to be hoped that the girls will continue to excel in their debatings. The future of debate lies in the hands of the girls, and it is to be hoped that they will rise to the occasion and excel in the future.

O’Dow Does Not Reveal Hiding Place,

As Freshmen Roam Buildings All Week

The "wise old owl" that was the mascot of the class of 1933 remained in its hiding place the entire week, and only a few students managed to find him. The owl was spotted in a number of places around campus, but no one was able to get a clear view of him. He was often heard calling out to the students, but no one was able to locate him. The owl was last seen in the library, where he was reading a book about owls.

For a full week the class of 1933 was kept in suspense, wondering if their mascot would appear. The owl was finally found, but no one was able to tell where he had been hiding. The owl was last seen in the library, where he was reading a book about owls.

The Freshmen were not able to find the owl, but they were happy to see him again. The owl was last seen in the library, where he was reading a book about owls.

CLASSES TO SING SONGS ON CAMPUS TOMORROW NIGHT

The annual Moving-up day sing in which all four classes will participate will take place tonight on the front steps of Dragon Hall. The song to the alma mater for the occasion, and the final one chosen by judges. However, the three points given in interscholastic rivalry for the winning of the entire song are awarded to the class or group of students in which the most senior song is sung.

Mrs. Leigh Colvin, state president of the Women’s Christian Temperance Union, pointed out that the liquor industry is a parasitic one because for the same amount of capital invested such an industry employs fewer men than any other industry. The three points given in interscholastic rivalry for the winning of the entire song are awarded to the class or group of students in which the most senior song is sung. She also disputed Mrs. Kelley’s statement that, while all people should temperate in everything, the matter of total abstinence is a personal problem rather than a state one.

COUNCIL TO HAVE PARTY FOR GROUP OF 10 CANDIDATES

The dramatic and art council will choose the ten freshmen who have done the most work for the year next Wednesday at a party given by them. Ruth Hughes, ‘31, president, announced today. From them will be selected two members who will be made for next year’s council. A questionnaire was sent to the students for council, the answers to which are being received today. From these questionnaires, the council can determine the men who will be considered for a full choice. The two freshmen who will be chosen for the council will be inducted in council next Friday, May 22. After the council is complete, it will conduct elections for the six-year’s officers, Miss Hughes said.

COLORFUL CEREMONIES OF 1928 WILL BE DUPLICATED TOMORROW MORNING DURING THE ANNUAL MOVING-UP DAY EXERCISES DURING WHICH MEMBERS OF EACH CLASS WILL AUTOMATICALLY MOVE-UP TO FILL THE PLACES OF THEIR ADVANCING PREDECESSORS.

Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley was the speaker for the affirmative in the debate on the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment, which was conducted in the assembly Friday. Mrs. Kelley based most of her arguments on the report of the Wickersham committee. She pointed out that temperance is a moral rather than a political issue and that all people should temperate in everything, the matter of total abstinence is a personal problem rather than a state one.

Mrs. Kelley’s interpretation of temperance as the normal indulgence of natural appetite, Mrs. Colvin added, is a personal one in which all people should temperate in everything, the matter of total abstinence is a personal problem rather than a state one.
