Students Support Need For Publicizing "Counterpoint"

To the Editor:

I read your editorial last week concerning the publication "Counterpoint," and am a little disturbed by your view that it was unfair for the editors of this paper to publish an anonymous letter citing "the evidence of a life in which no moral or ethical standards exist."

I have spent the last two years in Lebanon and Turkey and have often heard the phrase "the evidence of a life in which no moral or ethical standards exist." It appears to me that you are referring to the situation there, which I find very disturbing. However, I must point out that the situation in these countries is not typical of the rest of the world. It is not fair to generalize about them in this way.

Sincerely,

As I walked into my study, I noticed the door open, as if someone had just left. "Hello?" I called out, but there was no response. I walked over to the door and found it leading to a small, dark room. I stepped inside and was surprised to find a large, old piano in the corner.

"What's this?" I asked, picking up a sheet of music and looking it over.

"My mind aches," I muttered to myself, feeling a sense of dread.

"What's wrong?" a voice asked from behind me.

I turned around and saw a young woman with long, dark hair standing in the doorway.

"I don't know," I replied, "just something's not right.

"Is there anything I can do?" she asked, her eyes filled with concern.

"Just stay here," I said, "I'll be back in a minute."
Bayard Rustin Grants ASP, WSUA Post-Speech Interview

Dean Neil Brown began the Student Government Recognition Workshop held on Saturday, November 21, in Brubaker Hall with a speech both reviewing student government over the past year already opened, and outlining principles to be reached at Saturday's luncheon.

Rustin said that the American student government must be employed to provide everyone with work. "In a world where men would use work to redeem the nation through non-violence," said Rustin, "the Negro will never be satisfied to have a Job, for there is no freedom unless one has a job. Without a job, there is no hope."

BAYARD RUSTIN GRANTS ASP, WSUA POST-SPEECH INTERVIEW

Rustin expressed the opinion that the P.J.S. has won the hearts and minds of the student community of the Southern Negro, "I think that the P.J.S. present in the state has found the Negro's heart," Rustin said. "We have the Negro's heart."

However, Rustin took pains to point out that the P.J.S. must work to find courts to practice in. "The Negro's heart is strong," Rustin said. "We have the Negro's heart."

Finally, Rustin felt that it would be to the state's advantage to have "a younger man" take his place. I think, however, if one can't talk of negative benefits, one can't talk of negative results.
