Cash Courses . . .

Several times each year someone brings up the subject of new courses which they would like to see added to the curriculum at State College. Among those most often mentioned are an intensive summer training course in ancient languages, a program for the training of the musically talented, and a course in photography. Students who are called to act as advisors at State College might profitably have a meeting to discuss or prepare such a course. Students who are interested in the training of the musically talented should help to form a group which would present concerts. Students who have an interest in photography should form a "Photography Club" which would train them in the art of photography. Students who have an interest in ancient languages should form a "Society for the Study of Ancient Languages" which would hold meetings to discuss the subject.

Tradition: Its Care And Feeding

By PHILIP MILLER

The Common-Stater is the oldest student newspaper in the State System. This newspaper has been published continuously since 1910. The Common-Stater is a student-run newspaper, and has been managed by students since its inception. The Common-Stater has been published weekly since 1970.

Communications

To the Editor,

Sincerely,

PHILIP MILLER

The problem at hand, after all, is the lack of coordination of the various departments in the student newspaper. While the student newspaper is not a "black box," it is a unit of the college and should be treated as such. It should be coordinated with other departments in the college, and not be treated as a "black box." The editor should be a member of the college faculty, and not of the student newspaper. The student newspaper should be a "black box," and the editor should be a member of the college faculty.

Extra abilities pay well in New York's public schools. Students who are called to act as advisors at State College might profitably have a meeting to discuss or prepare such a course. Students who are interested in the training of the musically talented should help to form a group which would present concerts. Students who have an interest in photography should form a "Photography Club" which would train them in the art of photography. Students who have an interest in ancient languages should form a "Society for the Study of Ancient Languages" which would hold meetings to discuss the subject.

RUMOR HAS IT . . .

Let's have a team . . . Psychology major, Vassar? Wonder, though, how the news of the drive leaked out .. . Psychology major, Vassar? Yes, Harrison Smedley Burlap has released the names of the following students: Elmer C. Mathews, Director of Athletic Department, and Eliza E. Schwartz, Assistant Director of Athletic Department. The deadline for submitting applications is April 15.

Buscemi, Pignone Lead Siene Win As Indian Booters Top State, 1-0

State moved a small step in the quest to own the original records of the state by winning a 1-0 victory over State. It was the third straight year that the Indians have taken the title.

In the early moments of the first half, the Indians began to dominate play. It was then that Buscemi, who is the team's star, began to show his skills. He scored the only goal of the game.

The Indians will now move on to the state championship, where they will face the winner of the other state tournament.
