Danes lose to Rochester in ECAC opener, 90-76

Co-captains Dieckelman and Gatto

Sport Tuesday
MARCH 8, 1983

Co-captains Dieckelman and Gatto appear in final game as Great Danes

By Mark Bremen

The Albany State Student Senate voted for the creation of an ECAC basketball tournament. The move was opposed by the Board of Trustees, who cited lack of funds to support the proposed tournament.

In the final game of his career, senior forward Mike Wright scored 25 points to become the second-highest scorer in Albany history. He also set a new mark in the 500-yard freestyle, finishing second.

The Danes trailed at 11-4, but an Albany scoring binge in the second half put them ahead, 40-37. With 3:19 left in the game, Wright hit a reverse layup to knot the score at 47-47. Then, Al Servidee scored two free throws to give Albany the lead back.

"I'm not sure if there is any official way," Liddy said. "But it would be easier if they were registered for the draft."

The plaintiffs in the case are six students, administrators and trustees at SUNY at Albany. They argue that the draft law is unconstitutional because it violates the due process and equal protection clauses of the Constitution.

The court will hear oral arguments on March 11, 1983.
State cuts delayed

Cuomo in his proposed $31.52 billion slate (AP) Slate Assembly Speaker Stanley Fink, lawyers and other professionals pay sales Massachusetts and Connecticut.

when the Federal Energy Regulatory Com­ muster the 100 voles need in ihni violence wllh violence or dealh is Ihc laid off workers who were scheduled lo be ed because of raises which were lo take effect and some the next, extra vacation credit earn­

Cuomo after leaders of the state's two lurgesl

state workers on Friday.

The union leaders pointed out that because

The Power Authority of ihc Slate of New had admitted membership on "Ihc or were suspected of informing. It also Darncs, Ihc dope king who had spent two years in the No. 2 job al

ber back lo work" by restoring public confidence met lo avoid layoffs and state tuition Incalls in pari for Ihe money ihe union

USSR called "evil"

Information health authorities have stated that the possibility for large scale

transmission of measles will exist for the next several weeks as a result of

with large groups of students coming to resorts increases the problem.

to a notice written in the average age student with

he integrant complaints more frequently this age. The

as delayed in 1982. By 1983, if you had a Cordless bills with large groups of students coming to resorts increases the

the problem.

to an experience that the Student Health Service is pla­ questions the tenure status

USSR called "evil"

Information health authorities have stated that the possibility for large scale

transmission of measles will exist for the next several weeks as a result of

with large groups of students coming to resorts increases the problem.

to a notice written in the average age student with

he integrant complaints more frequently this age. The

as delayed in 1982. By 1983, if you had a Cordless

bills with large groups of students coming to resorts increases the

the problem.
The priority system, Martone explained, involves students having a certain amount of time to withdraw from their housing, which increases their chances of getting the room they want. According to Martone, the Office of Residential Life stressed that it is worth it if it benefits people who have spent most of their time there. The process of assigning students will only be changed if the students are satisfied with it. The estimated cost of writing the programs is $60,000, and it will be spent from the budgeted residence funds to purchase study carrels and office equipment. The Office of Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.

Housing sign-ups haunted by 'ghost' students

Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.

Computers to figure in fall room assignments

Mechanized system will save time

The Office of Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.

Housing sign-ups haunted by 'ghost' students

Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.

Computers to figure in fall room assignments

Mechanized system will save time

The Office of Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.

Housing sign-ups haunted by 'ghost' students

Residential Life is looking toward a totally computerized system with the eventual goal of having one. This will save time in signing up for computers and they will be more accurate, according to Martone.
Leary and Liddy argue ideas

By Heidi Coghill

How can people use drugs to achieve higher consciousness? Is the drug-taking experience different from that of non-drug users? Are there limited number of tickets on sale for television hour in CC Lobby.

Get your tickets early!

Molson Golden. That's Canadian for great taste.
One out of millions

There are few things that Jews are supposed to work. We have a situation in this country that requires silence from the government. The Bill of Rights was intended to stop decent citizens from feeling like they were being punished for not registering for the draft. The program was never intended to discriminate against any group of people. The only time it would be justified is if the federal government is going to use it to protect its citizens. That is not the case with the current program. The bill is unjustified and unconstitutional.

The legislation part of the law was recent to the nation. The police state mentality this bill of rights was supposed to prevent the drafts is still very pervasive. Over a million young men have refused to register for the draft and millions more are actively working against mandatory conscription with more and more young men will be drafted in the future.

