Innocent Proposal

To the Editor:

I am just a junior at B.A. and I have at least one idea that I would like to propose. It is in connection with the Study Hall for Junior and Senior students in the Student Association Headquarters. I think that we should change the name of the Study Hall to something like "Innocent Proposal Hall."

It is true that during the Study Hall hours, students may be in the middle of working on their courses. However, the "Innocent Proposal Hall" is not just a place for students to study, but also a place where students can relax, socialize, and engage in various activities. This is especially important for students who may be experiencing stress or anxiety related to their coursework.

The current name, "Study Hall," may not accurately reflect the true nature of the space. On the other hand, the "Innocent Proposal Hall" name carries a positive connotation and suggests a place of creativity and innovation. Moreover, it may be more appealing to students who are looking for a more relaxed and enjoyable atmosphere.

I believe that changing the name of the Study Hall to "Innocent Proposal Hall" would not only enhance the student experience but also create a more positive image of the Student Association for future students.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

The Albany State varsity soccer team traveled to Brooklyn College last Saturday, and handed the highly seeded Kangaroos a 2-1 defeat. The Owls, out to avenge last year's 6-0 humiliation in Brooklyn, played what Coach Garcia called "a great first half effort" to win the home team two goals before the final two minutes of play. Guide by Mauricio Tsododo and Gabe DeLuna-Yimer accounted for the two Don goals.

Garcia cited Joe LaBianca, eight successive goals, and enlivened the coach's delight at having played an outstanding game. Guidotti "dwindled the center of the field.

The two teams played a scoreless first quarter. However, Albany, with the wind from the northwest, used it to build an immediate 1-0 lead in the second period when David Martin, on a fast break of 12 yards, worked the ball into midfield before firing the ball past the goalkeeper. The Owl squad dominated the play in the second half before moving in for the second score. This occurred on the 33-yard field when Gabe DeLuna-Yimer headed home a high ball for the second goal of the game.

Collins Declares Audit Designed to Cause Stir

At his weekly news conference Monday afternoon, Dr. E. V. Collins, Executive Director of the New York State Higher Education Authority, announced that an audit of the State University of New York will be conducted.

The audit, which will be conducted by the New York State Comptroller's office, is designed to cause a stir, according to Dr. Collins. He explained that the audit was requested by the State Comptroller's office, which is responsible for overseeing the financial affairs of the State University System.

The audit is expected to take several months to complete. Dr. Collins stated that he does not anticipate any problems arising from the audit.

Students to Move

To New Dormitories

The State University of New York at Albany is planning to move approximately 400 students to new dormitories next year. The new dormitories, which are being constructed on the campus, will accommodate 1,500 students.

The move is part of a plan to expand the university's facilities in order to meet the growing demand for higher education. The new dormitories will provide more living space for students, as well as improved living conditions.

The move is scheduled to take place over a period of several weeks, with students being relocated in small groups. All students will be provided with temporary housing while the move is taking place.

In the meantime, the university is working to ensure that all necessary arrangements are in place for the move. Students are urged to plan for the move well in advance, and to follow the university's instructions carefully.

For more information, students are encouraged to contact the university's housing office. The university's website also provides detailed information about the move, including a schedule of events and a list of tips for students preparing for the move.
