PRIZES IN SPEAKING
President Brubaker announces that two prizes of twenty-five dollars each will be awarded in May for excellence in speaking. The "President's Prize" will be awarded for an original oration spoken by a sophomore; the "Trustees' Prize" will be awarded for an interpretation of a manuscript or original composition distributed by a freshman. The competition for these prizes will be held in the Auditorium on the evening before Morning Day. The rules governing the contest are as follows:

President's Prize in Oratory—The competition is open to all students. A general subject will be assigned by the President. Competitors will write upon some phase of the subject as ordered by Dr. Thompson in order to avoid monotony and duplication of topics. The oration shall be approximately 1,200 words in length. They are to be submitted to the President not later than Saturday, April first, at noon. A judging committee appointed by the President will select the four best orations, and those orations will be spoken on the evening of the contest. The four speakers will be drilled in the delivery of their orations by Dr. Thompson.

President's Prize in Interpretation—Commotion is chosen from freshman girls in English 111.

The wise and learned Aesop, Jr., has noted our little sheet with commendation. Having watched our every word and deed, he has not permitted our household to be filled with the least unbecoming thoughts with us in a fable each week. Watch for his first story in next week's issue.

APologies TO BROWNING
Crow hold aloft with me The worst is yet to be The last two weeks for which the first were made Our crimes lie in this line Who says "Examinations are truth shoes" No, but the truth would work try all and rest unprofitable Of what has he to boast Whose praise is not ill The wise man's mind works with the prerequisite way No studies propose this test That paper at his last Hour can that project the world upon its way.
UNWRITTEN LAW

Do you remember, you upper-classmen and sophomores, that the State College student body unani­mously voted to dispense with standing in line at chapel, and what was the result? If you don't recall it, perhaps it would be well to re­call it, perhaps it would be well to re­member this in chapel? If you don't recall it, perhaps it would be well to re­member this in chapel? For the first time—and hold it to some member of the Pedagogue board! A free copy is to be offered to the student who designates the best joke on a member of the faculty. Another copy will be given as a prize for the best joke on any student. We ask only one thing, that these jokes be original. No jokes rearranged from other college periodicals will be accepted. This is a splendid change for the right person. Is that you?

EXAMS AND EDUCATION

Do you know the girl (or boy) who rushes around a week before exams, or even a day before, rath­ering off phrases of information as they come to her? There are quite a number of them around State Col­lege. Who are these people? They are the students who are really doing work of every kind will be left outside. No particular skill is necessary, and infirmary privileges will be In­cluded with the membership, which will be limited.

Music Association

The Music Association will meet in Room B, on Friday, January 15, at 5 p.m. All those who are interested in the organization of the club are especially urged to attend and make this meeting a big success.

Commercial Education Club

There will be a meeting of the Commercial Education Club Wed­nesday afternoon, January 18, at 4 o'clock, in Room M. All those who are interested in the organization of the club are especially urged to attend and make this meeting a big success.

Mathematics Club

Good speakers, interesting top­ics—a good meeting. This Mon­day afternoon, Grace Fox and Helen Whitecomb will speak on "Chances and Annuities of Mathematics." Remember the time and place, Monday, at 4:15 p.m., in Room 201.

AMERICA vs. PHILIPPINES

Dr. Charles Upson Clark spoke of the American college professor totally different from the old fashioned native professors of some of his own islands. They are friendly and always ready to help in all social functions and activities of the school. They maintain a very cordial relationship with the student body. A Filipino professor would not think of doing such things. To him it would be beneath his dignity to mingle with the students in any way.

As a result of this the American student does not seem to have the same serious attitude toward scholastic work. Social functions play an extremely large role in college life. One thing which Dr. Samuel pointed out as a summary of the whole subject is the fact that the American college is the equal of the college in which those in the Philippines are taken.

The faculty is largely composed of Americans or America trained men. The entire working plan is modelled after our own system here in the United States.

PROPAGANDA

Dr. Charles Upson Clark spoke in assembly Friday on "How Propaganda Works." Because of his splendid training both at home and abroad and his interesting cosmopolitan experiences, he was able to give to the students a very entertaining and instructive lecture.

Propaganda, a word which in olden times was much honored and esteemed, has finally come to mean deceit, in favor of or against some plan or idea. According to Dr. Clark, there are three main kinds of propaganda: humorous, true and distorted, all of which produce results disastrous or otherwise, with regards to the viewpoint.

The humorous propaganda in the form of funny stories he illustrated by the example of the Hungarian story of the German minister whose watch was stolen at a banquet by the Baltic minister of finance, and was in turn stolen by the minister of finance, and was in turn stolen by the minister of finance. In addition to this the American college girl seems to possess a more extravagant outburst of emotion than do their sisters in the Philippines. In the latter place no girl without American training would think of cheering at a game.

Dr. Samuel tells of a Romanian professor who totally different from the old fashioned native professors of his own islands. His students are friendly and always ready to help in all scholastic functions and activities of the school. They maintain a very cordial relationship with the student body. A Filipino professor would not think of doing such things. To him it would be beneath his dignity to mingle with the students in any way.

As a result of this the American student does not seem to have the same serious attitude toward scholastic work. Social functions play an extremely large role in college life. One thing which Dr. Samuel pointed out as a summary of the whole subject is the fact that the American college is the equal of the college in which those in the Philippines are taken. The faculty is largely composed of Americans or America trained men. The entire working plan is modelled after our own system here in the United States.
