Wilfred Allard Spends Summer In Europe During Recent Crisis

The night before July 14, he found it minutes by air.

Faced with the task of rescheduling his remarkable tour of Europe, Wilfred Allard, new supervisor of French in the State college, was forced to find a way to fill the unexpected gap in his summer schedule.

Allard, who had been planning to spend the summer in England, France, and Algeria, found himself with only a few days to make alternative travel arrangements. He decided to visit several other European cities, including Carcassonne, Marseilles, the French Riviera, and Caracas.

When the recent crisis arose and events suddenly took a turn for the worse, Allard had to cancel his planned trip to Algeria, Indo-China, Morocco, and the United States. He decided to focus on France, and spent several weeks touring the country.

Allard's visit to France was a highlight of his summer. He was able to see many of the country's most famous landmarks, including the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre Museum, and the Palace of Versailles.

The Service Fraternity

This student service fraternity began in its first period of the year by introducing the Associated Teachers' College and Normal School faculties to the City of Albany. Acting as guides and in the service of information, the formerly self-taught information desk in Chancellor's hall and in the Ten Eyck hotel is in the recommendations of Albany.

This has become a student service added since college time: first, it has eliminated the older understandings of citizens about Albany; secondly, it has revealed an excellent facility with the people of Albany by showing that, as Americans, we have a sense of responsibility toward one another. All in all, it has fulfilled the expectations of those college in the eyes of its community.

The objectives of the service fraternity are to be of service to the citizens and the community, and to assume the function of acting as an unofficial agent in matters which are not understood by established organizations. Its activities may be centered by the city school or community organization of the city or college, as the need, the situation, or the cooperation of the community.

The organization is a segment of the work done by its members in the Boy Scouts of America. The principles are the same as its duty to God and country and to help others at all times.

It needs, however, the help of the student body to perpetuate its good works. It needs the student and the community which cannot be added by existing organizations. It needs cooperation to fulfill its orders to do the best it can.

Book Exchange

In the issue of the News dated February 29, 1939, the Commentary made a suggestion to "some enterprising student who will set up a second hand book exchange to which students can bring all their second hand books to sell." It was therefore with great pleasure that we witnessed the introduction of this scheme as an effort in book sales.

The present system, everyone will agree, is sadly inefficient. The constant inside the Collier store, the waiting of armies and lines on the shelves, the slow turnover of individuals through the constant read, and the confusion and speedy turning of books. Furthermore, through the inefficiency of this system, textbooks which are desired are left to gather dust on the shelves, because the student fails to contact a purchase.

The second hand book exchange should serve to eliminate this inefficiency.

We congratulate the few persons who are responsible for this move which will be of inestimable service to the student body.

The service Fraternity

The State College service fraternity began its first year of operation by introducing the Association of Fraternal Service and Normal school students to serve in the city of State. Acting as guides and as sources of information, the fraternity established information desks in Chanler's hall and in the university dormitory.

The book exchange is a new feature. It has been introduced to provide a place for students to exchange books they have read. The exchange is open to all students, and it is located near the student union.

U.S. College Students Join in Battle to Fight Syphilis

East and west, north and south, college students in every type of institution have taken up the cry “Syphilis—Enemy of Youth.” Young people have been for years the victims of a “mature and cautious” which forbade discussion of this leading threat to youth health. But during the past two years college editors and students have helped materially to blast this censorship from its shaky foundations. Every day more students all over the nation are speaking and acting in every way for facts and honesty.

Students have instigated educational campaigns and have arranged free blood tests for students. At Penn State, University of Kentucky, Indiana University, and many others, admission to courses and examinations, and students have been examined for first time in human history. At least 15 universities have reported more than 50,000 new cases of syphilis. In 1938-39, about 300,000 new cases of syphilis were reported in the United States by the Public Health Service.

Syphilis—Enemy of Youth

The control of syphilis is a task for the whole people. Surgeon General Parran says, “It is our duty to inform the public regularly about the course of syphilis and the fact that it is a disease that can be cured if caught early in its incubation stage.”

Syphilis Strikes 1 in 10 Adults...

More Than Half Are Infected Before 30

Syphilis is a communicable disease. It is usually spread by sexual relations. Syphilis is caused by a pathogenic spirochete, Treponema pallida. Syphilis is often transmitted by contact with an infected person, especially for men who have sex with men. Syphilis can also be transmitted through blood transfusions, tattooing, or body piercing.

Syphilis can be treated with antibiotics. Early diagnosis and treatment can prevent serious complications and improve the chances of a successful outcome. However, if left untreated, syphilis can lead to lifelong health problems and even death. Syphilis is preventable if infected individuals follow recommended treatment regimens and engage in safer sex practices.

Wilfred Allard, While in Europe, Witnesses Wartime Preparations

This week the second part of a series on the summer European travels of Wilfred Allard, instructor in music, will be published in this paper. In Part I of the series WilfredAllard described the World War II battle centers of France, Belgium, and Holland.

In this week's article Allard brings his attention to the activities of the citizens and the war preparations of the French civilian population. He writes:

...that's always a signal for more smoking pleasure

He was in the town of Orleans, France when the local radio announced that the French military had ordered all the citizens to report to the assembly point for the next work shift. In Orleans, as in other cities of France, the majority of the population was at work in various capacities for the war effort. The French military had called up all the draftees, and the women were busy making socks and uniforms for the soldiers. The men were working in factories and on the fields. The French were very patriotic and eager to do their part in the war.
