Endorsement

Well, today begins the writing (TAPW) of the most important elections in our time on this campus (E. G. Editorial, Oct. 13)

As I write, the leaders of the student government are reviewing the rules and procedures that will be followed in the elections. They are only a few minutes away from finalizing the details, and it is not too late for anyone to make suggestions or complaints. The elections are scheduled to take place on October 27, and I urge everyone to participate.

Sanctuary

We provide no sanctuary for those who break the law. This statement, made by Dr. Tave in the Student Senate meeting last week, is the most important statement that we can make about the direction of our society.

The issue of law and order is one that we cannot afford to ignore. We are living in a time when the rules and regulations that govern our lives are being challenged and questioned. It is imperative that we stand up for what is right and just, and that we support the laws that protect us.

COMMUNICATIONS

All communications must be addressed to the editor and must be signed. Communications are subject to editing.

Sign Revolution

On Friday morning, about 9 a.m., on Oct. 17, for all of us 10 posters passed across the campus. They all said the same thing: Revolution. Nov. 15, by 12 noon all 15 posters had vanished. I don't know who removed them, but I guarantee it wasn't me. I'm on the campus, please help me find them. They were always on the floor of our second floor and behind the background. We did not allow them to go past us or touch them. We won't take these electrons seriously, and I'll consider them of important.

The election campaign has been more than disappointing: it has been downright horrible. It seems that we are more interested in the meaning of an all-alphabet than in anything else, and it is more than slightly frustrating to see more and more students get involved in this "campaign" are: lacklustre, boring, and yet it ever, really?)

Among our students, we have decided to support the candidate who is most open to new ideas, as exemplified both by his announced support of some, and his willingness to consider others. We believe our candidate has enough of the above qualities to win this election.

One of the candidates for student body president is his openness to new ideas, as evidenced by his announced support of some, and his willingness to consider others. We believe our candidates have enough of the above qualities to win this election.

We believe our candidates have enough of the above qualities to win this election.

Pass-fail explained, students pose questions

By Carol Roberts

Members of the ASU Executive Committee on Monday charged that the proposed guidelines for student-faculty relations under the tenure of Academic Affairs were inappropriate. The guidelines are intended to provide a framework for the governance of the university, and they are currently under review by the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee.

The Executive Committee will present their recommendations to the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee, which will discuss them in the next meeting.

The guidelines have been criticized for their lack of specificity and for their potential to undermine the autonomy of the faculty. Members of the committee have called for a more open and transparent process for developing these guidelines.

A panel consisting of President Richard Reymond, Provost Michael Sternberg, and other members of the university community will discuss the guidelines and their potential impact on the university's academic mission.

The panel will meet on October 15 at 4 p.m. in the C spine, and all students are invited to attend.

Students in Faculty Senate; Pass-Fail first consideration

Dr. Allen Knapp, president of the University, and Dr. Alphonse Pipine, chairman of the Executive Committee of Faculty Affairs, met with students who have been elected to the University Senate for the fall semester. The meeting was held on October 27 at 10:30 a.m. in the C spine.

Among the other topics on the agenda were: lacklustre, boring, and yet it ever, really?)

Among our students, we have decided to support the candidate who is most open to new ideas, as exemplified both by his announced support of some, and his willingness to consider others. We believe our candidates have enough of the above qualities to win this election.
The Burgundy Street Singers were just 10 unknowns from Kansas.

Then they entered the Intercollegiate Music Festival.

The Burgundy Street Singers performed as regular this summer on CBS-TV's "Jimminy Rodgers Show" and are now under contract to Budweiser. From Kansas State University students...to professional entertainers in one year!

---

Walsing: Kennedy, MOBE man discusses Vietnam and elections

by Kenneth Dodge

"This is the time we've worked our way up and we've been doing it," said Robert Kennedy, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States in 1968. "This is the time when we can make a difference." The Kennedy campaign is currently embroiled in a bitter dispute over its handling of the Vietnam War issue.