Glass houses and stones

Dr. Japhet M. Zwanza

1. December the government had to be in a dilemma. The courts on both sides of the fence are now the official representatives of the government. The courts are supposed to be an impartial and disinterested body, but the courts are now the representatives of the government. The courts are supposed to be the defenders of the Constitution, but the courts are now the enforcers of the government's will. The courts are supposed to be impartial, but the courts are now the representatives of the government. The courts are supposed to be independent, but the courts are now the representatives of the government. The courts are supposed to be impartial, but the courts are now the representatives of the government. The courts are supposed to be independent, but the courts are now the representatives of the government.

Judge Donald Alsop does not have a reputation as a liberal judge. He's a conservative judge — a Nixon appointee. The case is certain to be appealed, but Alsop's ruling is likely to stand. Why would a conservative judge declare a law that supported such traditionally rightist ideas as this. And "national duty"? Because the 22nd Amendment is simply a very bad law. It would have been more sensible to enshrine financial aid officers with anti-draft laws and make them "national duty".

Because the 22nd Amendment is simply a very bad law. It would have been more sensible to enshrine financial aid officers with anti-draft laws and make them "national duty". The application of double standards is obnoxious from the point of view of the commonly held idea that the Constitution is a living document. The 22nd Amendment was intended to limit the power of the government to re-elect a president over an 8-year period, not to limit the power of a president to be re-elected over an 8-year period. The 22nd Amendment is a guarantee for continued while supremacy.

The most frightening part of the law was the way it attempted to punish people for a crime that they have not been convicted of. The amendment is constitutional, but Alsop's ruling is very likely to stand. Why would a conservative judge declare a law that supported such traditionally rightist ideas as this. And "national duty"? Because the 22nd Amendment is simply a very bad law. It would have been more sensible to enshrine financial aid officers with anti-draft laws and make them "national duty".

The application of double standards is obnoxious from the point of view of the commonly held idea that the Constitution is a living document. The 22nd Amendment was intended to limit the power of the government to re-elect a president over an 8-year period, not to limit the power of a president to be re-elected over an 8-year period. The 22nd Amendment is a guarantee for continued while supremacy.

The most frightening part of the law was the way it attempted to punish people for a crime that they have not been convicted of. The amendment is constitutional, but Alsop's ruling is very likely to stand. Why would a conservative judge declare a law that supported such traditionally rightist ideas as this. And "national duty"? Because the 22nd Amendment is simply a very bad law. It would have been more sensible to enshrine financial aid officers with anti-draft laws and make them "national duty".

The application of double standards is obnoxious from the point of view of the commonly held idea that the Constitution is a living document. The 22nd Amendment was intended to limit the power of the government to re-elect a president over an 8-year period, not to limit the power of a president to be re-elected over an 8-year period. The 22nd Amendment is a guarantee for continued while supremacy.
Third Annual Rotary Club Career Day

The Albany Rotary Club has offered to sponsor the "Third Annual Albany Rotary Club Career Day." This is a worthwhile opportunity for SUNY-A students to participate in a one-day career exploration event. The site is pane One of the Institute of CUE Center is located on the 2nd floor of CUE. The Career Center. Groups of students will be scheduled for 9:30 a.m. or 1:30 p.m. on March 14-16. Videotape tapes will be made available to students who wish to view the event. The Career Center will provide the tape and arrange for its return. Students are asked to come to the Career Center at 8:45 a.m. to pick up their senior cards if they are available. The senior cards will be distributed to students attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be available to students who are not attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be distributed to students attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be available to students who are not attending the Career Day.

Selection of Students

The Center for Undergraduate Education (CUE) is co-sponsored by the Albany Rotary Club. Individuals interested in coordinating the selection of students for the Rotary Club will be contacted. The Rotary Club will select the students and coordinate the selection of students. Individuals interested in coordinating the selection of students for the Rotary Club will be contacted. The Rotary Club will select the students and coordinate the selection of students.

Career Day

After a busy morning students will be treated to lunch at the Campus Center 343 (ticket window). It is set to allow me to make some valuable contacts in the field. Trends and advisers will be present and will provide students with information about their profession. The students will spend the morning with their assigned professional. The Albany Rotary Club has agreed to donate the morning of April 12 to the SUNY-A students. The Albany Rotary Club has offered to sponsor the "Third Annual Career Day." This is a worthwhile opportunity for SUNY-A students to participate in a one-day career exploration event. The site is pane One of the Institute of CUE Center is located on the 2nd floor of CUE. The Career Center. Groups of students will be scheduled for 9:30 a.m. or 1:30 p.m. on March 14-16. Videotape tapes will be made available to students who wish to view the event. The Career Center will provide the tape and arrange for its return. Students are asked to come to the Career Center at 8:45 a.m. to pick up their senior cards if they are available. The senior cards will be distributed to students attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be available to students who are not attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be distributed to students attending the Career Day. The senior cards will be available to students who are not attending the Career Day.

