TOKYO (AP) Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping received an "impressive welcome" from Chairman Hua Kuo-feng and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mustafa Khalil and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Anwar el-Sadat on Monday. The meeting took place at Hua's request to discuss the need for closer economic and trade relations between China and Egypt, as well as ways to cooperate on anti-U.S. activities. According to Reuters, the two leaders expressed their agreement on the importance of expanding bilateral trade and investment. They also discussed the need for closer cooperation in the fields of science and technology, education, and cultural exchange. The meeting was held under the endorsement of the two leaders and was expected to contribute to the strengthening of China-Egypt relations.

WASHINGTON (AP) An all-out effort is under way to pry the United States from the Black September regime of Yasser Arafat, sources said. The aim is to force Arafat to comply with the demands of the U.S. and other countries, including the United Nations, to halt terrorist attacks. Arafat's overtures to the U.S. were made evident by a visit to the White House last week, where he met with President Jimmy Carter. Arafat said he was willing to do anything to bring peace to the Middle East, including the release of prisoners and the withdrawal of his fighters from occupied territories. The sources said Arafat's visit was part of a broader strategy to establish closer ties with the U.S. and other Western countries. The sources added that the U.S. was willing to negotiate with Arafat on a number of issues, including the establishment of a Palestinian state.

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) A group of SUNYA gay and lesbian students has launched an anti-homophobia campaign to fight discrimination on the campus. The group, which calls itself "The SUNYA Gay and Lesbian Action Committee," plans to hold a series of events to raise awareness about homophobia and the need for equal rights. The group said it would hold meetings with campus administrators and secure a place for a discussion with the SUNYA campus security system. The group said it would also hold a meeting with SUNYA administration and members of the Black Students Association on Monday. The group's leaders said they were encouraged by the positive response they had received from the SUNYA administration and the Black Students Association. They said they were confident that the SUNYA campus would continue to support the group's efforts to fight discrimination on the campus.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) Although some state legislators have expressed reservations about the "gay political disunity" issue, the SUNYA gay and lesbian community was not discouraged. They said they were confident that the legislation would pass and that the campus would continue to support their efforts to fight discrimination.

No Room For Racketball-ers

If you're thinking of putting a new pad in the gym, think twice. According to a member of SUNYA's Racquetball Club, there is no room for new pads. The member said that the SUNYA Racquetball Club had been operating in the gym for several years and that there was no room for new pads. He said that the club had been planning to put new pads in the gym for several years but that the SUNYA administration had refused to allow it. The member said that the SUNYA administration had refused to allow the club to put new pads in the gym because there was no room for them. Depression: A Cure for the Disease Called Happiness

In Defense of SASU

To the Editor:

Paul Agresta's recent attack on SASU is grossly unwarranted. He is right in pointing out the dangers of the current student government and its lack of understanding of the campus. However, he is wrong in his attack on SASU's purpose and goals. It is our belief that the student government is not an appropriate place to handle the issues that he brings up.

We believe that the student government should focus on matters that are directly related to the student body, such as academic issues and campus life. We also believe that the student government should be accountable to the students, and that it should be transparent in its decision-making processes.

Therefore, we urge you to support SASU and to oppose the attacks made by Paul Agresta. We believe that SASU is an important organization that serves the best interests of the student body.

Sincerely,

Elvis Costello: Heavily Armed

Elvis Costello has released his latest album, "Heavily Armed," which is considered to be his best work to date. The album features a blend of rock and roll, pop, and soul influences, and is a departure from his previous punk rock style. The lyrics are often political and socially conscious, reflecting Costello's concerns for the world around him.

Forbert Arrives Just In Time

I t was a well-known fact that children are curious. Many people have not had the advantage of knowing a lot of them, but never before has a child appeared more curious than Forbert, whose recording debut last spring on CDT Records was met with much fanfare.

Forbert has a way of looking at things that is interesting, and when all else fails he turns to the books. He is a voracious reader, and his knowledge of the world is vast. He is capable of covering many different moods and topics; his lyrics carry the analogy even further; but it is his voice that is most interesting.

Forbert's music is not to be compared with the music of the rest of the world; it is a completely different sound. His songs, filled with imagery and rhythm, are always catchy and memorable. His voice, rich and smooth, is a treat to listen to. His music is a true reflection of his talents, and it is easy to see why he has become so popular.

Forbert's music is not limited to the records he has released; his music can be heard on the radio, in concerts, and even in movies. His music is a true reflection of his talent, and it is easy to see why he has become so popular.

The Big Three

They say that bad luck comes in threes. Well, it looks like this edge will come true for SUNY students and their pocketbooks. Governor Carey is attempting to deny the university system any growth in its austerity budget. In addition, the following might be a reality for students when they pay their bills next fall.

- They might be paying higher room rates. It has been hinted that a $50 per month increase is in the offing. Some say this increase might be proposed as an alternative to the tuition hike. Others, however, believe that tuition and room rates will be raised.
- They might be paying higher board rates. UAS General Manager E. Norbert Zahm has said that a board increase for next year may be necessary.

So where does this leave the SUNY student? A little bit poorer, that's where they will be. But the students have also been the targets for the cuts. In this time of rapid inflation, it is curious to note that students might be expected to work a little harder and pay the higher rates in order to feed the cost of increasing SUNY budget less than the inflation rate. They're looking at what happens when public higher education gets a few rungs on the political ladder.

Politics should not have to play a part in education. However, the politicians hold their pocketbooks over an educational system. It is time to lower oneself to their level. This is why the lobbying efforts being conducted by a SUNY-wide coalition headed by S. Franklin are being supported by students.

There is little doubt that this coalition is a worthwhile idea. However, it might take a minute to get over the politicians. Last year, when the student health fee was proposed to our distinguished legislators, they uniformly denounced it as being immoral and promised to support it. They then left it in the budget. The reason? SUNY had increased, therefore they couldn't delete the health fee because both were student fees. They were playing politics, and the losses were SUNY students.

The game has been against the politicians long. The politicians will say, "Fine, we'll lower the tuition rates, but your room rates must go up." And then a student hike would be expected next year, especially if the present trends continue.

That is why it is so important to support the fight against being waged. In the end, the students will be able to stop these increases, given enough backing from the student body. If not, then they will wind up paying for it in the form of increases in the "Big Three".

And they will have to look toward a pugnacious, victorious governor who will be presenting a possible "deadlier" "Big Three". The next Executive Budgets and a stringent SUNY.
