Burlingame On Batting: 'Experience Not There'

by Ed Moore

"The biggest thing that put him over," said Bellville班主任Abba Burlingame, "is that he's got experience. He's been around the game. He knows what it takes to get the job done." Burlingame added that Bellville has been a valuable asset to the team, "He's a hard worker, always there when you need him. He never takes a day off." Bellville's head coach, Mike Pennington, also praised the senior's efforts, "He's really stepped up his game this year. His bat is really hot." Bellville is currently in contention for the league title, and Burlingame believes that Bellville has the potential to win it all if they continue their strong performance. "If they keep playing like this, they can go all the way," he said.

Abba Eban Condemns Intolerance In Mid East

by Ed Moore

Abba Eban, former Israeli Foreign Minister, delivered a powerful speech at the SUNY Albany campus on Tuesday night, denouncing the growing culture of intolerance in the Middle East. "We must work together to create a more tolerant society," he said. "We cannot afford to be divided by religion, politics, or nationality. We must learn to live together in peace." Eban was speaking at the invitation of the SUNY Albany Campus Activities Board, and his speech was well-received by the audience. "I was moved by his words," said one attendee. "He has a unique perspective and I think he made a great point." Eban's visit was part of a larger effort by the SUNY system to foster intercultural understanding. "We believe in the power of education to bring people together," said SUNY Chancellor Martha Pollack. "We are committed to creating a welcoming and inclusive environment for all students."

Copyright Bill Might Darken Photocopies

by Ed Moore

The Copyright Act of 1976 has raised concerns among educators and librarians who fear that the bill could limit access to educational materials. "We are concerned about the potential for this bill to restrict our ability to photocopy materials," said one librarian. "We need these materials to do our jobs." The bill has been hotly debated, with proponents arguing that it is necessary to protect the rights of creators, while opponents argue that it is necessary to ensure access to educational materials. "We believe in the importance of fair use," said one supporter. "It is essential for educators to be able to use materials in the classroom." The bill has been the subject of much debate, and its passage is uncertain. "We will continue to fight for fair use," said one advocate. "We cannot allow this bill to pass."
Re obscure Hughes Died at 70

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) Howard Hughes, the enigmatic tycoon who founded a Wall Street brokerage firm in his 20s and later directed the world's largest airplane and befuddled the world with his personal life, died yesterday. He was 70.

Hughes had always been offbeat, no matter how the money was spent. A self-styled inventor, he once sold the world a radio for $250 which didn't work. He once bought a U-boat from the Germans.

Hughes was also a collector of oddities, including a valuable diamond found in South Africa.

Hughes was a multimillionaire who owned the largest airplane in the world, a 900,000-pound, 250-foot-long ship called the Spruce Goose.

Hughes was also a movie producer and a stockbroker, and his life was filled with controversy.

Hughes was a complicated man, but he left a lasting legacy. His Spruce Goose, for example, is now on display at the National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C.

Hughes was a man of many talents, and his life was filled with mystery and intrigue.

Hughes was a man of great wealth, but he was also a man of great kindness. He gave millions of dollars to charity and helped many people in need.

Hughes was a man of great power, but he was also a man of great weakness. He was a lifelong smoker and his health suffered as a result.

Hughes was a man of great talent, but he was also a man of great flaws. He was often seen as a recluse and he never married.

Hughes was a man of great controversy, but he was also a man of great achievement.

Hughes was a man of great influence, but he was also a man of great limitations.

The most interesting thing that we noticed was the ability to pass through the air with a single breath. The device is made of a lightweight, flexible material that allows the user to breathe in and out without any hindrance. It was quite fascinating to see how easily the user could move through the air.

The device also has a built-in sensor that detects the presence of any obstacles in the path. If an obstacle is detected, the device automatically adjusts its course to avoid it. This feature was particularly useful in the demonstration, where the user could move easily around a simulated obstacle.

In conclusion, the device is a significant advancement in the field of air travel. It promises to revolutionize the way we think about transportation and opens up new possibilities for travel and exploration. We look forward to seeing more developments in this area in the future.
A British medical research team has found a way to offer a faster cure for one of the most intractable and deadly diseases in modern medicine.

HICCUP CURE

A British medical research team has discovered a way to offer a faster cure for one of the most intractable and deadly diseases in modern medicine. The team, led by Dr. Jeremy Honde, has developed a new treatment that can offer a cure within hours of diagnosis. The treatment, which involves a combination of drugs and a novel surgical procedure, has been tested on a small group of patients and has shown promising results.

The team has been working on this research for several years, and the latest breakthrough comes after years of study and experimentation. The method involves the use of a new drug that blocks the hiccuping mechanism, allowing for a more rapid cure.

The team's findings have been published in a recent issue of the British Medical Journal, and the results have been hailed as a major breakthrough in the treatment of hiccuping.

The research team plans to conduct further trials to confirm the effectiveness of the treatment and to develop a more widespread use of the cure. They hope that this breakthrough will lead to a significant reduction in the number of deaths caused by hiccuping, which remains a serious and difficult-to-treat condition.

Can 'Common Sense' Change Student Government?

By Russ Michaels

The originality of the 1976 election season was greatly reduced by the presence of "Common Sense," an extremely decentralized and unorganized student-run party that has been thoroughly analyzed and discussed by David Cope, the group's self-appointed president. The party was formed in October 1975 and immediately dissolved.

Where Are Women Running?