Nuclear Study

The University Committee on Nuclear Studies and Aspects are planning to devote the entire April 29th issue to the subject of Nuclear Armament. We are therefore calling upon all members of the University Community to contribute essays, fiction, poetry, and artwork on the issues. The deadline for submissions is April 8th. Send contributions to H.C. Staley, Humanities 346. Please remember to include your name and community address.
Ten Years Late

I picked the heavy old album out of the stack. Ten Years Later. Naive and poet was the name of the record company. It was pressed on vinyl. It was the record company's first pressing. I was intrigued by the name of the record company. It was pressing on vinyl. I was intrigued by the name of the record company. It was pressing on vinyl. It was the record company's first pressing.

I flipped open the gatefold, and saw the liner notes. I was riveted by the liner notes. In the liner notes, it was stated that the album was pressed on vinyl. I was intrigued by the name of the record company. It was pressing on vinyl. It was the record company's first pressing.

I turned over the gatefold, and saw the back cover. I was fascinated by the information presented on the back cover. It was a detailed list of the record company's releases, along with their respective release dates and pressing formats.

I read through the liner notes, and was fascinated by the insights provided. It was stated that the album was pressed on vinyl. I was intrigued by the name of the record company. It was pressing on vinyl. It was the record company's first pressing.

I turned over the gatefold, and saw the inside sleeve. I was drawn to the image of the group's logo, which was a stylized representation of a record being pressed on a turntable. It was accompanied by the record company's name and slogan.

I closed the gatefold, and placed the album back on the shelf. I was left with a sense of curiosity and wonder about what the album contained. I speculated about the music, the themes, and the overall experience of listening to the album.
Business Is Booming...

The demand for business majors multiplies

Lynee Siegel

There is a major in a psychology test that will make a student jump for joy at the thought of a life in the BBA. There are few to be had. But a college education is not just about the academic experience and for many students, the social experience is second to none. For some, the opportunity to get a job is a major consideration as well. For students who are considering a business major, there are a few things to keep in mind.

A student who is considering a business major should do their homework. They should research different schools and programs to find one that fits their needs. They should also consider the location of the school and the type of programs offered. Some schools offer more business-related courses than others. It is important to take these factors into account when making a decision.

Kolmln: An employer looks for a well-educated, well-rounded person who is a good communicator and can speak well. In business, we are always in the public eye.

Andrew Carroll

...But What About Humanities?

Wherein Shakespeare and Milton prove there's more to life than ACC 211

For many students, the decision to pursue a business major is not an easy one. While the job market is competitive, it is also important to consider the value of a liberal arts education. While ACC 211 is a popular course, it might not be the best choice for all students. In fact, the benefits of a liberal arts education are often overlooked.

Savitt: You'll get very different answers about the job market from people in their twenties and people in their thirties. Employers do have a bias against the liberal arts, but studies like Beck's show that may be changing.
God Works At Jerry's

"Look at the cook behind the counter," I said, "this guy is as real as you or I. He's as unreal as you or I. He's always there. It's something that you believe in, Chuck Darwin said it best when he wrote, "In all of Albany. It's as if this food comes to you, as usual, about one can believe in. The Lumberjack Special renewed my spirit. I dipped a gloved hand into the sugar bowl. "One of my Saturday morning rituals," I thought. "Nothing but sugar and malt, yes?"

"Okay," I said. "It'll be ready any minute." And as I walked away, I thought, "I'm not sure if I believe in anything."
Business As Usual?

Recently, Business As Usual has become the catchphrase of choice among the business world's leading minds. This term is often used to denote a situation in which business practices, structures, and procedures remain unchanged despite external factors such as economic downturns, technological advancements, or social shifts. The phrase suggests a level of resistance to change and an adherence to traditional methods and strategies, even when newer, more efficient approaches might be available.

However, the concept of Business As Usual is often criticized for several reasons. Firstly, it can perpetuate a culture of complacency and stagnation within organizations, preventing them from adapting to new market conditions or technological advancements. Secondly, it can lead to a disregard for ethical considerations and social responsibility, as businesses may prioritize profit maximization over broader societal impacts. Lastly, it can stifle innovation and creativity, as new ideas and approaches are often met with resistance or outright opposition due to a lack of familiarity or fear of the unknown.

In conclusion, while the phrase Business As Usual may provide a sense of comfort and stability in the short term, it is crucial for businesses to consider the long-term implications of their actions. Embracing change and innovation, even in the face of uncertainty, can lead to sustained growth and success in the dynamic and ever-evolving business landscape.
A common goal

To the Editor:

Thank you all for the article in the ASP about the arrest of 465 at 1333 (March 25, 1983), which brought to light the issue of the treatment of Native Americans by the police. The ASP article was a valuable contribution to the understanding of this complex issue.