According to recent polls, the issue of Vietnam is one of the most important factors in the Democratic primaries. Kennedy, as a leading candidate, has been forced to take a clear stand on this issue, which is deeply divisive among the American people.

Kennedy's position on Vietnam is that the U.S. should gradually withdraw its troops from Vietnam over a period of years. He argues that this is the only way to end the conflict and that it is the only way to protect American lives.

In contrast, his opponent, Lyndon B. Johnson, has supported the continued use of American troops in Vietnam. Johnson has argued that the U.S. must continue to fight in Vietnam to prevent the spread of communism to other parts of the world.

The Kennedy-Johnson debate has divided the Democratic party and has fueled the anti-war movement. The issue of Vietnam is one of the most important factors in the upcoming presidential election.

---

The Young Republicans

The Young Republicans is a student organization that was founded in 1969. It is a conservative political group that focuses on issues such as national defense, law and order, and family values.

The Young Republicans is active on many college campuses across the country. It is affiliated with the national Young Republicans organization, which is part of the Republican Party.

The Young Republicans are known for their active role in campus politics. They have been involved in many protests and demonstrations, including the anti-war movement and the civil rights movement.

The Young Republicans have a strong presence on many campuses, and they are often seen as a counterforce to the more liberal student organizations.

---

Student committee works on the elimination of requirements

by Nancy Davis

Active student support is the basis of achieving undergraduate requirements at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. The university has organized a Student Committee to discuss the elimination of undergraduate requirements in general education.

The Student Committee is composed of representatives from undergraduate colleges, the college of arts and sciences, the college of engineering, the college of agriculture, and the college of business administration.

The committee is currently working on a proposal to eliminate all undergraduate requirements except for a core curriculum of 30 credits.

The proposal states that the core curriculum should include courses in mathematics, science, and humanities.

The proposal also includes a requirement that students complete a minimum of 120 credits for graduation, including at least 30 credits in courses outside of their major.

The proposal is currently being reviewed by the faculty senate.

The committee is expected to present its final report in the spring of 1970.
Don Crawford's show proves "you don't have to look far"

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1969

Don Crawford's show proves "you don't have to look far" at the Experimental Theatre. Crawford's show is a collection of songs and skits that take a humorous look at the world around us. The show features a variety of acts, including Crawford's own songs and skits, as well as guest appearances from other performers. The highlight of the show is Crawford's song "Oh, Darling," which he performs at the end of the show.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1969

On Friday, November 6, the Albany Film-making Society will present "A Leap of Faith," a film directed by John Huston. The film is a study of the working relationship between a director and his actors, focusing on the production of "The Maltese Falcon." The film explores the challenges of working with a difficult star and the complexities of the director's role in shaping a film. The screening will be held at the Experimental Theatre at 8 p.m., and admission is free.
Bootsers Deadlocked by Hamilton, 1-1

AMIA League I

by Mike Schmuckier

A play-off between STB and Albany was held to determine the league champion. The game was marked by a high intensity of play and the 1-1 tie was the result.

The game was played on a wet and windy field with the wind blowing from the east. The STB offense had the upper hand in the early stages of the game and scored the first goal.

The Albany defense was able to hold their own and equalized in the second half. The game continued into overtime with neither team able to score the winning goal.

In the end, both teams were left with a sense of disappointment as the tie meant they would have to wait another day for the title to be decided.
Editorial Comment

DoD

Yes, the Department of Defense really does sponsor research here on the Albany State University campus. The Department of Defense announced recently that it would fund research on certain topics that are of interest to the university. This is a significant development for the university, as it will allow them to conduct research on a wider range of topics.

COMMUNICATIONS

ASP responsibility

The editors of the Albany Student Press are a reflection of the university community. They are responsible for the content of the newspaper, including editorial and opinion pieces. The editors are elected by the university community and serve a term of one year.

ASP illogic

The Albany Student Press, known for its anti-war stance, recently published a column that was critical of the United States' military involvement in Southeast Asia. The column was written by a faculty member at the university and was published under the name of the Albany Student Press.

