Dr. Candyn Will Not Conduct Group Recital Before Students Dr. Buckley of Brooklyn

Dr. T. Frederick H. Candyn, head of the music department, will not conduct in the coming week a group recital before students. The practice period will be devoted to preparation for the annual spring concert. Dr. Buckley, who has been here for the past two years, has decided to return to his home in Brooklyn, and the University is being forced to give up the use of the excellent leader of the orchestra.

Another Nephew Goes Bob A Complete Football Team

"One more, and I'll have a football team," said Bob B. Bliss, the new coach. "I've got the players and the equipment, and I'm ready to go." Bliss is a nephew of Bob Bliss, the former coach, and he promises to be as successful as his uncle was.

Dr. T. Frederick H. Candyn, when discussing the new coach, said, "Bob Bliss is a fine young man, and he has the ability to guide his team to success. I'm sure he will make good use of his experience and knowledge of the game." Bliss is a graduate of the University and has been a successful coach at other institutions.

the music curriculum has been recon­ ciled to the point of serving as a liberal arts institution as far as its music curriculum is concerned.

The News feels that offering College credit on the most likely to scare them.

It seems incredible that a college with an enrollment of 1,200 students is unable to maintain a small orchestra, while at both do we find a school that is so to be thought. In our case, a school that is to be thought in.

The problem in which State college students are particularly interested is the regulation of intercollegiate rivalry, Ludlum said. Most colleges try to have the spirit of the traditions and rivalry carried on, rather than the actual physical combat which has been prominent at State college during the past several years, Ludlum explained.

Some representatives at the convention said that their colleges were intercollegiate and that the rules which the committee enunciated. One check on freshmen and another on senior courses. The freshmen numbers do not remove links to fraternity work, but the Freshman to make a Greek letter organization a complete success should not be expected, the students who wish to violate the rules and traditions, Ludlum said.

They have other ways to keep the freshmen to wear distinctive oratory outfits and there are not even one of these.

Just as the artist blends color, contour and line—so the freshmen to wear distinctive oratory outfits and there are not even one of these.

No ACTIons TAKEN BY ALBANY TO AID COLLEGE'S SAFETY

No action has been taken by the city department of public safety to improve the traffic facilities around the College, President A. R. Brubacher said today.

Another student James Kirwan made a survey of the needs of the college several weeks ago and promised action upon his return from a trip to Syracuse. Although all the suggested improvements were listed by Mr. Kirwan, no definite action has been taken.

Dorothy Applegarth indicated that she would probably write to Mr. Kirwan or Commissioner A. R. Brubacher in order to speed up the proposed improvements in the safety and traffic facilities of the college.

Committee To Tell Decision
On Addition Of New Classes Today

Four courses may be offered this semester and the second semester. The committee on curriculum which met Friday afternoon will report its findings on the main board today.

Two of the courses, which may be added, are English 31 To 32 and Education 4B, "The Junior High School and its Problems." The committee, headed by Professor Edward R. Wittenboer, also recommended an expansion of the educational program in junior high school which includes Education 113, "Extra Class Activities." Those other classes which may be added will be the choice of parents.

One of the other classes will be an office economics course and will deal with income and its manifestation. The other course will be added to the students to build personal investment, credit, and insurance. The class will be taught by Miss Martha V. Dix, who is in charge of the office economics department.

The other course will be in the history department, History 313. "Weber's Theory of the State," will be taught by Miss Martha V. Dix. The course will deal with Weber's theory of the state and his theories of the relationship between the state and the church. The course will also require the preparation and presentation of a research paper.