Both men and women are socialized to accept unequal roles in society. In many cases, women are not told that certain roles are unperformable. Yet, non-performance of roles is considered normal and even expected.

Where are women running?

The answer is not easy to determine. Some women have run for office or have sought to make changes in their communities. Others have not.

On the evening's entertainment, Jerry Garcia thrilled a packed crowd, taking the stage sporting a tee-shirt, trousers, and a hat. The Godfather of the Grateful Dead displayed his warm-up act, Uncle Vinty, a lunatic background vocals, and his wife, Donna Fishman, a dance called "Eclipse" for five minutes. Garcia and company brought the audience up and down through the various tonal levels. An interesting contrast to this was "Primo" Garcia is still primo. There is one section where one dancer from the group of dancers is dancing expressed to the audience. This section is presented in a way that makes the dancers seem as if they are struggling to make the rest of the group follow their lead. The motion of this scene is described as a "fearful" state that is greater than them. When eventually the dancers try to come to the aid of the dancers from the other group, attempts to touch them and being repulsed. The story of "Primo" Garcia is highlighted by a warmly received ovation. The message of this scene is that there is a society of dancers that are fighting to make up one society. Batmen Drop Season-Opening Pair to Hawks

Loss 21-5 in First, 9-8 in Second, Silverman Injured, Out Indefinitely

By Mike Pltkarski

Battling to hang tough in the game of the season-opening double header at New Paltz, the Albany Great Danes varsity baseball team was unable to gain control, even with a 9-8 victory in the second game to give them a split for the weekend.

But the last time they met was by a score of 21-5 on April 9 to come away with a split.

The first game saw the Hawks (1-0) gain a 15-1 lead after three innings, with the Danes (0-2) scoring only one run. The bottom of the ninth saw a 2-run single by Joe Ciiffero, but the game ended with a 21-5 final score.

In the second game, however, the Danes managed to score 9 runs against the Hawks in the first inning, with a grand slam solo home run by Joe Ciiffero. The Danes also scored on a walk and an error, giving them a 9-0 lead. However, the Hawks fought back with 8 runs in the fifth inning, but the Danes were able to keep them scoreless in the sixth inning to maintain their lead. The Danes scored another run in the seventh inning on a double by Mike Pltkarski, giving them a 10-8 lead. The game ended with the Danes winning 9-8.

The loss in the first game was a blow to the Danes' confidence, but they were able to bounce back in the second game to secure their split of the weekend series. The Danes will need to continue to work on their offense to compete against stronger opponents in the future.

Rascals Win Lg. III Hoop

By Joe Colavito

Led by "Tubs" Jay Woodruff's 26 points and the outstanding defensive efforts of Mark Brown and Mike Willoughby, the New Paltz Rascals overpowered the nearby Headlight Crusaders for the League III hoop title Monday night.

The Crusaders ended the regular season with an 8-7 record and were facing elimination. But the Rascals, in the final game of the season, were looking for their fourth division title in five years.

Heads were shaken by the Rascals' charge in the second half, as they relied on the offense led by Mike Willoughby and Mike Brown.

They dominated the second half, with Willoughby scoring 14 points in the second half and Brown adding 12. The Rascals' defense was also a key factor, holding the Crusaders to 21 points in the second half.

Despite the tough defense, the Crusaders were able to score 41 points in the game, with 23 points coming in the first half. However, the Rascals were able to secure their victory with a 12-point lead in the second half.

With the win, the Rascals will move on to the final four of the regional tournament, with a chance to play for the state title.

Lawmakers in Misunderstanding

By Gerty Heiter and Daniel Caten

A bill presently before New York State legislators would give SUNY's Educational Study Program 100 million dollars so that it doesn't need to find any funds from the state.

The problem is that the task force report suggests that the $100 million would go to SUNY's Educational Study Program, which is not the only program that is not fully funded. The cuts are not only in SUNY's Educational Study Program, but also in the University System of New York, as well as in other educational programs.

SUNY's Educational Study Program is not the only one that is cut. The cuts are also in other programs, such as the State University of New York at Stony Brook and SUNY Downstate Medical Center.

"There are many (SUNY-related) questions that we should be asking of this program," said Gerty Heiter, who is a member of the New York State Assembly. "Why is the budget for SUNY's Educational Study Program cut, when other educational programs are not?"

Heiter added that she is concerned about the cuts to SUNY's Educational Study Program, as it is a major source of funding for higher education in the state.

"There is no question that the cuts to SUNY's Educational Study Program are troubling," she said. "But we need to look at the bigger picture, and understand the impact of these cuts on the entire state education system."

Fields: "We Had To Get The Money Out"

By David Furry

"The financial situation does not mean that we cannot do something," said Governor Carey. "But we must find a way to ensure that our programs can continue to operate."

Field said that the cuts were necessary to ensure that the university could continue to operate, and that they were part of the broader financial situation facing the state.

"We have to make tough decisions," he said. "But we must do everything we can to ensure that our students can continue to learn, and that our programs can continue to operate."

The cuts were announced last week, and have caused widespread concern among students and faculty.

"This is a difficult time," said Field. "But we must do what we can to ensure that our students can continue to learn, and that our programs can continue to operate."

Field added that he is hoping that the legislators will be able to find a way to reverse the cuts, and that the university can continue to operate.

"We cannot accept the cuts," he said. "But we must do everything we can to ensure that our students can continue to learn, and that our programs can continue to operate."
