Campus Babies Bring Parental Pride, Giggles, Toys, Cowboys Chesterfield To Initiate "Happy Birthday" Contest

In response to the announcement of the Annual "Happy Birthday" Contest, students are encouraged to participate. The contest involves recognizing and celebrating babies born to alumni. Each baby born to an alumna will be photographed and featured in the student newspaper. To enter, parents are asked to submit a photo and a brief biography of the child to the student newspaper office. The contest aims to foster a sense of community and pride among alumni and their families.
The Anti-Netherlands Friendship Committee was right, we feel, in deciding that one of the best ways to maintain the friendship between the United States and the Dutch city of Albany was to host the students and teachers of Nijmegen's schools in Albany.

In 1943, the city of Albany sent a shipload of food and medical supplies to the people of Nijmegen valued at $20,000,000 worth. In 1946, the State of New York supported New College in Nijmegen with a $10,000 gift, after their city had promised a similar gift to Albany. Nijmegen visited Albany in the Fall of 1947 to show its thanks.

By now, Nijmegen has for the most part reestablished normal relations. We have heard on the best authority that there has been a complete change of heart and a desire to make up for losses. The setting up of a new college has been announced in the Province of Gelderland, and the opening of a Dutch high school is expected in the near future.

There are many reasons why we feel that we will want to write letters to the students of Nijmegen colored colleges.

First, we represent Albany, and will help maintain the friendship between the United States and Nijmegen. We can tell the Dutch people how Albany is full of life, and will help them know our city as it is today. And in the hope that similar efforts by them in the city as it is today will lead to the same results that we have seen in Albany, we will want to write letters to the students of Nijmegen.
