The new policy limits the use of alcohol in public areas of university residence halls, effective from September 7. The policy was introduced in response to an increase in alcohol consumption on campus, which has resulted in an increase in vandalism and other related issues. The policy limits the amount of alcohol that can be brought into residence halls and specifies maximum liquor quantities for each individual. The policy is intended to prevent alcohol-related problems and maintain a safe and conducive environment for students.

The new policy affects all five residence quads and Wellington Hall. The policy also applies to outside areas of residence halls and to parties and events sponsored by SUNY Student Assembly (SUNYA). The policy includes guidelines for determining overall amounts of alcohol to be used, with specific limits on wine and liquor.

WASHINGTON — A key Senate panel agreed Monday to consider the START II treaty, waging a renewed effort to end the years-long debate over the issue.

Chairman Frank Church, a key player in the negotiations, said he will vote in favor of the treaty, which would extend and strengthen the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty (INF) signed in 1987.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he chairs, is scheduled to vote on the treaty on Wednesday.

Church's panel has been divided over the treaty, with some members voting against it and others supporting it. Church said he will attempt to win the support of his colleagues on the committee.

The treaty is expected to face a tough battle in the Senate, where it needs the support of 60 senators to succeed. The treaty has already been approved by the House of Representatives.

Church said he will work to change the minds of his colleagues and bring the treaty to the Senate floor for a vote. He said he believes the treaty is important for national security and for reducing the risk of nuclear war.

The treaty would limit the number of intermediate-range nuclear missiles in Europe and limit the number of ground-launched cruise missiles in the United States and Russia. It would also limit the development of new nuclear weapons.

The Hurricane: Roscoe Tanner
Stuns Borg in U.S. Open

New York (AP) — The setting and conditions for Monday's match were ideal for both players. A light breeze was blowing, humidity was low and the sun was shining. And the court was perfect.

It was Roscoe Tanner's second time on an Arthur Ashe Stadium crowd. The former Wimbeldon champion, at times being referred to as the 'Tennis God', was ready to perform.

And he did not disappoint. His 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 quarterfinal victory was accomplished with the Tanner's unfaltering confidence.

"The win was a great one," said Tanner, who was seeded the number one tennis player in the world. "It was a great day for tennis." He then struck Flushing Meadow.

His 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 quarterfinal victory was accomplished with the Tanner's unfaltering confidence. His service was consistently at the high of the net. "I'm happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable," said Bob Ford. "I'm happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable."

And it was the old Borg, the world's No. 1 and the Swedish thunderbolts, at times being referred to as the 'Tennis God', who actually hit the ball. "I'm happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable," said Bob Ford. "I'm happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable."

But the move was inevitable...

The.move was inevitable...
Booters Show Revamped Attack

by Mike Dunne

The 1979 edition of the Albany State soccer team promises a more exciting offense than a year ago, as the squad has made several key changes and improvements. The Danes will be led by two capable goalkeepers, Mark Wooten and Tom Pellicci, who have combined to shut down some of the best offenses in the Sunyac conference.)

In contrast, this year's squad has more offensive ability. A combination of returning stars and new acquisitions has added quickness and versatility to the forward line. The midfield corps will be anchored by senior Robert Dahab, who has moved to the stopper and right fullback spots. Transfers Keith Falconer (Naval Academy) and Alex Pagano along with returning sweeper back this year after an injury. Albany Gothic is ready to replace Arango. Head Coach Bill Schicffelin has impressed with his ability to bring them to the playoffs.

The Danes will be joined by Ali Kamara, a talented young player who has quickly adapted to American soccer. Kamara is a "diamond in the rough," according to Coach Schicffelin, who describes him as a versatile player with an ability to score goals. The Danes will also be bolstered by senior Robert Dahab, who has continued his strong form from last season.

The offensive attack is where the team seems to be most improved. Despite the loss of leading scorer Arango, Schicffelin feels the team has been impressed with during the pre-season. The offensive attack will be where the new tactics are most evident. Despite the loss of scoring threat Arango, Schicffelin feels the team has made the necessary adjustments and has the talent to be competitive this season. On the defensive side, the team looks strong, with Arango's importance to the team being more apparent. Dunne continues on page 24.

Evaluating a team at this point in the pre-season is a risky business; however it appears safe to say that the 1979 booters have reversed the strengths of last year's 9-5-2 club. The only real loss to the 1979 booters was that he allowed more goals than two goals per game. After scoring last season with a knee injury, Albany Gothic is expected to improve. Head Coach Bill Schicffelin has impressed with his ability to bring them to the playoffs.

Beginnings.

Cradled by stalling through the window at levels matching those closely to true tops, the child was a passionate adventurer. He would wake to the hidden places beyond the heavy wide doors at the front of the house. The shrill tink of an alarm clock would start a rush of ideas, pressing against the sides of his mind. Before noon, he would be out, exploring the upper roof where the birds sang, hiding in the tree to hear the rustle of leaves. He had discovered a place in the garden where he felt safe and content, closed against the world. The world changed to the eyes of a child. Everything was something to be touched by hands, to be laughed at, to be shared with. The world was his to play in, to explore. He lived in his own little world, a world of dreams and adventures.

This world is tuned to the barks of dogs, the shrieks of girls being pinched by boys, of laughing wild children, of car horns from late work fathers, and of wellwishings from the brother. It is a world of memories and experiences, a world of the past and the present, a world of the mind and the heart. This world is the life of a child, a world of Beginnings.

Dylan Finds God

Bob Dylan. You talk about a life of brotherly love. Show me someone who can do as much as he can, with a heart that doesn't break down. I can't imagine anyone who can do it, but it's true. He's found something unexpected, but not by accident. It's a faith based on his own experience, his own pain, his own suffering. It's a faith that's not for everyone, but it's a faith that's powerful, and it's a faith that's real.

Stuart Matranga

Talking Heads Find Fear

"I'm Gonna Crawl," the first single from the forthcoming Talking Heads album, is a classic Zeppelin. The opening section is reminiscent of some of "Kashmir's" eastern inflections, and is nicely done, with a steady, undulating drum beat. Charles compared it to a drum solo, and is crisp and tight. "Knockin' on Heaven's Door" is a particularly strong track, with a catchy hook and a strong rhythm.

John D. MacDonald

Zep Finds The Door

Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven" is a classic rock song, and it's a perfect example of what Led Zeppelin did best. They were able to combine the bluesy, rocking, melodic love tune that brings a unique energy to the track. The guitar is just a little bit different in the second half, and it's a great touch. The music is a perfect example of what Led Zeppelin did best.
