Clarkson vs. State To-morrow Night
State Plays Union Saturday

MIDDLEBURY AND STATE CLASH IN FIRST VARSITY GAME

Although outplayed in the first half, Clarkson missed a 10 to 8 score at half time, the Middlebury College nine staged a comeback in the second half and defeated the State College nine, 26 to 20, at Friday afternoon by a score of 17 to 16, and thereby tied them for first place in the Intercollegiate series. The two teams were well matched and the scoring was evened up throughout. An extra fifteen-minute period was necessary in order to finally decide the contest.

State College started the seniors off with a foul basket. Baker scored with Middletown College, the first game of the girls' series. Their returning "gratis" on this day was 13 points to the Teachers' 20. Teachers' made a special study of the Manual Training and Manual Industrial classes.

STATE LIBRARIAN ADDRESSES STUDENTS

In view of the approaching game with Middlebury College, the first part of Student Assembly Friday morning was devoted to cheer practice. Julius Price, assistant cheer leader, used several yells to put the students in condition for the most necessary part of basketball games. Mr. Chalmers, State Librarian, gave a short talk on the Libraries in the State Education Building. He outlined the location and use of each, and asked those who use the libraries to be careful of books.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE ARRANGED

BUFFALO

The Industrial Department of State College is to be moved en masse to Buffalo, N. Y., and is to be operated as a school of law, under the supervision of the College. The facilities there for adequate practice teaching are five times as great as in State High School, because they are occupied by a number of technical and vocational high schools. The third and fourth years are to be conducted in the Buffalo Technical High School. The two-year and one-year courses offered in the Industrial Department seem to be of value to the students of the College, which extend for four years. And again,
We frankly admit that the above title was stolen. We found it first on a not so little sign in the locker room what said, "Don't let your team build up their stock of hockey rink. Soon after that, it was tried in a short story we read regarding that same rule. It wasn't long before the boards included our little sign, and we got in a pickle. We were in a place, and we decided that "competition" was a good word. Working together can accomplish things, but any other kind of work has a better name associated with it. On the other hand, our basketball team have of late been giving me some games. I'd tried to carry the ball up the floor without passing it to his teammates. Or what chance would a football team have without concerted effort?

We hear a lot of criticism about the "Quarterly." Criticism is all right. Good common-sense, picky in-pencil, examining and judging as to the merit of things is always valuable. But this particular kind of criticism that is used in regard to our College paper can hardly be classified as valuable. For instance, if we want to have a well published paper, the paper must be good is the "Quarterly"? I never read it. What can one call an attitude like that but pure silliness? If, on the other hand, these people would read that our paper is not comparable to other institutions, rate it with the papers of other colleges, decide what they did and did not like about it, and report to the "Quarterly" Board, that would be cooperation.

Last Friday night there will be a big indoor athletic meet in the Armory, Colgate, Lewis, R. P. J., Holberg, and State College representatives. We could get a State College section and give some good old-time cheers for our boys, what sort of an impression do you think we would make on the men from these other colleges and on the people of Albany? But we have a basketball game with Clarkson that same night. How can we be in both places? Where is the "co-operation." There are not only the examples of lack of team work. Examples of bad attitude occur every day. Of course we are not wholly bad, but had enough. We are only a small college. If we don't act right, are there many college clubs, every fraternity, every publication, every student would "co-operate" with the others for the good of the cause. The only way we could make known from one end of the State to the other.

WHERE WERE THE MEN?

Where was the Minstrel Show advertised for Saturday night at the Armory? Many persons inquired about it, and, what did they give us. "They got cold feet!" Boys, you thought you were so superior. The girls have it "all over" you when it comes right to business. Where was the pop-corn machine? If we had waited for the men to decorate the symphony hall, our attendance this year would have been cut in half. The girls must be given their fair share, and we must "co-operate" it to the girls for the success they accomplished.

To the Editor of the "Newspaper." We are in receipt of your issue of November 25, in which you have published some obscure columns of material. While "Smiles" is a good title, you might say, "Salute." Rumor says that these jokes were copied entirely from publications of other institutions. If this is true, it is only understood how they got down to be published in the "Newspaper." But you know, State College is not comparable to other institutions. In its attitude towards such attempts to advise a stricter censorship of future "Smiles" items. As I said, we, the editors of our paper, have acquired a seemingly depraved taste in the publishing of the fact. Let's drop the jokes, Mr. Editor, but go easy on that "rough stuff" so publicly objectionable to State College immorality.