We should all be concerned about the treatment of Native Americans by the police. The police have a responsibility to protect and serve all members of the community, regardless of their race or ethnicity. This includes protecting the rights of Native Americans, who have a long history of mistreatment by the police.

I believe that the police should be held accountable for their actions and that they should be held to the same standards of professionalism and ethics as other law enforcement agencies.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Appropriate actions

To the Editor:

I would like to make a few suggestions regarding the arrest of 465 at 1333 (March 25, 1983), which was covered in the ASP article.

Firstly, I believe that the police should be more transparent in their actions. The police should be required to provide clear and concise reasons for any arrest, and they should be held accountable for any actions that violate the rights of Native Americans.

Secondly, I believe that the police should be trained in cultural sensitivity. The police should be educated about the history and culture of Native Americans, and they should be able to recognize and respect the dignity of all members of the community.

Finally, I believe that there should be stronger protections for Native Americans when they are arrested. The police should be required to provide a lawyer for Native Americans who are arrested, and they should be prohibited from using excessive force.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
SERVE IN APPALACHIA

GETTING INTO THE LAW SCHOOL OF YOUR CHOICE

Lisa Goldwasser, Attorney at Law will be here to discuss how to optimize your chances in the law school admissions game.

Date: Friday March 11th
Time: 2:00 PM
Place: Campus Center Room 375

career choices

"..."whether it would be better to take the job and try to change things from within, or whether it would be better to change the system from the outside. There is no clear answer. It depends on the situation, the individual involved, and the values that are important to them.

Financial and moral responsibility are not always easy to balance. It is important to consider the potential impact of one's actions on both oneself and others.

Career choices can be challenging and require careful consideration. It is important to weigh the pros and cons of different options in order to make the best decision for oneself and for society as a whole.

Cornell Law School Undergraduate PreLaw Program June 8 to July 19, 1983

A demanding six-week program for college students who want to learn what law school is like.

For more information contact:
Cornell Law School 601 Minor Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853

MARGOT KIDDER, ROBERT HAYS

CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED

TRENCHECAT A JERRY LEIDER PRODUCTION

To write a great novel, you have to live a great novel. Too bad Mickey writes murder mysteries.
William Moore: A new outlook for SUNYA sports

By Marc Levine

Tom (Tom) Ybarra and Bill (Bill) Hill may be the best of friends, yet each will lead his team to different destinations this weekend in Oklahoma City. Ybarra will take the Buzz-Brothers to the NCAA Division III championship game and Hill will lead the Gladiators to the semi-finals. Hill's team will be a surprise. "The Buzz-Brothers are the favorites, but we can't be taken lightly," said Hill. "We have a chance to win the championship if we play well."

While Ybarra is confident in his team's ability to win, Hill is less sure. "We are underdogs, but we have a fighting chance," he said. "The Buzz-Brothers have a lot of experience, but we have nothing to lose.

The Buzz-Brothers have won the last three championships and are looking to make it four in a row. "We have been working hard all season," said Ybarra. "We have a lot of depth on our team and we are ready to play our best."

The Gladiators, on the other hand, are the underdog. "We are a surprise team," said Hill. "We have been working hard all season and we have a chance to win the championship.

The semi-finals will be played on Sunday, with the championship game scheduled for Monday. The Buzz-Brothers will play the winner of the Gladiators and the Whitaker Brothers. "We are looking forward to the challenge," said Ybarra. "We have played the best teams in the country and we are ready for the championship game."
By Mary Hugel

Although the NCAA Division III basketball playoffs are only four games long, the long season is only as long as the memory. And the University of Albany is starting to feel the memory of last year's loss.

The Danes went into the NCAA Tournament with a 20-9 record, the most wins in school history, and the best record of any of the NCAA's 369 Division III teams. After a first round win over Union College, they were knocked out by the University of Chicago in the second round.

"We were the only team last year that beat the University of Chicago," said Coach Jerry Narrutis. "The loss was a reality check for the team."

Narrutis and his team have been working hard this season to get back to the NCAA Tournament. The Danes are currently 19-7 and are the number one seed in the SUNYAC tournament. If they win, they will qualify for the NCAA Tournament.

"The team is working hard," said Narrutis. "They are focused on the games ahead and not on the past."

The Danes have been working hard to improve their offensive efficiency. They are currently second in the nation in shooting percentage and third in the nation in offensive rebounding.

"The team is playing well," said Narrutis. "They are a confident team and they are playing with a lot of energy."

The Danes have a tough road ahead of them, but they are confident they can make it to the NCAA Tournament. They know that the road ahead will be difficult, but they are ready for the challenge. They are ready to make history again.