Unpaid Parking Tickets A Hassle

by Rich Meminakis

One Traffic Division

"We try to give everyone enough notice so that the tickets won't happen at the last minute," said Lynn Atkinson of Traffic Division. "If a person is unable or unwilling to pay on time, we will send a reminder of the notice until it is paid in full."

As a result, in order to avoid a ticket from the Traffic Division, it is necessary to pay on time. The Division has a "no-nonsense" approach to unpaid parking tickets.

Students who have received unpaid parking tickets can pay them in installments. If the total is between $30 and $100, a payment plan will be set up for the student until the ticket is paid in full. If the total is over $100, a payment plan will be set up for the student until the ticket is paid in full. If the total is over $100, a payment plan will be set up for the student until the ticket is paid in full. If the total is over $100, a payment plan will be set up for the student until the ticket is paid in full.

Death Penalty

The decision to execute convicted murderer John Wayne Gacy is already being reviewed by the Illinois Supreme Court. The state's attorney general has asked the court to consider the case.

Death penalty opponents in the state have already defeated a bill to restore capital punishment.

A lengthy legal struggle in the state could follow with development of a new court case. Illinois has never had a death row inmate.

The Illinois Supreme Court rejected a new death penalty law in February. The court said the law was unconstitutional.

The Illinois Supreme Court has asked the attorney general to review the case. The court said the law is unconstitutional.

If the Illinois Supreme Court upholds the law, it could mean death for John Wayne Gacy. He has been on death row since 1978.