FEDS SOLD

Five hundred, "Pedagogues" are to be adopted this year. This is an increase of one hundred orders over any previous year. Faculty and student "Pedagogues" have come across a few extra have been ordered. If you want one of these, make your orders blanks at once, and pay your three dollars immediately to Agnes Nolan or Marion Hales.

NEWMAN CLUB

An Alumni Association of the Newman Club was recently organized. Mr. Davy being chosen president. In order that the present members of the Club may become better acquainted with it, this association has taken action at once. Monday, November 24, at 4:30 a special meeting of all members of the Newman Club was called in the auditorium. Miss Fitzgerald introduced the members present concerning the future plans of the alumni. She explained that on January 8, 1920, there is to be an informal dance at the Vincentian Institute. This will be an opportunity for the Newmanites to meet the alumni. The tickets are $1.00. Anyone who is not a member of the Newman Club, but who wishes to attend the dance may get a ticket by addressing any of the members. The tickets are limited. Get yours early.

Last Saturday night the meeting of the Newman Club was held Monday, December. The regular meeting of the Club in the auditorium. During the short business meeting, committee was appointed to consider plans for establishing a Newmanite board for the Club in the lower hall. A pleasing feature of the entertainment following the business meeting was two solo's "Lead Kindly Light" and "Ave Maria" beautifully rendered by Margaret Markham, 20. Father Donnelly then gave a most interesting talk on the "Life of Cardinal Newman." The second Quarterly Communion was received by the Club at St. Patrick's Church, Sunday, December. An excellent breakfast was served by the executive committee of the Club. The Rev. Father O'Connor, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, breakfast with us and speak to us so encouragingly. Also were pleased to be addressed by Dr. Dennis and Mr. Doyle. This Quarterly Communion was given more impressively than the first. Keep up the spirit.

REPLY TO UNION

Following is the first of a series of replies to letters published in the "College Union." The first letter was written by a member of the "College Union." Our Rose is a wild woman of the Freshman class. Watch her!

Dear Egg:

You said you're not feeling well. Our dog's been sick, too. You both must be up in the attic. Why isn't he out of his cage? I think we should see how you could eat any more for breakfast. Of course, I don't want you to "exhaust yourself" at my table. Maybe if you'd eat a little more you'd feel better.

The members of the "College Union" were kidding me about "that fellow with the spats." One of the fellows said that next time I see him I'd say "hello," but when his hair is parted and he wears spats, I'm going to save it. I guess they're all crazy about you. I'll give you a little advice; don't you love me, don't you? There, I'm getting serious. No, you won't follow your style like that. Every time they see you they're going to laugh here.

Speaking against my handwriting, why don't you tell all the girls at the College to put their names on the outside. And then you won't be disappointed. Ma always knows yours and says to me when I come in. "Here's a letter for you." Oh, gosh, Egg! I think you're an awful group. I gather all right by now that the Dean didn't want you to eat with him. I pass. I say, why don't you get a job? You can't be feeling well. I guess he says you'd better hang around for a little and get some interest in your work. Now we have less more pessimistic. In order that the present number of the Club may become better acquainted with it, this association has taken action at once. Our coach says who's going to win the first game you play with us but, it makes it easier when you know it's my college. You said you'd give me anything.

Well, Egg, I got to iron a middy blouse for glasses. My, I don't want a lot of 'em. I'll only be able to watch 'em once a week cause Ma says she don't want a lot of 'em. She's not too much for stamps. You'll write to me, you old-fashioned girl. Yours, till Dick asks me to marry him.

P. S. — Sorry, but all that "Save Baby" Ma used, on the doc. You'd probably need something stronger anyway. Pa swipes it at the store and the boss has been done twice.

MILNE HIGH SCHOOL DANCE

A very pleasant informal dance was given in the gymnasium at Quin­tilian and Sigma. Milne High School students filled the gym to the last Friday night. A number of number from college attended.

The dance was held at 8 p.m. Friday night in the gymnasium. The high school society and fraternity leaders, State College business, Christ­mas and colored. Hugh Reynolds' Jazz Orchestra furnished the music, including variety, and songs, Waltzing, Bethel, Dixie, and other songs. There were eight dances in each half. A great deal of fun was had by all. The evening closed with the winning of the dance by the Millie High School team.

The next dance will be held Saturday evening, December 4, at 8 o'clock, in the gymnasium. The dance will be open to all high school students, and will be closed at midnight. The admission will be fifty cents, and will close at midnight. The donation will be given to the Red Cross.
