FRANCOIS POLLET — STATE COLLEGE’S PROTEGE

During the war, State College organized and maintained an active Red Cross chapter. A contribution of $194.58 was made to the college chapter by individual subscribers. We have lost nine in 1918: Pedagogue Board.

State opens her basketball season Saturday, December 4th, when the Varsity meets St. Michael’s on the Albany High court. From all reports Vermonters have a strong aggregation of basket tossers, and this opening game will be well worth seeing from all standpoints.

Coach Swanely has had the squad cut down to a few still training every night. Password is better handled, and the men are not depending so much on dribbling. These things make the prospects of victory bright in spite of the fact that several of the freshmen men are out of practice because of illness, and Baker will be entirely out of the game for some time, the result of a injury to his knee sustained in an interclass football game.

The following Saturday the Purple and Gold will tackle Union at Schenectady. Plans are under way now to charter cars so that State College students can attend this game in a body.

MUSIC OF THE POLISH PEOPLE

In the auditorium on Monday evening, December 1st, a concert was given in connection with the extension course treating with “Immigrant Backgrounds and Homelands” which is under the direction of Dr. Porter. This concert was a coordinate with the previous musical given by the Russian choir of St. Basil’s Church. However, the concert dealt exclusively with the music of the Polish people. The cooperation of the “Echo” Polish Choral Society of Schenectady, which is under the direction of Janusz Krasinski, was secured. The program included the Polish national anthem, selections from the Polish opera “Halka,” by Moniuszko, piano solos, and several Polish folk songs. The Polish national dance was effective in bringing to our attention the customs of a foreign country. The concert was not alone of value to students of music, as it helped the Americanization campaign by creating sympathy on the part of Americans for the ideals of foreign countries.

PLAN FOR JUNIOR PROM
WELL UNDER WAY

The Junior Prom committee has nearly completed its plans for the promenade to take place early in February. As usual the Prom will be held in the Ten Eyck hallroom and efforts are being made to secure the best music possible. The dance orders will be of special interest — the order committee has not spent considerable time and effort to obtain something new.

Because the junior class is smaller than in previous years more care and interest are being directed toward the junior prom. Help the class by signing up as soon as possible.
In this article a proposition is set place. Now New York State College former students to bolster attendance. Penn State has no organization of this year also there was a well played football match between the two. There was any mention of those papers? varsity basketball. Basketball in the case of Penn State College but men who have never taken a reason than that Penn State turns out good football teams was undoubtedly they do, for they are one of the finest in the country. Do athletics pay? Certainly the daily papers are not to blame. They cannot be expected to publish these things unless State College takes some pains to keep them informed in regard to them. The Alpine papers always had a good football and Penn State College is a part of Alumni. They have always given their school fair play in athletic news, and there is every reason to think that they want the time to do so we co-operate with them and bring them items of interest.

So the blame clearly rests with State College. But still it is not possible to pick out any particular individual and say that he is to blame. The fact is that there is no one whom we can hold responsible for not advertising a new development of the college. If we intend to get those men next year, it seems that we should put the first steps for us to do so to remedy this situation.

ATEND THE UNION GAME

A week from Saturday State plays Union College at Schenectady. As has been the custom in previous years, Allen Field cars will be chartered in order to take the State College roosters over in a body. Here is a chance for every student to show he is back of the team. The ex- ceptions will not be great, but confidence will be given the team, if there is a good cheering section, will help them in this game. So everybody sign up for this trip.

CHEER PRACTICE HELD

Wednesday afternoon State College students gathered in the Alma- tor. High-pressure practice was carried on for cheers for the St Michael's game. At this time also tryouts for the cheer leader and assistant leaders were held. One of the new features this year is that there is now a head cheer leader. Enthusiasm is great among the students, and undoubtedly one of the features of the first varsity game will be Purple and Gold cheering section.

STATE COLLEGE AND ATHLETICS

The following article, entitled "Winning Team Again Penn State," was clipped from the "Knickerbocker Press.

The head coach who turns out good football teams was more pleased to be seen than in the case of Penn State College and Hugo Bebstein. Penn State has had more applications from prosepective students for the term which begins in September than in any previous year of its history. And strange to relate, Penn State College has already started to advertise basketball. Probably the first steps for us to do so to remedy this situation.

PLEASANT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Red Room, the Green Room, and the Bruckner's office will be open to all women students Sunday afternoon from two till five. This hour of rest and refreshments will be served. At four there will be a 2:30 show in room 111. It is requested that all the students have their play money before this hour.

HARVARD-PRINCETON TIE LEAVES QUESTION OF SUPREMACY ON GRIDIRON UNSOLVED

New York, Nov. 29—The close of the eastern college football season finds the task of selecting a championship eleven more complicated than usual.

In past years it has frequently been the case that one victory with a remarkable record at its back would be so prominently that was the choice for titular honors among a large majority of the gridiron experts. Such a situation does not exist at the termination of the 1920 play.

A college or university eleven passed through the season without defeat, but in the case of these teams the record was marred by one or more tie games. Boston college was the only one without a single tie; Penn State had an absolutely clean slate to date and that team still has the key to being selected for the meet, when scheduled to meet the strong Holy Cross eleven next Saturday.

Harvard, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Penn State and Stevens all closed their records undefeated, but the tie between Princeton and Harvard left the question of supremacy unsolved. Penn State played tie games with Pittsburgh and Lehigh; Pittsburgh was tied by Syracuse and Penn State, while Middletown held Stevens to a scoreless tie.

While comparative scores and comparison of individual games is a futile means of arriving at the strongest team in any section, it can be safely stated that if a championship team were to be named it would be found among the combinations enumerated.

A second group, but thinly separated from the first division, would naturally include Dartmouth, Dartmouth, Navy, Navy, Army, Brown, Holy Cross, Lehigh, Williams and Yale. Weather conditions, the physical, and mental, status of the players in other surroundings, which we cannot determine, make a definite selection almost impossible, if justice is to be done to all teams.

An analysis of the records of the various college east of the state develops some interesting and confusing data. The West Point cadet team, although defeated by the Navy and Notre Dame, managed to roll up an aggregate score of thirty-three points, so far as scoring in concerned, gives the Army first place in the section totals. William's, managed by Henry Boynton, the division, the individual scorer of the east, is next with a total of 312 points. Although defeated in three out of the eight games played. These are the only combinations to cross the 300 mark. Penn State and Cornell are third and fourth respectively with 230 and 211.

From a defensive standpoint, Boston college appears to hold the palm as Coach Cavanaugh's gridiron eleven held the opponents to an average of sixteen points, of which Yale made thirteen and Marist ten remaining three, Syrians next, with a low opponent score of nineteen. Harvard was a close third, with twenty-eight points scored against it.

The records of the larger institutions of the east, showing the number of games won, but a tie total points scored by home team opponents, as well as the rating of the leading individual scorer for each eleven, follows:

The Fighter
No man is a failure until he loses his ambition. As long as he can be proud and stingy for greater things— as long as his eyes are still upon the goal he set out for, he is potentially a success.

No man is down as long as there is light left in it. It may be a long ways back on up, but he is never beaten until he cries "quits." Once you come back, Why no man ever went to low or failed so utterly but that he was poised for him to battle his way to the very top if he kept his courage and his ambitions.
