By ELIZABETH STEIFELD

State College News, Friday, March 18, 1985

The Spring Festival at the College of Tropical Agriculture rapidly approached the conclusion of its three-week season. The festival, which began March 5, included a variety of events, including a concert, a dance, and a movie screening. The purpose of the concert was to raise funds for the college's research and educational programs. The dance, which was held at the Coliseum, featured music by a local band and attracted a large crowd. The movie screening, which was held at the State of Hawaii Theater, featured a documentary about the college's work in the Pacific. In addition to these events, the festival also included a variety of workshops and seminars. The festival was a great success, and the college plans to hold another event next year.