Flag Lowering

The University of California has lowered its flag to half-staff in honor of the victims of the recent terrorist attack in Paris. The university joins other institutions around the world in expressing its sympathy and support for the victims and their families.

ASP STAFF

The Albany Student Press staff is responsible for the development and execution of the newspaper's editorial and opinion policies. They are responsible for selecting stories, writing articles, and overseeing the production of the newspaper.

Pass-fail passed by University Senate

The University Senate has passed a resolution that will allow students to choose to receive a pass-fail grade in certain courses. The resolution was introduced by a student senator and was supported by a majority of the Senate.

On to Washington!

The Albany Student Press is sending a delegation to Washington, D.C. to attend a protest against the Vietnam War. The delegation will be comprised of university students and faculty members.

Cows

The university's cow herd is currently being managed by a team of experts. The team is responsible for ensuring that the cows are healthy and well-fed, and that they are able to produce milk and meat that meet the university's standards.

POLITICS

The faculty senate is calling for a vote on the issue of pass-fail grading. The vote will take place at the next faculty senate meeting.

COMMUNITY

The Albany Student Press is working to increase community engagement by hosting community events and promoting community service projects. They are also working to increase the diversity of their staff and encourage more participation from different groups.

36% in pass-fail system at Albany

The University of California has announced that 36% of its students are currently enrolled in a pass-fail system. This system allows students to receive a grade of either pass or fail, rather than a traditional letter grade.

O'Dwyer to run again no more

O'Dwyer, the former president of the university, has announced that he will not run for re-election. O'Dwyer was a controversial figure on campus, and his decision to not seek re-election has been met with mixed reactions.

The Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees is considering the issue of pass-fail grading. They are working to determine the best course of action for the university.

Your Right, You're Right!

The Albany Student Press is calling for the university to recognize the right of students to engage in political expression. They are working to ensure that students have the freedom to participate in political activities on campus.

ASP responsibility

The editors of the Albany Student Press are responsible for the content of the newspaper, including editorial and opinion pieces. They are elected by the university community and serve a term of one year.

Flag Lowering

The University of California has lowered its flag to half-staff in honor of the victims of the recent terrorist attack in Paris. The university joins other institutions around the world in expressing its sympathy and support for the victims and their families.

ASP STAFF

The Albany Student Press staff is responsible for the development and execution of the newspaper's editorial and opinion policies. They are responsible for selecting stories, writing articles, and overseeing the production of the newspaper.

Pass-fail passed by University Senate

The University Senate has passed a resolution that will allow students to choose to receive a pass-fail grade in certain courses. The resolution was introduced by a student senator and was supported by a majority of the Senate.

On to Washington!

The Albany Student Press is sending a delegation to Washington, D.C. to attend a protest against the Vietnam War. The delegation will be comprised of university students and faculty members.

Cows

The university's cow herd is currently being managed by a team of experts. The team is responsible for ensuring that the cows are healthy and well-fed, and that they are able to produce milk and meat that meet the university's standards.

POLITICS

The faculty senate is calling for a vote on the issue of pass-fail grading. The vote will take place at the next faculty senate meeting.

COMMUNITY

The Albany Student Press is working to increase community engagement by hosting community events and promoting community service projects. They are also working to increase the diversity of their staff and encourage more participation from different groups.

36% in pass-fail system at Albany

The University of California has announced that 36% of its students are currently enrolled in a pass-fail system. This system allows students to receive a grade of either pass or fail, rather than a traditional letter grade.

O'Dwyer to run again no more

O'Dwyer, the former president of the university, has announced that he will not run for re-election. O'Dwyer was a controversial figure on campus, and his decision to not seek re-election has been met with mixed reactions.

The Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees is considering the issue of pass-fail grading. They are working to determine the best course of action for the university.

Your Right, You're Right!

The Albany Student Press is calling for the university to recognize the right of students to engage in political expression. They are working to ensure that students have the freedom to participate in political activities on campus.