Petition Unfortunate

We feel, as does President Collins, that the circulation of a petition by a group of students asking for the release of Cynthia Goodman was "not fortunate."

We do not in any way disagree with the sentiment which prompted the petition. On the contrary, we are glad to see that students are showing enough enthusiasm, and application, to their instructors to go to a great deal of trouble to have her removed. What was unfortunate was that the students circulated the petition without first finding out the facts. A fellow with President Collins would have realized that the faculty had already taken positive and effective action.

The petition automatically assumed that the faculty did not realize the situation concerning Cynthia Goodman. Such an assumption is representative of the kind of misunderstanding of cooperation between faculty and students.

This "University" will not become a university in the true sense of the word (based on moral and intellectual) the respect and trust is established between faculty and students. Responsibility for establishing this dialogue falls heavily on the students.

Dickens on Christmas

Christmas time!

That man must be a misanthrope indeed who would blame anything like a jolly feeling not aroused in whom some pleasant associations are not awakened by the season of Christmas.

There are people who will tell you that each succeeding Christmas has it in it what it must be; that each succeeding Christmas has fixed some cherished hope, or happy prospect of the year before, dimmed or passed away; that the present only serves to remind them of those past circumstances and straightened incomes of the days past they once breakfasted on happy friends, and the care to make them happy now in adversity and misfortune. Never heed such dismal reminiscences.

There are few people who have lived long enough in the world, who cannot call up thoughts any day in the week.

Let us select the merriest day of the three hundred and sixty-five for your doleful recollections, and draw your chair near the blazing fire; fill the glass with warm round the song, and if your room be smaller than it was a dozen years ago, or if your glass be colder with peaking punch instead of sparkling wine, yet give the matter a thought, and empty it off-hand if you like, and tell off the old story you used to sing and thank God it's so worse...

Believe upon present blessings—of which every man has many—not on your misfortunes—of which all men have many.

Till your glass again, with a merry face and contented heart.

Our life is but, your Christmas shall be merry, and your New Year a happy one.

—Charles Dickens

Basketball Crowd

Shoos Poor Spirit

To the Editor:

For me, in the midst of the activities of the university, the most splendid was the basketball game that was played in the arena. In it, I noticed two things. First, the players' enthusiasm and spirit were evident in their movements. They were determined to win and did so with energy and passion.

Secondly, the crowd showed their support and appreciation for the players by cheering loudly and encouraging them throughout the game. Their enthusiasm was palpable and contributed to the overall atmosphere of excitement.

The game was played on December 12th, and the players were truly exceptional. Their performance was outstanding, and the crowd's reaction was in line with their efforts. It was an enjoyable event, and I hope more games like this will be organized in the future.

Sincerely,

[Name]

Psa: At the end of the game, I would like to express my appreciation to all the players and the crowd for their contributions. It was a memorable day for sure.

Dining Hall Opens At New Dorm

Campus Dining Hall has opened in the new dormitory. The opening was attended by many students and faculty members, who praised the new facility for its comfort and efficiency. The dining hall offers a variety of meals, including breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

USACE ESTABLISHES NEW DEFENSE

The United States Army Corps of Engineers has established a new defense system in the area. The system is designed to protect the campus from potential threats.

The system includes a series of high-tech cameras and sensors that can detect and track potential threats. The cameras are linked to a central control room, where officials can monitor the area in real-time.

The system is also equipped with a communication system that allows officials to rapidly broadcast alerts and warnings to the campus community.

This new defense system is a significant improvement over the previous system, which relied on manual patrols and outdated technology.

The United States Army Corps of Engineers is working to improve the system further, and plans to install additional cameras and sensors in the near future.
